Strike Will Go Into Effect Tonight Unless Some Unforeseen Move Develops.

WILL CURTAIL RAIL TRAFFIC

AMERICAN SHIPS AFFECTED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Faced by the almost practical certainty that 1,000,000 coal miners will go on strike Saturday night, the Government today announced the first step in its measures to combat the miners by placing an embargo on the export of coal, including bunker coal for foreign vessels.

Other measures include rationing of coal to householders, ordering them to burn one hundredweight less per week than hitherto; partial rationing of food, including a substantial reduction in the amount of sugar to be purchased by each family; lighting restrictions for cities, towns, gas and electric light plants; provisions for a future curtailment in railway traffic and several others.

From the Coal Controller's office late this evening, when any chances of a last-hour settlement seemed remotest, went forth general orders for reductions in all public services depending upon coal supplies. London and all the cities and towns, and even villages throughout the country, tonight will be subjected to the lighting restrictions which were found necessary during certain periods of the war. Municipal gas and electric light supplies will be cut down, and even private consumers will find that the power of both gas and electricity has been reduced to the lowest possible measure.

Apart from its disastrous effects upon industry and general conditions of the country, a coal strike at the approach of an ominous Winter may develop into a widespread struggle between trade unionism and the whole community.

Expect Struggle to be Brief.

Predictions as to how long the strike will last vary, but there is general expectation that, barring unlikely developments, the struggle will be over soon.

It is believed that a good many leaders of labor organizations outside the Miners' Federation are not disposed to interfere with what they think will turn out to be a salutary lesson for the miners. Other unions are jealous of the miners' big earnings and tired of their overbearing ways at labor congresses, and they will now let them go their own way.

The railwaymen and transport workers, who, with the miners, form the Labor Triple Alliance, are to meet on Monday to decide their attitude, but while some fear is expressed that many of the railmen may urge supporting the miners, there is a strong hope that they may remain neutral.

Opinion in official circles as to how long the strike will last is governed by views as to how far the miners can get support from co-operative societies, and the chances of the railwaymen and transport workers coming out in a sympathetic strike. It is known that the miners' unions are short of funds, especially in Yorkshire, where there was a strike last year, and it is understood the strikers are reckoning on getting goods on credit from local tradesmen and co-operative stores to enable them to pull through, but men who have gone into the question doubt whether there is much in this hope.

The wholesale co-operative society, which is behind the local co-operatives made a bad loss last year and is in no position to supply goods on credit to local stores, once their stocks are consumed, and the banks, which are already reducing credits all around, will be unwilling to come to the aid of the strikers.

To Curtail Rail Traffic.

There is more doubt as to the attitude the railwaymen will take. C. T. Cramp, their late President, is an extremist, and only a few days ago he gave out a statement that pointed to trouble, but it is declared in Government circles he has not the backing of the majority of the sober, solid men of his union. Moreover, J. H. Thomas is hurrying back from a trip to Czechoslovakia, and much is hoped from him in the way of moderation.

Unless the railroaders do go out the Government proposes to be quite comfortable about the situation, and it is not certain at the moment that the railwaymen, if they did strike, would not permit a certain number of food trains to be run.

Coal stocks throughout the country are very fair, and there is no doubt that in all large centres the cellars of private individuals are much fuller than usual.

Of course industry will suffer from creeping paralysis, and as the weeks go by there will be difficulties about gas and electricity, but there is not the smallest chance of any sudden crisis. Next week suburban trains will continue to run as usual, and so for a few days, at least, will the main line trains, as the experience of last year showed that there will be thousands of people away from home who will want to get back as soon as trouble starts. After a

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 15.—President de la Huerta received the foreign correspondents today and gave them a statement on his hopes for recognition. The statement undoubtedly is a result of the report of Roberto Pesqueira, his personal representative, just returned from Washington, who has stated frankly that the Mexican question can be settled only by an honest, friendly statement from the Mexican Government. Extreme significance is attached to the statement by Mexican opinion, and it is fully approved by all parties and regarded as a commencement of negotiatiosn to end enmity and misunderstanding.

Pesquiera is leaving for Washington tonight and it is reported that he has full authority to speak for the Mexican Government in a direct approach to the State Department. It is understood that Obregon and Calles joined in the preparation of the statement, and that De la Huerta speaks for the incoming administration, as well as his own Mexico is enthusiastic over the prospect of renewed relations and is hopeful of a complete understanding that will bind the two republics together.

The statement reads:

"The Government up to this time has not received any note containing conditions of the nature mentioned.

"Answering your second question, I am frank to say that in the remote event that such a note should be received, the Mexican Government would not under any circumstances accept conditions which would affect our national dignity. Truthfully I have never expected that President Wilson would assume any such attitude toward Mexico, particularly in view of the fact that I am convinced of the good faith that has ever guided his steps with regard to our nation.

It is unbelievable that the man who has devoted all of his energy to the service of the cause of humanity and who as a logical consequence has known how to appreciate the noble impulse that made the Mexican people overthrow Victoriano Huerta, the usurper, will abandon his sound principles and high ideals now that peace is a fact, now that law and order prevail in all of the States of our republic and that the Federal elections have just been held in strict accordance with democratic procedure, with the result that a citizen has been lawfully elected who will be supported by the faith and patriotism of the people—in a word, now that Mexico has already entered into a state of tranquillity and reconstructions.

"If at no time I could have expected any such attitude, I can do so even less now that President Wilson must be convinced that the industries of our country are reviving, that means of transportation are returning to their normal condition and that the citizens, but recently under arms, are back at the plow and in the factory, the shop and the mine, and that the Mexican people, united as never before, are courageously preparing to decide their future, confident in the sincere and frank policies upon which the new order of things is based.

"Our country opens its arms to foreigners in the same manner that it does to its own nationals, inviting them to come and share in our riches, to aid in the development of our national resources, and favors all enterprises willing to recognize the great truth that the natural resources of a nation belong to the nation itself. Mexico will know how to comply with what on so many occasions she has said, and which I now desire to repeat. Our republic will pay all that it justly owes in conformity with all of the recognized principles of international law.

"The otside world should be satisfied with this solemn promise. The misinterpretation of our constitution and our laws has served as a pretext for the enemies of President Wilson, who are at present working in the United States against the present regimé in Mexico and as a weapon in their fight in the political campaign in that country against the Administration. These enemies are endeavoring to make the American public believe that our Government has forcibly deprived foreigners of their property. There is nothing more untrue than this statement. Our laws are not confiscatory and I formally declare that it has never been thought to give them such an effect. The Mexican

DANIELS ORDERS HAITIAN INQUIRY AND PUNISHMENT

Courts-Martial for Accused Marines and Court of Inquiry on Commanders.

"UNLAWFUL KILLINGS" FEW

DANIELS NOT INFORMED

Secretary Says He Had No Knowledge of Barnett Charges Until Recently.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—That he had been entirely ignorant of the allegation made one year ago in a letter from General Barnett to the Marine Brigade Commander in Haiti, that there had been "indiscriminate killing" of Haitian bandits by American marines, was the assertion of Secretary Daniels on his return to Washington today from a campaign trip to North Carolina.

He was aware of the specific charges made against two marines in a court-martial trial, and himself indorsed the recommendations for further investigation, Mr. Daniels said, but the findings of such investigation, supposed to have been mailed in March last, never came to the department at Washington.

Anxious over the delay, the Secretary sent a board of officers to Haiti to investigate, and their findings were given out today. In these it developed that the Secretary has ordered courts martial and punishment for all persons, officers and enlisted men of the marines and gendarmerie d'Haiti, against whom exists any evidence of illegal or brutal conduct, and a further court of inquiry next week is to examine all the high officers of the Marine Corps connected with the Haiti administration.

In the report brought from Haiti by the board of officers it is stated that the evidence shows the illegal executions complained of to have been few and isolated, and that the conduct of the marines and gendarmerie, on the whole, has been exemplary and patriotic.

Calls Barnett to Testify.

General Barnett was in Washington until 6 o'clock last night, when he left for Chicago on an inspection trip en route to his new station on the Pacific Coast. Today telegraphic orders were sent by Secretary Daniels directing him to return to Washington immediately to testify before the proposed court of inquiry.

General John A. Lejeune, present Commandant General of the Marine Corps; Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, Colonel John A. Russell and other officers of the Marine Corps are also to be summoned before the court of inquiry.

Secretary Daniels has taken cognizance of an interview with Harry A. Franck, the noted traveler and authority on the West Indies, printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning, in which Mr. Franck blamed President Wilson and Secretary Daniels for failing to control the situation in the Black Republic, and in which he laid the Haitian killings to Southern men in the Marine Corps. Mr. Daniels said that Mr. Franck and also a Mr. Seligman of The Nation, who also made allegations, will be asked to tell the court of inquiry what they know about the situation.

Several marine officers believed by General Lejeune to be responsible for bad handling of the situation in the Department of North Haiti have been placed in confinement in Haiti pending trial by court-martial. Orders have been given to the Judge Advocate General of the navy to prepare charges and specifications against these officers for their trial by court-martial and the names of the officers will be published tomorrow.

Secretary Daniels asserted today that he regretted that "the exceptional incidents of wrongdoing had not been brought immediately to the attention of the department so that summary justice could have been meted out," and "that though delay in receiving the reports from Haiti had postponed the investigation and penalty for wrongdoing, the department would carry out its uniform policy of showing no toleration or mercy to men who disgrace the United States uniform."

The court of inquiry ordered today will be composed of officers of high rank and prominence in the navy. The President of the court will be Admiral Henry T. Mayo, former commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet. The other two members of the court will be Admiral James H. Oliver of the navy and Brig. Gen. Joseph H. Pendleton of the United States Marine Corps. The Court of Inquiry will be the most important that has met in Washington since the famous Sampson-Schley court, which grew out of the controversy over the success of the American Navy in the Battle of Santiago.

Mr. Daniels's Statement.

Asked about the statement that there had been "indiscriminate killings" in Haiti made in General Barnett's report, which was made public on Wednesday, Secretary Daniels said today:

"This report of General Barnett, made public the day after I received it, was the first intimation that ever came to me that anybody had said there had been 'indiscriminate killings' by marines or the gendarmerie in Haiti. That

Great Revolt in Moscow, Kremlin Invaded, Reports to German Foreign Office Say

ZURICH, Oct. 15.—According to an announcement of the German Foreign Ministry a great revolt is reported to have started in Moscow.

The Kremlin there is declared to have been invaded.

The seat of the Soviet Government was removed from Petrograd to Moscow on March 9, 1918. This government had been in existence since the Bolshevist coup d'état of the previous November; on Jan. 19 it had dissolved the Constituent Assembly by force and on March 3 its delegates had signed the German treaty of peace at Brest-Litovsk. Five days after it had occupied Moscow, an All-Russia Soviet Congress was made to assemble there, made up principally of local Bolsheviki, which ratified the Brest-Litovsk document by a vote of 453 to 30.

Lenin as Chief Commissioner, Trotzky as Foreign Commissioner, Ensign Kreylenko as War Commissioner, and other officials of the Supreme Council of the Soviets took up their residence and opened offices in the collection of domed buildings known as the Kremlin, the ancient palace of the Czars.

Even the war did not silence, but rather augmented the 800 large manufacturing establishments of the city employing over 70,000 hands, and smaller ones employing over 200,000, all out of a population of nearly 3,000,000, which is now said to be half that number, and with no work except that which brings scant daily food and lodging from the Food and Housing Commissions of the Soviet.

The Kremlin, one of the most revered historical places in Russia, dating back before Peter the Great, is triangular in form, and surrounded by a wall, which is surmounted by eighteen towers and pierced by five gates. Within, the most famous building is the Cathedral of the Assumption, in which all Russian monarchs since Ivan IV. have been crowned.

DRY ACT AFFECTS DIPLOMATS' DRINKS

BARS LIQUOR FROM TRAINS

But Diplomats Themselves, or Their Servants, May Transport It by Motor Trucks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The right or privilege enjoyed by foreign diplomatic representatives of immunity from the examination of their baggage by customs officials on their arrival in the United States has been curtailed by the Treasury Department. This modification of what was considered an inviolable principle in the relations between nations—the principle that the persons and personal belongings of diplomatic representatives and members of their households were not subject to the application of civil law—is the outcome of the administration of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution and the Volstead act for its enforcement.

The curtailment of diplomatic privilege has caused much perturbation in the foreign diplomatic body in Washington. It has a wider application than the examination of the baggage of arriving diplomatic representatives, for the Federal Government has applied it to the transportation of wines and liquors to diplomatic establishments in Washington.

On Oct. 11 Jouett Shouse, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, whose functions include the enforcement of the internal revenue and customs laws, issued Order 38510 to collectors of customs at ports of the United States, which directed them to examine the baggage of diplomatic representatives arriving in the country for the purpose of ascertaining whether any intoxicating beverages were contained therein. The purpose of the order, it was explained at the Treasury Department today, was to prevent violation of the provision of the Volstead act prohibiting the transportation of intoxicants in American territory, and not with the intention of seizing liquor owned and imported by diplomatic representatives.

The order, it was said, was designed to protect common carriers, which would be subject to penalty if they assisted in the transportation of intoxicants. There had been no curtailment, it was explained, of the diplomatic privilege of importing personal belongings without payment of duties or confiscation, but the object of the examination of baggage was to prevent possible violation of the law through shipment of intoxicants through the territory of the United States on the common carriers, whose employes would be amenable to punishment for assisting in their transportation.

In connection with the new regulation, it was disclosed today that shortly before the order of Assistant Secretary Shouse was issued Bainbridge Colby, the Secretary of State, had sent formal notice to all embassies and legations in Washington that the transportation in American territory of intoxicating liquors intended for diplomatic establishments was a violation of law and that such intoxicants should not be transported unless personally by persons who were members of diplomatic establishments.

As a result of this notification Ambassadors and Ministers and other officials connected with their establishments were confronted with the likelihood of going as dry as the rest of the country. A means has been found, however, to overcome the difficulty.

Truck Driver Must Be Alien.

Under the arrangement effected, a motor truck is procured and driven from Washington to New York by an employe of an embassy or legation who is a foreign citizen or subject and a member of the household of the Ambassador or Minister. The truck, on arrival in New York, must be driven to the pier at which the diplomatic consignment of liquor has arrived. This must be deposited in the truck by the employe of the diplomatic establishment, who must then drive the motor truck back to Washington and deliver its load to the embassy or legation. This employe must not have any assistance unless it is given by a member of the diplomatic household.

This device to comply with the requirements of American law, as interpreted by the State Department and the Treasury Department, has caused much dissatisfaction in diplomatic establish-

'CURB' WHISKY TRAIL LEADS TO 2 ARRESTS

LEADER OF GANG IS SOUGHT

Prohibition Director, After Trip to Washington, Denies That He Intends to Quit.

Evidence of the existence of a bootleggers' "curb market" in the vicinity of Police Headquarters was established yesterday, according to Frank L. Boyd, Supervising Prohibition Enforcement Agent for this State, through the arrest of two men on a charge of transporting alcohol without a permit. Ralph Fasulo, 27 years old, of 151 Mott Street, and Charles Bosco, 27 years old, of 634 East Fourteenth Street, were arrested in an automobile, owned by Fasulo, as they were about to cross the Cortlandt Street ferry to Jersey City with fifty gallons of alcohol in ten cans.

Four of Mr. Boyd's agents were seated in an automobile near Mulberry and Broome Streets shortly after noon yesterday when they noticed an automobile of the delivery type pull up to the southwest corner. Two well-dressed men placed several bundles on the seat beside Bosco, the chauffeur. The prohibition enforcement agents drove their car slowly by the delivery car, and observed that the bundles were marked "glass."

They continued down the street in their automobile to divert suspicion, and waited there until the delivery automobile started. They followed the mysterious automobile to the ferry, where they held up Bosco and Fasulo, who was seated beside the chauffeur, and demanded to know the contents of the bundles.

The agents opened one of the bundles and found a can containing five gallons of alcohol. Fasulo and Bosco expressed surprise when the agents called their attention to the fact, and said they had been informed by a merchant who had hired the vehicle the bundles contained glass. Later the men were held by Commissioner Hitchcock for a hearing.

In the quest for the bootleggers in control of the "curb market" the prohibition enforcement officials learned that a man known as "Tom" was the dominating figure in the conspiracy to sell contraband liquor. The man, it was said, formerly was the head of a band of bootleggers that did an extensive business in the sale of liquors in this city, Newark and Connecticut.

Several of Mr. Boyd's agents combed the neighborhood of the "curb market" yesterday in the hunt for "Tom," but up to a late hour last night, it was asserted, they had not found him.

Few Permits Signed.

For the first time since Sept. 1 Charles R. O'Connor, Federal Prohibition Director for this State, yesterday signed a few permits for the handling of liquor. In making this announcement O'Connor explained that some whisky had been removed from warehouses on permits since Sept. 1, but they were permits that had been issued prior to that date and were good for ninety days.

O'Connor announced that it was hoped to further curb the use of forged permits. The most recent step in that direction, he said, was instructions from Washington requiring the distilleries, before filling orders, to submit permits to the Federal Prohibition Director.

Rumors have been current that the office of Federal Prohibition Director in this State was to become vacant, either by resignation, removal or transfer. These rumors, which had reached Washington, had been so persistent that O'Connor issued a statement yesterday in which he said he had no intention of resigning now. He was apparently actuated in this decision by a letter from Commissioner Williams asking that he not resign, for O'Connor said that if he should follow his own personal inclinations he would resign.

According to Federal Supervising Prohibition Agent Boyd investigations by the prohibition agents have disclosed that purveyors have been using water very freely in the stuff they have been selling. A man going into the whisky business nowadays, Boyd said, first gathers up some discarded quart bottles, labels and stamps them with counterfeits, and then goes to a hydrant.

Late Thursday afternoon agents Hollman, Conniff, Greene and Culhan seized eighty cases and two cartons of whisky in a shack in the rear of a garage in East 136th Street. Charles Frank, the only person found on the premises, was summoned to appear in court yesterday, but failed to appear. No one, it was said, had a permit for the whisky.

Soon after Samuel Silverman of 216 Grand Street, Jersey City, and his brother, Jacob, were released under $2,500 bail by a United States Commissioner in Hoboken on a charge of violating the Volstead act, Samuel Silverman was rearrested on a similar charge after the agents had visited his home and found several cases of liquor.

COX ATTACKS PLEA OF 31 PRO-LEAGUERS; QUOTES HARDING

Says Des Moines Speech Stated Senator's Position and Signers Should Not Back Him.

WILSON NOT "UNBENDING"

ADDRESSES DETROIT CROWD

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 15.—Governor Cox came here tonight, after a day of campaigning in Ohio before large and enthusiastic audiences, and answered at once the statement issued in New York last night by thirty-one pro-League Republicans, including Root, Hoover, Wickersham and Straus, who explained their support of Senator Harding.

Governor Cox declared the position of these Republicans "astonishing." He held that if Harding was not telling the truth in asserting that he was against the League the signers of the statement should, as a matter of ethics, refuse to support him, and if they believed him, Governor Cox added, he did not see how they could support Harding in the face of the world crisis.

The Governor in his answer to the thirty-one signers said:

"The gentlemen say the question is whether we shall join an agreement containing the exact provisions, negotiated by President Wilson, or an agreement which omits or modifies some of its provisions. It is to be inferred that any one who stands for the covenant as adopted, with or without reservations, is friendly to the League, and that any one who is against the covenant, with or without reservations, is clearly opposed to the League.

"Senator Harding in his Des Moines speech said: 'Governor Cox favors going into the League and I favor staying out. It is not interpretation, but rejection I am seeking.'

"I leave the people of America to decide the case just as these gentlemen have presented it. I submit in answer the spoken words of Senator Harding. If these gentlemen do not accept what he has said to the American people, then it is past my understanding how they can, as a matter of ethics, advocate his candidacy. If, on the other hand, they do accept in good faith what he has said, then I cannot see how they can, as friends of the League, advocate his candidacy.

Denies Wilson Was Unbending.

"They attempt to justify their most astonishing position on the theory that President Wilson was unbending in his attitude on the League. On this subject, they say, Mr. Wilson insisted upon the agreement absolutely unchanged. These gentlemen, upon reflection, must realize that this is not justified by the facts.

"Senator Hitchcock proposed reservations to the covenant as folows:

> First—The right of any member nation to be the sole judge as to whether his obligations, on retirement from the League, have been performed.
> Second—The exemption from the consideration of the League of any matter considered in international law a domestic question or one relating to its internal or coastwise affairs.
> Third—Nothing in the League is to be construed as impairing the principle of the Monroe Doctrine.
> Fourth—The advice mentioned in Article X. is "merely advice which each member nation is free to acept or reject," and in the United States this advice can only be acepted by action of Congress under our Constitution.
> Fifth—The equalization of the six to one vote in the Assembly, which was intended to reassure our people.

"President Wilson, under date of Feb. 7, 1920, in a letter to Senator Hitchcock said: 'I am happy to add, therefore, I have once more gone over the reservations proposed by yourself, the copy of which I return herewith, and I am glad to say that I can accept them as they stand.'

"In the face of this, how is it possible for any group of men to say that the President insisted upon the agreement absolutely unchanged.

"If things continue as they have been going for the last ten days, it will be a difficult matter to determine whether the people are more amused at Senator Harding himself or at the desperation of his sponsors. A frantic effort is being made to stem the tide of resentment. It is flowing in every community.

Drawing on "Last Reserves."

"The Senatorial oligarchy has apparently drawn on its last reserves, and yet Mr. Root, pre-eminent and distinguished as he is (and no one places higher estimate on his statesmanlike quilties than I do), is unable to bolster up the wiggling and wabbling candidate.

"After a long period of vacillation the people have taken him at his spoken word at Des Moines, and upon this the campaign will be fought from now on. Senator Harding is against the League with or without reservations. Upon that we are willing to rest our case."

Urges League Passports For Diplomatic Officials

PARIS, Oct. 15.—How to overcome the difficulties of travel between various countries is being considered by the conference of experts called by the League of Nations. Twenty-four nations, including the Central Powers, represented at the sessions, which opened today.

The British delegation is urging yearly visés at a nominal charge, uniform in all countries, and the elimination of passport examination on the outward journey. It advocates the issuance of League of Nations passports, good in all countries, as a substitute for the present diplomatic passports for officials. The British favor customs examination only in the country of destination.

COLBY SAYS LEAGUE HAS NO SUBSTITUTE

'BITTER-ENDERS' KNOW THIS

So Are Willing to Let Nominee Qualify Rejection, While Such 'Dupes' as Taft Back Him.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 15.—Members of the League of Nations are prevented by Article XX. of the covenant from entering into any association of nations, such as has been proposed as a substitute for the League by Senator Harding, declared Secretary Colby in a speech here tonight.

Quoting the article as saying "this covenant is accepted as abrogating all obligations and understandings inter se which are inconsistent with the terms thereof, and solemnly undertake that they will not hereafter enter into any engagements inconsistent with terms thereof," Mr. Colby asked if Senator Harding proposed to negotiate "his peculiar and amorphous association or league or what not" with England or France or any of the forty nations now members of the League." He went on:

"They are bound not to enter into discussions of the question with him. They are bound not to enter into any agreement with us inconsistent with the covenant of the League of Nations. Under Mr. Harding's leadership we would be riding for a fall, destined to inevitable rebuff"

At another point he said:

"There is not anybody with whom Senator Harding could form such an association as he proposes, except our late enemies, Germany, Austria and Turkey, or Mexico, and he would not succeed in interesting any one of these nations in his association, because each one of them is desirous of joining the League of Nations and will do so as soon as permitted. Therefore, there is no alternative to membership in the League except complete isolation for the United States—isolation against the world."

Relative to the League as the great issue of this campaign, Mr. Colby said:

"The Republican Party knew the strength of this issue. They pretended it was not the foremost issue. Their speakers were instructed to deny that this was the fact; but you cannot coquet with facts. The fate of facts is never in our hands. Facts take care of themselves. The fact that the League of Nations was the foremost issue of the campaign forced Mr. Harding off the porch. It spoiled the Republican plan for his campaign. The diurnal issuance of milk-fed platitudes had to be given up.

Advantages of the Porch.

"There is something nice and comfortable about a porch. You can hold on to the railing and you can hold on to your manuscript, and it is hard to heckle a man who crouches behind a manuscript and is not talking, and is not thinking, but is only reading. There is not much suggestion of conviction about a manuscript, and if a man does not speak with earnestness and conviction there is not much incentive to the earnest heckler in his audience.

"Something had to be done, however. Harding had to take a campaign position on the League. Cox had the only position worth while. It was clear even to Harding that the people were in favor of a league. So he threw up hurriedly some shallow earthworks consisting of the distinction between the League and a league. Harding is in favor of an association. He is in favor of some organization tending to reduce the chances of war. What the nature of the association is he not only fails to state but says he does not know.

"The Republican candidate need not look for much help from the 'best minds' of his party. They are all in favor of the League. Mr. Elihu Root is working for the Council of the League of Nations, and has performed distinguished and important labors in its service. Mr. Taft has said that he is in favor of Article X. and of the whole League, and that on so momentous an issue a man should support the League, even if it involves a sundering of old party ties.

"Mr. Wickersham adheres to the League of Nations, President Lowell of Harvard, the meek, though flouted, Hoover, ex-Ambassador Oscar Straus—they are all in favor of the League, restrained in their course only by that enfeebling servility to the party lash

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—In a speech in which he endeavored to set at rest all fears that he proposed to scrap every feature of the League of Nations, Senator Harding said here tonight that he sought to unite representatives of American public opinion upon either a modification of or a substitute for the League.

"There is no issue drawn between the President's League and no association," the Senator said to 5,000 citizens in Tomlinson Hall tonight. "There never has been. But we are against the League which was negotiated and interwoven with the Peace Treaty in defiance of friendly American warning."

As on his previous Middle Western speaking tour, including the Des Moines speech, the temper of which he holds has been misinterpreted, Senator Harding centred his objections to the covenant upon Article X. He denounced the suggestion that Congress might not fulfil the moral obligation in that article.

"Such a proposal," he said, "ranks among the most contemptible ever presented to an honest people."

Elsewhere in his address he said:

"Those who are leading us toward a precipice now ask to be perpetuated in power. Sensible men and women will wonder at the assumption of those who, having no practical program to offer at home, no constructive proposal to make for America, should be going the length and breadth of the land, proposing that the League of Nations as negotiated by the President should be adopted."

Says Senate Would Block Cox.

Senator Harding declared that even if Governor Cox should be elected, he would be unable to secure the consent of the Senate to ratification of the treaty containing Article X. Such an attempt, he said, would result in another stalemate and the foreign affairs of this country would progress no further than they had since the peace conference.

"Our opponents," he said, "are presenting an impossible program which they could not put into existence, even though they were in power."

The Senator declared that European nations realized that there could be no effective international association without the United States and that they had asked this country to take the lead in proposing changes.

Two qualifications should be placed upon American suggestions for a league or an association of nations, Senator Harding said. First, America's contribution should be something that actually would prevent war. Second, the right must be reserved for this country to exercise its own conscience.

The Senator quoted from his speech of Aug. 28 which, as a coincidence, was addressed to a delegation from the same part of Indiana in which he was heard tonight, and from his Des Moines speech of last week, in which he proposed peace through justice rather than armed force. He said that the formulation of an association of nations was too great a task for one man to take alone.

Holds World Flux Bars Fixed Plan.

Explaining his reason for offering no more specific program at this time, Senator Harding said:

"One very good reason why our country cannot now specify a plan for our relationship in an association of nations is because the world's affairs are in a state of flux and a detailed plan today may become useless tomorrow and embarrass those who have committed themselves to carry it out."

Tonight's speech came at the end of a long day of rear platform talks at train stops across Indiana on the way here from Louisville. Senator Harding joined his candidacy with the Congressional tickets and emphasized what he held to be Republican agreement with his foreign policies by references to the statement printed in this morning's papers signed by thirty-one prominent men who have been associated with programs for international understanding. In virtually every speech today Senator Harding spoke in behalf of Senator Watson, who is opposed for re-election by ex-Senator Thomas Taggart.

Speech at Indianapolis.

Senator Harding, in his speech here, said, in part:

"We have come, I believe, to the threshold of a new era. I ask you and I ask all Americans to look forward to a constructive and progressive program to a practical program, to a program which has the characteristics necessary to any good American program, namely, that it shall have been made by the advice and the will of the people and shall have a united America behind it.

"We have seen an Administration bring us to the eve of disaster in which we must all share, first in 1914, and now we are being led toward another crisis of stagnancy and unemployment.

Those who are leading us toward a precipice now ask to be perpetuated. To this plea to remain in power I believe that the answer of the American people is already made.

"I believe that the American people hold it as a piece of common sense that no man shall be allowed to write a third chapter of the Democratic Book of Destruction. It is common sense for a selfish reason, namely, that we do not want American business, which is mostly small business and everybody's business, driven onto the rocks. But there is another reason of common sense which makes every good American draw back from the prospect of our continuing to set a bad example to a perplexed and distracted world. Americans are practical, and not filmy idealists, and I believe I speak for them when I say that we have in this country of ours more regard for example than for preaching, and a higher esteem for performance than for mere meddling.

"Because this is the situation as we all see it, can it be any wonder that our opponents have made a concerted attempt to turn the eyes of the American people away from the spectacle of mismanagement of their own affairs to an extensive discussion of America's obligation to the other nations of the world?

Denies Cox Can Bind the People.

"We may as well be utterly frank and say that a Democratic President, even if he were elected, would not be able to bind the American people nor mortgage their conscience and their honor under Article X., for the simple reason that he could not summon sufficient votes in the Congress of the United States to support his program. His attempt would result in another stalemate, and an unwilling America would find herself just where she has been ever since the bungled negotiations at Paris.

"I have said repeatedly that when elected I will immediately summon the best minds in America, representing an all-American opinion, to consult and advise as to America's relationship to the present association of nations, to modifications of it or substitutes for it.

"Let me say that I am committed to a policy of America doing everything that she can, acting either independently or with other nations, to prevent future wars. I place only two qualifications upon her contribution. First of all, her contribution should actually be something to prevent war. We must not involve ourselves in a form of association which actually creates more dissension and more wars than it suppresses or avoids.

"The second qualification I place upon America's contribution, and I have said this unceasingly, is that America must retain the right to exercise her own conscience.

Recalls Speech of Aug. 28.

"It is a strange thing that the President and those who desire to succeed him, with the adoption of his inflexible and lost program, should only be able to consider international relations in terms of war. I said on Aug. 28, speaking of international relationships in peace:

> If, in the failed League of Versailles, there can be found machinery which the tribunal can use properly and advantageously, by all means let it be appropriated. I would even go further. I would take and combine all that is good and excise all that is bad from both organizations. This statement is broad enough to include the suggestion that if the League, which has heretofore riveted our considerations and apprehensions, has been so entwined and interwoven into the peace of Europe, that its good must be preserved in order to stabilize the peace of that continent, then it can be amended or revised so that we may still have a remnant of the world's aspirations of 1918 builded into the world's highest conception of helpful co-operation in the ultimate realizations.

"I am for co-operation among nations. I know full well that America, whether we look to it merely from sentiment, or whether we look at it from the point of good sense, must take her part in the world's affairs.

"We are not unmindful of the new order, and we have never failed humanity nor turned our backs on real progress. But we hold there is no need of an American surrender of sovereignty, to play a righteous nation's part, that super-government is neither necessary not practical, that we are not called to mortgage America to keep faith with mankind.

"Much Good" in New Fellowship.

"The Senate and our party have recognized much good in a new world fellowship and co-operation, but we insistently reject all that menaces America. Article X. is a menace, and super-government is repugnant to every American ideal. To be practical we must separate the wheat from the chaff.

"There is no issue drawn between the President's League and no league or association. There never has been. But we are against the League which was negotiated and interwoven with the Peace Treaty in defiance of friendly American warning.

"Europe has admitted the supreme error. Europe has said there can be no effective league without us, and has asked that America suggest the new order and take the lead in making such a plan for proper association and co-operation that we may serve the world and be secure at home."

Disclaims Baltimore Ousting.

Senator Harry S. New of Indiana introduced Senator Harding at tonight's meeting. The aisles of Tomlinson Hall were filled with standing people.

"There has been much ado," Senator Harding began, "about a citizen having been arrested in Baltimore at a meeting I was addressing. That was not the fault of the Repubican Party, nor was it the fault of the candidate."

"I should say not!" shouted a man.

"The police force, in sympathy with the Democratic Party, removed the man from the hall. I'm sorry the man was arrested, for this is still free America."

The Senator challenged William G. McAdoo's speech in Cleveland last night, in which it was said that the only chance of reducing taxation was for America to enter the League. "Send 300,000 surplus Federal employes home, reduce the cost of government, and taxation will be reduced," the Senator said.

"We went to war for American rights," the Senator went on, "but we didn't go to war until the 1916 election was won."

The crowd cheered for a minute. "He kept us out of war!" some shouted.

The candidate referred to Mr. McAdoo's assertion that the Senator had expressed himself as in favor of compulsory military training, "at times referred to as conscription."

"He might have been just and fair and said when and where I said it," Senator Harding went on. "I believe in military training, but that such training as we have be voluntary. I do believe in universal compulsory military service in time of war, and I probably made that statement when we were enacting the army bill in the Senate in 1917. I was urging universal service because they wouldn't even permit us to send a division of volunteers under Colonel Roosevelt."

There was another demonstration from the crowd.

"What about General Wood?" was shouted from the gallery, and the floor took up the cry.

Lack of War Preparation Denounced.

"We sat silent and paralyzed for political effect for two years," Senator Harding continued, "when official Washington and all America saw the war clouds mounting higher and higher. War was inevitable. Yet, in spite of that conviction, there was never a finger raised to prepare America for national defense. Why, they didn't even go to the length of preparing our little Regular Army."

"Oh, we paid for it," Senator Harding went on bitterly, "in costly aftermath. We paid for it more than in the loss of billions of treasure—in the sacrifice of thousands of precious American lives.

"What a crime it was? I remember visiting a training camp watching the flower of our American manhood drilling with wooden guns. A service man told me today, one who saw it, that when our first divisions were sent to the lines for a second time they were supplemented by men never taught to fire a rifle."

This brought more cheering.

"I thought that there would be some here who could bear me out," Senator Harding responded. "That's a betrayal of American manhood, to sacrifice the sons of the Republic to the winning of an election."

Cites Backing of League Upholders.

In his speech at Seymour, Ind., in the morning Senator Harding urged his hearers to read the statement supporting him signed by prominent men, most of them Republicans.

"I note," he said, "that a considerable number of the notable and influential friends of an association of nations—the leaders of thought in that aspiration—have pointed out the hopelessness of the Democratic proposal and have frankly said the hope of real accomplishment lies in Republican success. This is not surprising. It develops no inconsistency. It only emphasizes the correctness of our platform and the growing approval of the construction put upon it throughout the campaign.

"The League covenant as negotiated and insisted upon by the President and accepted, approved and defended by the Democratic candidate is impossible. We will not have it. The extreme menace in it is now recognized in Europe and denounced by the leading advocates of world peace in America."

Urging the election of a Republican Congress to back up a Republican President, Senator Harding said at New Albany:

"Let me tell you, my countrymen, the Republican Senate saved your nationality in the last year. There are a good many people on the public platform today who are inveighing against what they term the Senatorial oligarchy. Well, the Senate did thwart the will of an autotcratic President, my countrymen. The Senate did save to America the determination of its own course in the world, and the Senate is going to continue to perform its constitutional functions and advise with the next President on how to play our part in the world and best serve humanity and promote the peace of the world."

Says Republican Politics Is Clean.

"It was my good fortune to have voted for the suffrage amendment," he said, "and I do not want ever to have to regret it. The only thing in the world that could make me regret voting for woman suffrage would be for the women to undertake to have a party of their own.

"Let me tell you, women of Indiana, if you want to play your part effectively, come into the parties and play it, and don't you believe that politics is a muddy business. It is always clean in the Republican Party, I want you to know. And if at any time we fail to be all that we ought, you help make us be all that we ought to be."

Upon the arrival of Senator and Mrs. Harding in Indianapolis the streets were lined with cheering people as they motored to their rooms at the Hotel Severin. At the station the police had difficulty in holding lanes open for the candidate to pass from his private car to an automobile.

Senator and Mrs. Harding stood in a receiving line at the Severin shortly after their arrival in the afternoon and shook hands with several thousand people. Tomlinson Hall was filled two hours before the Senator was scheduled to speak tonight, and he addressed an overflow meeting of several thousand packed in Monument Circle beneath a balcony on the Hotel English. The Harding party spent the night here and will leave for St. Louis tomorrow.

ON BOARD SENATOR HARDING'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Oct. 15.—The announcement was made today that Senator Harding would deliver addresses in both Buffalo and Rochester, N. Y., on Oct. 21. No other Eastern speaking dates will be made.

COLBY SAYS LEAGUE HAS NO SUBSTITUTE

Here be quoted Article XX. as proving that the members of the League could not enter the association that Harding suggests, and added that the candidate was talking "arrant nonsense" when he proposes such an organization. He went on:

"Thus it is that Senator Borah and Senator Johnson, the implacable foes of any league, are content with Mr. Harding's attitude. They are willing that he should weakly qualify his statement in Iowa the other day that he favors the rejection of the League by saying, as he did the following day, that he is in favor, however, of some sort of a league.

"Borah and Johnson know that what Harding says is void of meaning. Borah and Johnson have exhaustively studied the covenant of the League of Nations. They do not need to be reminded of Article XX. They know it is in the covenant. They know that Mr. Harding may prattle about some other kind of League. But they also know, as Mr. Harding may know, but I fear does not, that there is no alternative to membership in the present League of Nations except complete isolation for the United States—isolation against the world. Borah and Johnson favor isolation.

"Do you suppose for an instant that this dearly purchased harmony which for the moment rests upon the surface of the Republican Party would be preserved if Borah and Johnson thought that Harding would slip from under and commit their party and the country to participation in any league? These uncompromising Senators know that it makes little difference what Harding and the Republican Party may do by way of alternative to the present League of Nations. There is not any nation in the world which, in the light of Article XX., will agree with Mr. Harding or his party on the formation of such a league.

"Borah and Johnson are content. Are the amiable dupes of party regularity, such as Mr. Taft, equally content?

"The issue is as clear and limpid as the daylight. If you are in favor of joining with the conscience and the enlightenment of the world in an endeavor to repress war, to avoid its recurring scourge, to safeguard your children against the anguish and the bloody sweat of modern battle, you must be for the only League of Nations that there is in the world, the only League of Nations that there can be, the only League of Nations that there will be."

HARDING'S PROPOSAL ATTACKED BY PALMER

Defends League Covenant in Opening His Campaign for Cox at Jersey City.

Senator Harding's proposal for an association of nations as a substitute for the League plan is "ridiculous to the point of absurdity" and "futile to the point of impossibility," Attorney General Palmer said in Jersey City last night, in his first speech of the Cox campaign. Provisions of the existing League covenant as signed, by thirty-nine nations, he said, would not allow them to consider American proposals for a new association.

Mr. Palmer said by treaty agreements to submit differences between the United States and other nations to arbitration, to remove warships from the great lakes and to defend the epublic of Panama against aggression the Nnited States had several times formally limited the right of Congress to use or refrain from using the country's war power.

"The covenant of the League of Nations deals with exactly the same subjects as the treaties mentioned," continued Mr. Palmer. "As these treaties entered into by the United States with the individual nations concerned did not violate our sovereignty, so in the same way a covenant of the League of Nations which provides for the very same contingencies does not mean an invasion of the sovereignty of the United States. It is merely a worldwide extension of a well-settled American policy."

$25,000 FOR PROOF LEAGUE MEANS WAR

REPUBLICANS MAY DECIDE

Competition Open to Harding, Johnson and Every Other Citizen of the United States.

A prize of $25,000 was offered yesterday, through the Democratic National Committee, to the first person in the United States who shall prove to the satisfaction of a qualified jury of twelve citizens, all Republicans if desired, that the League of Nations would abridge the sovereignty of America and force our soldiers to fight in foreign wars if the United States should join the League.

The terms of the offer was made public by Professor Irving Fisher, of Yale, Chairman of the Pro-League Independents, the organization of Independents and Republicans who are working for the adoption of the League. Professor Fisher announced that the offer was open to Senator Warren G. Harding, Senator Hiram W. Johnson, Senator William E. Borah, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, "or any other man, woman or child of the 105,000,000 persons in the United States."

Under the terms of the offer, Professor Fisher explained, essays must be received by mail or wire at 17 East 41st Street, New York City, by Oct. 22; each member of the jury of twelve citizens will be appointed jointly by George White and Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Democratic and Republican National Committees, respectively, and in case the jury is not unanimous, half the prize may still be awarded, provided a majority of the jurors so vote. Should Chairman Hays desire, the entire jury may be Republicans.

Professor Fisher named these conditions:

"First, that the essays in competition shall be received by us, whether by mail or by wire, at 17 East Forty-first Street, New York City, on or before Oct. 22.

"Second, that each member of the jury of award be appointed jointly by Mr. White and Mr. Hays, the Democratic and Republican chairmen, but all to be Republicans if desired by Mr. Hays.

"Third, in case the jury is not unanimous, half the prize may be awarded, provided a simple majority of the jurors so vote."

No response to the offer had been received from Chairman Hays by Professor Fisher last night.

Republicans are enrolling with the pro-League Independents in increased numbers every day, it was announced yesterday. From all sections of the country lifelong Republicans write in that they are determined to desert Senator Harding on the League of Nations issue and vote for Governor Cox. Many such announcements are received from ex-service men.

Morton D. Hull, for ten years a Republican Representative in the Illinois State Legislature, sent word that he had repudiated Senator Harding and the Republican ticket. Professor Henry P. Smith of Union Theological Seminary, a lifelong Republican, wrote that he had voted for many Republican Presidents and hoped to vote for many more, "but this is the only time I will ever have the opportunity to vote for the League of Nations."

"Choosing a President is a passing matter, but the League of Nations goes on forever," wrote Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, writer, suffragist and former Republican.

The following letter was received by Professor Fisher from Miss Mabel Choate, daughter of the late Joseph H. Choate:

"About two weeks ago you asked me to become a member of an organization of Pro-League Republicans and Independents. At that time I had not definitely made up my mind to vote for Mr. Cox. My mind has been made up for me by Mr. Harding, and I am writing to say that I will gladly join your association. Voting for Cox seems to be the only hope for the League of Nations, and, as I believe that the league is the parmount issue of the day, I see no other course open to me."

Miss Choate was a candidate last June for delegate to the National Republican Convention from the Seventeenth Congressional District as a Hoover supporter, opposing Herbert Parsons, the Republican organization candidate, who also has announced his support of Governor Cox.

Mr. Parsons will make his first speech for Cox and the League of Nations at a non-partisan meeting in Flushing, L. I., next Monday night. The subject of his address will be: "Which: Shall We Send to Europe Two Statesmen to Arbitrate or 2,000,000 Soldiers to Fight?" Other speakers will be Raymond B. Fosdick, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman.

BECK SAYS LEAGUE IS AN 'ABSURDITY'

Calls Article X. "Most Amazing Proposition Ever Put Before American People."

ANSWER TO ENVOY DAVIS

Tells Cooper Union Audience Real Issue Is Between George Washington and Wilson.

Characterizing the League of Nations as an attempt at the creation of a coercive super-State and as such a "philosophical absurdity," James M. Beck spoke last night in Cooper Union in reply to John W. Davis, Ambassador to Great Britain, who made the argument for the League there the preceding evening in the debate held under the Public Lecture Bureau of the Board of Education.

Mr. Beck quoted the farewell address of George Washington, advising against the United States "implicating" itself in the ordinary affairs of Europe, and said he believed the time had not come when we could form more than an entente cordiale or association of nations, apparently having in mind the recent suggestion of Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican nominee for President.

"This is a quarrel or an issue between George Washington and Wilson," said Mr. Beck. "Their ideas cannot be reconciled. Each is the anthithesis of the other. I venture the prediction that when the returns are in on Nov. 2 you and I will see in no unmeaning or equivocal way that the immortal spirit of George Washington has been again triumphant.

"We ought not and will not go back to a policy of isolation. In fact, isolation has never been the historic policy of the American people. But the distinction between an entente cordiale or an association of nations and a coercive super-State is this: The coercive super-State requires the constituent States to surrender a part of their sovereignty to a central power. That is what this covenant unquestionably does. But an entente cordiale is simply the recognition between nations of kindred ideals, sympathies and interests, with community of purpose and a generous recognition of a benevolent purpose, if a crisis arises, that they will consider how far in good conscience and justice they should co-operate."

Answers Davis's Statements.

Mr. Beck replied at length to some of the statements made by Ambassador Davis and criticized him for not discussing the text of the covenant. He denied Mr. Davis's assertion that the covenant was American doctrine, and denied that it could accomplish the objects which Mr. Davis said it sought—disarmament, prevention of war, arbitration and abolition of secret treaties.

"Abolition of war by this League reminds me, if you will pardon a story, of what I was told one day when I went down to Gettysburg," said Mr. Beck. "They told me that on the few days that preceded the battle at that place the good old German Burgess of Gettysburg learned that the armies of Meade and Lee were converging on the town and he thought he ought to do something. Thereupon he consulted the town ordinances and found a pertinent passage, just as pertinent as abolition of war by the League, and he sent word to General Meade and General Lee that it was against the ordinances of the town of Gettysburg to fire off firearms within the borough limits."

"Is that remark a satire?" asked Mr. Beck when the laughter died down. "I was in Europe last Summer. Its security was shaken. The Russian armies were at the gates of Warsaw. It was believed in London, Paris and Rome that if the Russian army entered Warsaw and dictated peace there might be an end to Western civilization.

"Did anyone think of the League of Nations? Why, it was at San Sebastian discussing drugs or something. It was recognized perfectly well that for it to say to Poland or Russia that they should not follow out their death grapple would have been as impotent as the Burgess of Gettysburg on the occasion to which I referred."

Calls Article X. "Amazing."

Mr. Beck declared the much debated Article X. to be the "most amazing proposition ever presented to the American people.' He asserted that it constituted an obligation for every member of the League to guarantee existing boundary lines, even to the point of war, saying that the covenant left it to the League Council to determine the means, and that another article provided for contributions of military, naval and air forces and of financial power.

He also asserted that the League grouped nations into four classes; first, the five nations with permanent seats on the Council; second, the four nations holding temporary seats at the discretion of the "Big Five"; third, the other member nations, and, fourth, the nations outside, among which he said would be the United States.

Mr. Beck said this constituted a challenge to the rights of small nations, the basic cause of the great war, and that already the smaller nations of Europe, like Czechoslovakia, Poland and Serbia, were restive under the attempted domination of the League. He also said that the covenant provided for the coercion of nations not a member of the League and bound all the members to go to the help of a member nation in case of war with a non-member.

"Can't you see," he said, "that here is a false and rotten foundation for the League? It is a foundation upon which no superstructure can be built. It is an odious and offensive discrimination which will not only excite the hatred of the smaller nations, but has done so already."

Mr. Beck said he agreed with Ambassador Davis that there had been a diminution of American prestige in Europe. "But it is not because we have failed to enter the League, as Mr. Davis said," he added, "but because we forced the League down Europe's throat.

Criticises American "Meddling."

"Having forced it down their throats, we then proceeded to settle questions with which this country had neither interest, sympathy nor capacity for sound judgment. It was the intermeddling of America in the Paris Conference that muddied its waters, clouded its peace, postponed the reconstruction of Europe and did infinite damage to the good relations that had always existed between the United States and the European nations.

"We meddled in Fiume, and we lost for a little town of 50,000, in which we had no practical interest, the friendship of a great and historic people like that of Italy. We meddled in Shantung, in Danzig and in the Sarre. We meddled in a hundred ways, and the result has been to vindicate in a wondrous way the judgment of President Monroe a hundred years ago, when he said, in reply to an invitation to enter the Holy Alliance, the League's predecessor, that it was best to keep the European and American political systems separated as far as possible from each other."

Herbert L. Bridgman presided and Mr. Beck was introduced by General C. Herbert De Fosse. When the time for the usual questioning came a woman, who had asked a similar question of Ambassador Davis, asked Mr. Beck if he would give three reasons why a woman, voting for the first time, should vote against the League of Nations. Mr. Beck replied by saying that his arguments were as applicable to women as to men.

Another questioner pointed out a seeming discrepancy in Mr. Beck's argument by asking how he reconciled his assertion that the League was a super-State with his statement that it was impotent.

"It is organized as a super-State by its machinery, to which each nation must surrender a part of its sovereignty," Mr. Beck replied. "If that is so, why go into it? If it is impotent, why go into it?"

"What is your personal view? Is the League a menacing, powerful super-State or is it impotent?" Mr. Beck was then asked.

"Personally, I believe it is a bubble, which will be pricked and burst on Nov. 2," said Mr. Beck, repeating his belief in the election of Senator Harding which he had expressed in his speech.

LEWISOHN ANNOUNCES HE WLL VOTE FOR COX

Says Harding's Stand Means Too Desperate a Gamble on Joining a Real League.

Samuel A. Lewisohn of 61 Broadway, son of Adolph Lewisohn, announced yesterday his intention to vote for Governor Cox. To vote for Senator Harding, he said, would mean too desperate a gamble on the United States joining a real league to enforce peace. Mr. Lewisohn was District Superintendent of the War Risk Insurance Bureau for New York and is Treasurer of the Citizens Union. He made known his stand for the League in a letter to Herbert Parsons, former Republican National Committeeman for New York, who is now supporting Cox.

"I thoroughly agree with your stand," wrote Mr. Lewisohn. "I am an enrolled Republican, but Senator Harding's recent utterances indicate that his election may mean too desperate a gamble of our joining in a real league to enforce peace. It is obvious that the present League must be used at least as a foundation, or we will get nothing. It is therefore my intention to vote for Cox."

Mr. Parsons also received a letter from Haley Fisk, President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, congratulating him on his "bold stand on the central issue of the campaign."

Another letter came from William Grant Brown, a lawyer of 233 Broadway, who said he was for the League, but was hopelessly bewildered at Senator Harding's stand regarding it.

"Harding's last assertion about scrapping the League and hoping to get all the nations of the world to accept his own has about forced me to vote for Cox," he wrote. "It is one of the hardest situations intelligent and patriotic citizens ever faced in this country. For a lifelong Republican, with a lifetime of family affiliations, who hopes to see his party as a medium of enlightened sentiment, and who then sees that party go off for partisan reasons on such a great issue as the League, leaves a man bewildered. The League transcends all else.

splendid welcome, Governor Cox expressed the conviction that no efforts at this time would save the situation for the Republican Party and that every frantic effort made simply added to the evidence of insincerity and bad faith with the people which was so rapidly accumulating.

The Governor holds that the men who favor the League and still support Mr. Harding should be presented to the people in what he regards as their proper light and he intends to leave no stone unturned in his endeavor to accomplish this end.

Speaks to 5,000 at Marion.

The Governor's tour in Ohio today went with a swing that was taken as a good augury for Nov. 2. At all his stops the Governor was met by crowds, the largest, it was said, that had turned out in any recent political campaign. The man in overalls, the farmer and other workers made up the larger part of the audiences, and the Governor commented upon this fact. It has been a matter of comment that in Ohio, as in Indiana, the workers have been turning out in great numbers to cheer the Governor.

Among the places visited during the day was Marion, the home of Senator Harding. It had been the intention of Governor Cox to stop a few minutes and shake hands, but when he found a crowd of 5,000 persons waited for him he made a thirty-minute address.

As the train pulled into the Marion station, William Henry Pinckney, a porter on one of the cars, gave a mighty shout: "Marion," he yelled, "all out for the old order."

Then, before the laugh was over, a band blared and cheering was heard. Governor Cox stepped out on the platform and was told that a great crowd was waiting in a vacant lot back of the freight station. So he headed a procession which marched to a speakers' platform. Behind the lot were strings of freight cars and on top of these swarmed hundreds of railroad workers and men from shovel works and other industries.

It was the biggest political show staged in Marion since the Harding notification, and the town people seemed to enjoy the bit of excitement which Governor Cox brought to their town, and the Governor entered into the spirit of the occasion and tried his best to give them something to cheer about.

Word came to the Governor that many men at the meeting were employes of the Steam Shovel Works. The management of the works refused to shut down so that all might hear the nominee. Those workers who were at the meeting met the situation by dropping their tools and taking time off.

Governor Cox was introduced as "the next President of the United States," and this raised a shout of approval, even in a town which has a Presidential candidate of its own.

The meeting at Marion gave substance to reports which Democratic leaders have received that Cox will receive an overwhelming majority of the votes of the railroad workers. Pictures of the Governor were pasted on engines and cars and representatives of the railroad men brought assurance of support.

Appeals to Women Voters.

Governor Cox began his day of campaigning at Delaware, Ohio. A religious touch was present at all his appeals for the League, and he stirred his audiences. At Delaware the Governor made this appeal to women:

"I believe that God Almighty intended that the great army of American women should arrive at the battle front this year, just as the American Army arrived at the battle front in France—in time to save the civilization of the world. As the American Army came fresh and ready for the fray, the American women come free from prejudice, and their convictions are the result of their having permitted God to talk to them through their conscience

"I have spoken of the indorsement of the League of Nations by the churches of America, but I have an indorsement which, in some respects, is more sacred than the indorsement of the great religious bodies. Eighty-one thousand boys sleep in France today, occupying the graves of honored soldiers. Every soldier had a mother and there are 81,000 broken hearts in America. No poet and no painter has the genius to put upon the canvas or put into phrase the emotions and the sorrows of the mothers of America whose boys today sleep in France. I ask you for a moment in this sacred presence to reflect upon the meaning of the tie between the boy and his mother.

"She builds her air-castles from the first hour that his little voice announces his coming from the heavenly world. She builds about him all of her plans. He is the centre of her hopes and her aims and her aspirations. She teaches him the ideals of her fathers. She deprives herself in order that his opportunity might be bettered. And then, within an hour, the tragedy of war tears it all down, and her house of dreams lies in desolation. Eighty-one thousand such mothers are in America, and in their tears they have written their message to the men and women of America.

"These are their words: 'Millions of boys were called to the service of their country to fight a war to stop war. Therefore, be it resolved that the National Board of American War Mothers goes on record as strongly indorsing the League that stands for a worldwide peace.'

"My friends, let that sink into your impressions. I wish there was some power to write that message into the blue skies of America in order that every man and woman might see it in the contemplation of the suffrage responsibility that is cast upon our people this year."

All along the route Governor Cox received proof of the regard in which he is held by workers. Lithographs were displayed by workers in windows and on box cars. At Fostoria, as the train went by the Seneca Wire Works, the factory whistle shrieked a welcome. Half the engines on the lines over which the Cox train passed had pictures of the Governor pasted on their headlights and engineers and firemen leaned far out to wave their caps.

Raps Harding on Printing Covenant.

At Carey, the Governor replied with spirit to the statement made by Senator Harding with reference to objections to printing the League covenant.

"Senator Harding," he said, "refers to my charge that the Republicans dare not print as a document the covenant of the League of Nations in order that the public might read it, by stating that the peace treaty runs into 80,000 words. But of course he knows the difference between the treaty and the covenant.

"The latter stands out separate and alone as distinct as the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution. The covenant requires less than four columns of space in a newspaper, and yet the candidate for the Presidency attempts to justify the conspiracy of silence by a clearly implied misrepresentation.

"It would be just as nonsensical to say that a man couldn't take off his coat without removing all his clothes, or he might as well have said that you couldn't print the Ten Commandments without printing the entire Bible."

Links League with Christ's Creed.

MARION, Ohio, Oct. 15 (Associated Press).—The Governor's League arguments here were loudly applauded. He declared that the League covenant could not be obtained at any Republican headquarters in the country.

As with other audiences, the Governor invited questions. "No man in my meetings is going to be locked up for asking me questions," he said, and the crowd gave a cheer.

More cheers greeted a remark when some of the crowd objected to interruptions of the questions, and the Governor said:

"Let him alone. I don't care whether Democrats or Republicans ask questions. I'm not making this fight as a Democrat, but as an American."

At all stops today he was greeted by large crowds. His League arguments were in a serious vein, and, as in recent speeches, he quoted the Bible, declaring to every audience that in championing the League he stood "for the creed of Christ, and not the creed of Cain."

In answer to a question during one of his Detroit addresses tonight the Governor declared that he believed that all war emergency legislation curbing "free speech and free assembly" should be repealed.

Discussing the Hitchcock reservations, the Governor said that he "understood" Great Britain had no objection to the one to equalize the American and British voting power.

OUR interpretation of the word Service contemplates the prompt execution of bonds and the prompt payment of claims.

"An examination of newspaper clippings and law reports for several months fails to disclose a mention of the Fidelity & Deposit Company as defendant in any of the suits for recovery against surety companies. This is regarded as an unusual record for a large company doing business in every state."

BORAH THINKS PARTY BARS ALL LEAGUES

SAYS HARDING IS PLEDGED

By WILLIAM H. CRAWFORD.

In the course of a recent interview with Senator William E. Borah, I submitted to him the following typewritten list of questions:

1. What is the policy of the Republican Party toward the League?

2. Should the people elect a Democrat, thus showing their approval of a league, will you support it?

3. What is Harding's stand on the League?

4. Will it be possible to reconcile the differences in opinion in the party of Johnson and Borah vs. Hughes, Taft and Wickersham, so that a league of some kind can be formed suitable to both?

5. Do you think the United States can pursue a policy of isolation or, as some choose to call it, selfishness?

6. How much of the opposition to the League is based on the old policy that we learned to revere, based on Washington's address and the Monroe Doctrine?

On reading the list the Senator smiled his genial smile, saying:

"I see you are trying to pin me down to a categorical list of questions. I do not like to answer them off-hand. Leave your questions with me to study over, and I will prepare answers to them. I am sorry to have brought you all the way to Washington for nothing, but you will get a more satisfactory interview this way."

Holds Party Opposes Copartnership.

The Senator's answers to my questions have just arrived.

To summarize the Senator's opinions, he believes that the Republican Party does not favor any kind of a political alliance, copartnership, or league with Europe or the Old World.

He says that he would resign from the Senate before he would vote for any political combination or alliance or league with foreign powers. He does not specifically limit his objection to the present League of Nations.

In regard to Senator Harding's stand on the League, he says that "we have his solemn pledge" not to surrender any of the rights of the American Republic in an effort to form some kind of a league.

He intimates that it is impossible to reconcile the views of Johnson and Borah with those of Lodge and Taft, and answers by asking if it is possible to reconcile the various wings of the Democratic Party.

He denies that opposition to the League is based solely on our traditional policy of aloofness.

He holds that our refusal to participate in a league does not mean isolation.

Answers of Senator Borah.

The Senator's answers follow:

1. What is the policy of the Republican Party toward the League?

"The policy of the party, if the voice of its voters is to be heeded, and it will be, in my judgment, is against any political alliance, copartnership or league with Europe or the Old World. There are individuals within the party of great influence who would go into a league of almost any kind. But they do not, in my opinion, represent any considerable per cent. of the voters of the party.

"You recall months ago, when it was said the League would be the issue, that the idea was scoffed at and jeered. But it is the issue and popular judgment has made it the issue. You cannot get a hearing before a popular audience on any other question. The voters are ahead of their leaders on this issue.

"I haven't any doubt, judging the future by the last eighteen months, that another eighteen months will weld an overwhelming majority of the American people in solemn phalanx against any political alliance or league with Europe whatever. The ultimate policy of the party will be along these lines, in my judgment."

Might Resign If League Wins.

2. Should the people elect a Democrat, thus showing their approval of a league, will you support it?

"I hardly think it worth while to discuss the highly improbable. But that I may not be supposed to be avoiding such a question I will say that I can conceive of conditions under which I would resign from the Senate, but no conditions could arise which would induce me to cast my vote for this League or any political combination or alliance or league with foreign powers.

"If we ever place this Republic in a position where we as a people are under an 'absolutely compelling moral obligation' to maintain the boundaries and preserve the real estate corners of Europe it will not be by my vote. I do not for a moment seek to impugn other men's motives nor challenge other men's loyalty, in fact I desire to lose sight of individuals in this contest as much as possible. But speaking for myself and from my own point of view, if I should ever cast my vote to yoke the future of this Republic t oforces we cannot control and place our people at the mercy of powers which may be wholly at variance with our conceptions of duty, I would feel I had done all I could to lift Benedict Arnold's name from its lonely place in American history and to give him a companionship well worthy of the first conspicuous American who thought the people of this country could not govern themselves.

"That is just exactly how I feel. And be assured, therefore, so long as I have any place or position in which I can exert any influence, it will be against any political combination with Europe."

Thinks Harding Wants Law Tribunal.

3. What is Harding's stand?

"Senator Harding has declared in his Des Moines speech that he is opposed to any league or combination or association which deprives the United States of its complete liberty of action in every emergency and in every crisis; that he is opposed to the surrender of any part of American independence or in impairing or embarrassing us in determining for ourselves our duty toward the rest of the world.

"He believes he can construct an association which will leave our sovereignty unimpaired, our independence and liberty of action complete and yet assist in minimizing the possibility of war. He is in favor, as I take it, of the amplification and codification of international law and the creation of a great judicial tribunal to try international questions of a justiciable nature.

"Of course, I am simply giving my opinion of Senator Harding's position, based wholly upon his public speeches. I have no other information than that which the public has. But I entertain no doubt myself from his public utterances that whatever he does or whatever he tries to do he will never surrender any part of our liberty of action nor pawn in any way our sovereignty. He will certainly not send the American boys treking around over Europe to police boundary lines and sacrifice life in the effort to sustain European diplomacy, cursed as it is with chronic intrigue.

"I have no doubt Senator Harding is just as anxious as any living man to do something for peace and to advance the cause of peace. But we have his solemn pledge that he will not surrender any of the rights of the American Republic in an effort to do so. That, after all, was Washington's policy, and that is sane Americanism."

Sees Differences in Both Parties.

4. Will it be possible to reconcile the differences in opinion in the party of Johnson and Borah vs. Hughes, Taft and Wickersham so that a league of some kind can be framed acceptable to both?

"To be entirely candid with you, I have not given any consideration to the question of reconciling differences of views within the party. Harmony of view is not characteristic of leaders these days. Who would undertake to reconcile the differences of view between Mr. Murphy and Mr. Wilson or Mr. Bryan and Mr. Cox or Tom Watson and Judge Alton B. Parker or The Commoner and THE NEW YORK TIMES, both of the latter powerful organs, speaking with the utmost authenticity for the same great party. So I have not thought much about reconciling differences of individual views.

"The people in this country have a great capacity for reconciling differences of view of leaders and near leaders by piling up majorities for or against a proposition. And, if I am correct in my diagnosis of the situation, the majorities against any political alliance with Europe will be such as to tend very largely to reconciling the individual views.

"It is interesting to remember also that the people do not think in terms of compromise on such questions as those with which we are now dealing. They grasp easily and firmly the great underlying fundamental principles involved and boldly and courageously maintain them. They do not go into questions of the nicety of language or expression. They know whether or not they want to go into Europe and become a part of her turmoils and strife. The people move along direct and simple lines and it is a great blessing for this country that they do.

"In my judgment the voters of the Republican Party are overwhelmingly against any political league or association or combination with Europe. And hundreds of thousands of Democrats feel the same way. Ultimately this will reconcile all differences for all practical purposes."

View Not Merely Traditional.

5. How much of the opposition to the League is based on the old policy that we had learned to revere, based on Washington's address and the Monroe Doctrine?

"Of course there is a deep reverence in the minds of many Americans for these policies. Traditions become a part of the intellectual and moral life of the people, and consciously or unconsciously they seek to preserve them.

"Indeed, one of the compensations of this long discussion has been its great educational power. It has recalled to our people many of the things which have been permitted to go unexamined of late, many of the elements of strength to which we had not given due weight in later years. But the opposition to the League is not alone by reason of our reverence for our traditional foreign policy.

"The people are realizing that whatever were the purposes and however high the motivs of the President when he went to Europe he was compelled to accept a treaty and a League based upon European principles and built according to European standards. Mr. Balfour has said in effect that this League is simply another phase of the balance of power policy. The only difference between the old balance of power or the old entente and this plan is that the United States takes the place of Russia.

"The people are no longer blind to the fact that Japan, Great Britain, Italy, France and the United States, if she joins, constitute simply a new concert of powers whose military strength, as the President says in his Rumanian speech, constitutes the basis of peace. The people understand also that five men representing these five great powers will really constitute a world Government. They have been given jurisdiction of all questions of peace and war and their territorial jurisdiction is that of the world. The people understand also that these men may sit in secret and determine their policies and render their decisions in secret. They understand that after these decisions have been rendered we are under an absolutely compelling moral obligation to abide by them.

"They see under the dominance of these five great powers millions and millions of human beings, subject peoples, who must forever be held in subjection unless by unanimous consent of the great powers they are given their independence. Today there is strife and fighting going on in Syria, Korea, Shantung, Mesopotamia, India and among the millions of subject peoples. Against these subject peoples is combined the military strength of these four or five great powers. Instead of this being a league of peoples, a league of nations, it is a league of diplomats and autocrats based upon military force."

Denies America Has Been Isolated.

6. Do you think the United States can pursue a policy of isolation, or, as some choose to call it, selfishness?

"Isolation is one thing, but the right of a people to determine for themselves in every exigency what it is their duty in do and what it is in the interest of humanity and civilization to do, free from any contract or embarrassment, is a wholly different thing.

"When have we been isolated? We have been free, we have been independent, we have been the sole judges of our own duties and responsibilities, but we have never, in the sense in which that term is now used, been isolated. For more than 140 years we have been the leaders in peace, in the cause of humanity, and we will continue to hold that position provided we remain free and independent to throw our council and our influence upon the side of justice and upon the side of humanity whenever the occasion arises, disembarrassed by contractual obligation to any other nation.

"We have not been isolated nor selfish. We have fed the hungry and clothed the naked, and we should continue to be generous to a fault in this respect. What other nation ever gave of its treasure and its blood to purchase the freedom of an oppressed people and then gave them that freedom as we did in the case of Cuba? And yet if we had been a member of the League of Nations when we undertook to raise the iron heel of oppression from the necks of the Cuban people, Spain would have had a perfect right to call upon every member of the League to join in the fight against us, and to have forced the Cuban people back into subjection until the last child had died of starvation and the last mother had been killed by the satellites of brutal tyrants.

"What I contend is that the United States, free and independent, controlled by the intelligence and the patriotism of our own people, disembarrassed by contractual or legal obligations, is a greater influence in the world for peace and for the cause of humanity and for justice than she can ever be as a member of a concert of powers. Would we, had we not been embarrassed by sitting in an imperialistic league, ever have consented to the Shantung affair? We can do our part in the world, and we will do it in the future as we have done in the past, but we will do these things not as the result of a contract, but out of the discretion and judgment and fullness of heart of our own people."

COOLIDGE OPENS HIS TOUR.

Speaks with Sproul and Allen at Philadelphia Rally.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—An appeal for a return to the commonplace in America was made here tonight by Governor Coolidge, Republican candidate for Vice President, in the opening address of a tour which will take him into several border and Southern States.

"When my countrymen turn their attention again to the commonplace," he said, "I shall know that American institutions are secure. I want to see the gospel of the Republican Party continue to be the sound, the good, the wholesome commonplace."

"It is the part of government to assist in our economic development in every way it can successfully assist," he went on. "It must always insist on even-handed justice, but what I am urging is for the people to realize that they are the ultimate arbiters of their own fortune."

Governor Coolidge had an enthusiastic reception at the Academy of Music. Other speakers were Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania and Governor Allen of Kansas.

SWING IN INDIANA TOWARD DEMOCRATS

They Would Probably Elect Taggart at Least if Election Were Held Now.

LEAGUE THEIR BIG CARD

But the State Is Still Not Turned to Cox, Despite Their Vigorous Campaigning.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 15.—Sentiment among the voters of Indiana on the dominant issues in the campaign remains in a state of flux. If the election was to be held tomorrow or next day instead of on Nov. 2, there is little doubt that the Republicans would roll up a substantial plurality for the national ticket, while the Democrats might have a fighting chance to elect Thomas Taggart to succeed James E. Watson in the United States Senate. The Republicans would elect their State ticket, from Governor down, and in this matter there is no likelihood of a decisive change between now and election day.

Many Democrats assert that victory has already been won, but the seasoned campaigners who are active in the present struggle are not deluded into making such predictions because of the drift toward the Democratic candidates on the League issue, which has been in progress for two weeks and shows no signs of a letup. They are keenly alive to the fact that the political situation in the State is now in the balance, and are pleased over it. But they realize, too, that with the public mind so responsive, many things may happen in the two weeks remaining to stem the tide or set it running in the other direction.

They had an indication of this today when the newspapers published the statement signed by the 31 pro-League Republicans (Root, Wickersham, Hughes and others), setting forth their faith that Harding would meet the nation's wishes on the League. The statement has been the matter of much comment today in places where politicians meet, and far-seeing Democrats admitted that their party would lose some votes by it.

There can be no doubt that the League is popular in the State and that if the vote on Nov. 2 was a straight referendum on the question of entering or staying out the Democratic argument in favor of entering would win a decisive victory.

This feeling does not seem to extend to Mr. Wilson personally, however. Democratic speakers who hve traversed the State declare that while they have run across anti-Administration sentiment in their contact with the man in the street, the mention of Wilson's name at any meeting is the signal for spontaneous demonstrations, often led by women.

Claim State for Harding.

Chairman Wasmuth of the Republican Central Committee received reports this week from his county chairmen and on the strength of these asserts that Indiana will give a plurality of 60,000 to 100,000 for Harding and Coolidge. The Republicans also assert that Senator Watson will be re-elected, but admit that he will run behind the National ticket. The Republicans are well aware, however, that what shift there is in sentiment at the present time is in favor of the Democrats.

Ex-Progressives Against Watson.

Watson offended the Progressives very much in the 1912 campaign. He was looked upon as one of the leaders in the effort to keep Roosevelt from getting the Presidential nomination. In this State, subsequent to the Bull Moose exodus in which many Indiana Republicans joined, Watson, then a Congressman, focused his attacks on the Progressives who had once been of his party faith rather than on the Democrats. Most of the Bull Moose leaders have returned to Republican regularity, but of the former Progressive rank and file a large proportion will vote for Cox and Taggart on the League issue.

Elias Salsbury, a lawyer of this city, who is the titular Bull Moose Chairman, though without a party, has come out for the Democratic ticket. Edward C. Toner, the first Bull Moose State Chairman in Indiana, and ex-Senator Beveridge are both back in Republican harness.

Watson supported the resolution to ratify the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act, and it is believed that he will receive most of the "dry" vote in the State. Culla J. Wayhanger, a woman, who was nominated for Senator by the Prohibition Party, which has a full ticket in the field, withdrew this week as a candidate, it is thought to help Watson.

The Republicans believe that Taggart's stand with Democratic leaders at San Francisco who espoused the "wet" cause, will hurt him with the "drys" and to a very great extent among the women. On the other hand, Taggart has come out as unequivocally as has Cox in favor of enforcement of prohibition and against any modification of the Eighteenth Amendment or the Volstead act. Taggart will benefit among the women voters from his staunch support of woman suffrage since it first became an issue in Indiana.

Here, as in other States where women will vote for the first time on Nov. 2, they are the big puzzle for the political leaders. In Indiana it is estimated that 400,000 to 500,000 women will present themselves at the polling places.

The women are not giving away their hand. They attend the meetings of both parties in large numbers. More women than men, according to Democratic leaders, are applying for League literature. They appear to seek information rather than party affiliation.

Women Silent on Their Purposes.

It is customary with both parties in Indiana to make a canvass of the voters sixty days before election and again thirty days before. Both canvasses have been made, and while the leaders are secretive when it comes to figures, THE TIMES correspondent was told in both camps that there was a big silent vote, due largely to women who would not tell how they are going to vote.

HARDING'S SISTER RESIGNS.

Mrs. Votaw Quits Bureau of Washington Metropolitan Police.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Carolyn Votaw, sister of Senator Harding, announced her resignation today as a probation officer of the Woman's Bureau of the Washington Metropolitan Police.

Mrs. Votaw, in her letter of resignation, gave no reason for leaving the service, but reports have been current for some time of friction between members of the Woman's Bureau.

SIX MORE GIVERS 'MATCH PRESIDENT'

Raise League Propagando Fund to $74,000, While 5,000 Aid the General Fund.

The "Match the President" fund to further the cause of the League of Nations went to $74,000 yesterday, when $3,000 more in five-hundred-dollar contributions was received by Wilbur M. Marsh, Treasurer of the Democratic National Committee. At the same time several thousand dollars in small amounts were received for the general fund.

Those who contributed to the "Match the President" fund were Mrs. Nathan Straus of New York City, H. Goodstein of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; W. J. Brennan of Pittsburgh, Carroll Miller of Pittsburgh, Mary Lee Wortheimer of Milford, Pa., and Joseph F. Guffey of New York and Pittsburgh.

Treasurer Marsh called it a banner day in the number of contributions to the general fund received. There were about 5,000 individual contributions, averaging $5. One check for $250 was from William E. Miles of San Francisco, a prominent Republican. Ethel Soper Hardy of Chattanooga, Tenn., whose husbnd, she said, was "a violent Republican," sent $10.

"For the first time in my life I am subscribing to the Democratic National Committee," wrote Alexander Martin of Philadelphia in the letter accompanying his check for $25. "I have always been an independent Republican."

Fifty dollars in crisp new bills was received from a woman who signed herself "Just a woman and a church member who believes in voting as she prays."

Mrs. Timothy Ansberry of Washington, D. C., was the first woman to match the $100 contributed by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. She is the wife of former Representative Ansberry of Ohio.

"In memory of the boys that lie 'over there,' who gave their lives that others might be free; for the sake of the League of Nations, and for the honor of our country I gladly contribute $500," wired Mrs. Wilbur W. Marsh of Waterloo, Ia., to the Women's Bureau of the Democratic National Committee.

There are 858 registered voters in Tupelo, Miss., and each one of them sent $1 to the Democratic campaign fund.

B. A. Levins of New York City, who called himself "a chronic Republican who is entirely consumed with confidence in the possibilities of the League of Nations," contributed $25 to the fund.

Chancellor Day Lauds Wadsworth.

A letter from Chancellor James R. Day of Syracuse University, praising the record of Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., was made public yesterday by the Republican Senatorial Committee. Chancellor Day gave Senator Wadsworth credit for important legislation, and said he introduced the bill increasing the pay of army nurses, supported a Federal investigation of child labor, introduced the Civil Service Retirement bill and used his influence for legislation in this State for equal pay for men and women teachers.

DANIELS ORDERS HAITIAN INQUIRY

expression was contained in a letter marked 'Confidential,' written by General Barnett to General Russell. General Barnett reported to me on Jan. 12, 1920, that apparently certain marines in Haiti had been guilty of unlawful acts in the latter part of September, 1919. On the day he brought this reprehensible conduct to my attention he recommended an investigation. We were both indignant that any few men, wearing the honorable uniform of a marine, should be guilty of the offenses General Barnett called to my attention. I immediately personally directed immediate and full investigation, and, as General Barnett says, in my own handwriting wrote this indorsement on his recommendation:

"'The action taken is approved and the department desires that this investigation be expedited and proper steps be taken in accordance with the views expressed above.'

"In his report published last week, General Barnett says that late in September, 1919, the cases of Johnson and McQuilkin for 'unlawful executions' came to his attention, and on Oct. 2, 1919, he says, he wrote of these unlawful acts to General Russell, and in the letter said: 'The court-martial of one private for the killing of a native brought out a statement by his counsel which showed me that practically indiscriminate killing of natives had gone on for some time.'

"I never knew of the existence of that letter or heard of any 'indiscriminate killings' until I read General Barnett's report this week, and I am sure he never meant to convey what these words have been interpreted to mean. When he called my attention to several cases I approved his suggestion that the matter be gone into thoroughly, and that all guilty parties be punished. He ordered the investigation.

"I supposed, of course, that the order for investigation and the trial of the guilty parties had proceeded in accordance with my direction until August, when inquiry was made as to the cases. No report could be found in the Marine Corps Headquarters and a cablegram was sent to General Russell in Haiti to ask about the result of the investigation of those cases. He wired that the report had been mailed in March. When it could not be found I directed General Lejeune and General Butler to proceed to Haiti to make an investigation.

"They did so and brought back with them a copy of General Russell's report, which is as follows:

General Russell's Report.

March 13, 1920.
Confidential.

From the Brigade Commander to the Major General Commandant.

Subject: Report of investigation of certain irregularities alleged to have been committed by officers and enlisted men in the Republic of Haiti.

1. From a careful reading and study of the attached testimony, statements and other papers, I am reluctantly forced to the opinion that Major Clarke H. Wells, former Gendarmerie Department Commander in Northern Haiti, is responsible for the conditions in Northern Haiti as found by Brig. Gen. Catlin on his inspection of the Hinche-Maissade districts in March, 1919, if such conditions were not actually due to his orders and instructions.

2. I am further of the opinion that these gendarmerie officers under Major Wells's command, who were enlisted men in the Marine Corps, on duty in said districts, were acting in accordance with what they believed to be the policy of the department commander.

3. It is difficult to believe that Captain Doxey was not fully aware of Major Wells's policy and of the existing orders and conditions in the Hinche-Maissade District.

4. There is a doubt, however, in my mind, as to whether or not the evidence as here brought out is sufficient to warrant a trial before a general court martial on charges of such a serious nature. It is extremely doubtful if further evidence can be procured.

5. The event referred to herein occurred over a year ago. Many changes have taken place in the personnel of the gendarmerie since that time. Nearly all the interested parties have either returned to the United States or been discharged from the service. Mr. Lavoie (former Captain G. D. H., and private, U. S. M. C.), has left the service and Haiti and his whereabouts are unknown.

6. It is, therefore, recommended that these papers be referred to the office of the Judge Advocate General, U. S. Navy, where the sworn statements and other evidence may be carefully sifted and weighed with a view of determining whether or not it is sufficient to warrant a trial.

7. If the decision is in the affirmative, it is requested that specimen charges and specifications be prepared by the Judge Advocate General's office, and that a competent officer be assigned to temporary duty with this brigade to act as Judge Advocate of the court. At present there is no officer attached to the brigade who is considered to have sufficient legal knowledge to conduct a trial, to the best interest of the Government, where skilled opposing counsel is present.

8. The return to Haiti of all witnesses and interested parties would, of course, be necessary.

JOHN H. RUSSELL.

Orders Inquiry and Trials.

"That report should have reached Marine headquarters in April, and action should have taken place at once, but General Barnett never received it and I obtained the copy only when General Lejeune and General Butler brought it with them from Haiti this month.

"A Board of Inquiry, composed of Admiral Henry T. Mayo, Admiral J. H. Oliver and Brigadier General Pendleton, has been appointed to take up the report of General Barnett, particularly the statement of 'indiscriminate killings,' contained in his confidential letter, and any other wrongs alleged to have been committed by marines landed to preserve order. They will be empowered to send for persons and papers, and to sift evidence to the end that any men in American uniforms guilty of wrongdoing should be brought to trial and punished.

"I have also approved the special report of General Lejeune and General Butler, made after their recent return from Haiti, and directed the Judge Advocate General to proceed against the parties believed to have been guilty. The report of Generals Lejeune and Butler is as follows.

Oct. 12, 1920.

To:—The Secretary of the Navy.

Subject:—Investigation of offenses alleged to have been committed by certain officers of the gendarmerie of Haiti at Hinche and Maissade, Haiti, during the Winter of 1918-1919.

Enclosures:—1. During the month of August last, it came to the attention of the Major General commanding that the report of an investigation into the alleged misconduct of certain officers of the gendarmerie of Haiti, which the brigade commander had been directed to make by the former Major General Commandant in an order approved by the Secretary of the Navy, under date of Jan. 12, 1920, could not be found at Marine Corps Headquarters. A searching inquiry was made and no information in regard to the report could be obtained from any one on duty at Headquarters Marine Corps or in any office of the Navy Department. The Major General Commandant also communicated by radio with the brigade commander in Haiti in regard to the matter, and learned from him that the report in question had been transmitted by mail from Haiti on March 20, 1920. Apparently it had been lost in transit. On Aug. 31, 1920, just prior to our leaving Washington for Haiti, you gave us verbal instructions to make a careful supplementary investigation of the whole matter and to report in full to you on our return to the United States.

2. In compliance with your instructions, every effort was made to obtain full and reliable information on the subject. We examined all officers of the Marine Corps and the Gendarmerie of Haiti now serving there who had any knowledge of the affair; also a number of enlisted gendarmes, Haitian officials, ex-gendarmerie officers and the French priest at Hinche, as well as two ex-gendarmerie officers now living in Santo Domingo. Some of the witnesses had left the island and are now in the United States. An effort is now being made to get in touch with them.

3. In our opinion, the evidence obtained by us and by the Board of Investigation establishes the following facts, viz.:

(a) The abolition of corvee, or enforced labor, on the roads by the people of Haiti, which had been in effect, under the supervision of the gendarmerie of Haiti, in accordance with the rural code of that country, since 1916, was directed in an order issued by the commandant of the gendarmerie, to take effect on Oct. 1, 1918.

(b) The order was not obeyed at Hinche and Maissade.

(c) The unauthorized corvee continued until March, 1919, when it was stopped by Brig. Gen. A. W. Catlin, U. S. M. C., the then brigade commander, who made a personal investigation of conditions at Hinche and Maissade at that time.

(d) During the Winter of 1918 and 1919 there was a serious increase in the activity of bandit bands, conditions finally becoming so grave that the gendarmerie of Haiti was unable to handle the situation single-handed, and in March, 1919, the marines were brought into the district of Hinche to take charge of the situation.

(e) Nearly all the witnesses examined stated it to be their opinion that the serious bandit situation in the vicinity of Hinche was badly handled by the officer who commanded the gendarmerie in the Department of North Haiti. A number of these witnesses also stated that the above mentioned officer gave his subordinate officers orders to report "everything quiet" in spite of the fact that collisions with the bandits were frequently taking place. These witnesses also stated that, in their opinion, this officer desired to conceal the true state of affairs from his superiors so as to prevent the gendarmerie being superseded at Port au Prince and Cape Haitien. Some evidence indicates that his orders to officers were partly responsible for illegal executions and continuance of corvee.

(f) During the months of November and December, 1918, and January, 1919, several bandit prisoners (names unknown) were illegally executed at Hinche by gendarmes acting under orders of gendarmerie officers; and there is strong evidence that Garnier Jean, the notary at Maissade, was killed by the gendarmerie oficers on duty at that place.

(g) During the investigation in March, 1919, by the then Brigade Commander of the conditions existing at Hinche and Maissade, the illegal execution of prisoners mentioned in the preceding paragraph became known to him. He transferred the officers of the gendarmerie against whom charges were made, but took no further disciplinary action in the matter.

(h) We recommend that the brigade commander be directed to institute general court-martial proceedings against all persons implicated who can be brought within the jurisdiction of the court.

4. We deem it appropriate to state at this time that the misconduct above outlined is not indicative of the general state of affairs in the gendarmerie of Haiti, but that it constitutes an exception to the general rule of good conduct on the part of its officers and men. The officers and enlisted men of the Marine Corps assigned to duty with the gendarmerie have performed constructive work of the greatest value; they have overcome almost insuperable difficulties in organizing and training the gendarmerie and have made it a military force which reflects great credit on Haiti and the United States. The officers and enlisted men of the Marine Corps serving with the gendarmerie have gained the loyal support of the enlisted gendarmes by means of their justness, kindness and unselfish devotion to duty. The gendarmerie oficers, on the other hand, with one accord stated that they had perfect confidence in the courage and loyalty of the gendarmes.

5. We found the military situation and general conditions in Haiti at the time of our visit there to be excellent from the Marine Corps point of view. The Marine Corps organization exhibited every evidence of efficiency, splendid discipline and high morale. Our investigation showed that the present brigade commander has brought to trial all persons reported for committing offenses against the inhabitants. All papers are transmitted herewith.

JOHN A. LEJEUNE.
S. D. BUTLER.

Daniels Promises Punishment.

"The Navy Department's attitude from the day it assumed the duty of preserving order in Haiti has been characterized by general and specific directions to the Marines to regard the Haitians as friends and to aid them as brothers. That has been the spirit and the practice of Marines, and it is a matter of regret to all Marines that a few of them dishonored that honorable service. But as General Barnett, General Lejeune and General Butler point out, the service of the Marines has been humane, constructive and helpful. It is to be regretted that the exceptional incidents of wrongdoing were not brought immediately to the attention of the department so that summary justice could have been meted out. But, though delay in receiving the reports from Haiti postponed investigation and penalty for wrongdoing, the department will carry out its uniform policy of showing no toleration or mercy to men who disgrace the uniform."

MILLER WOULD END LOSS IN MARKETING

RIDICULES DAYLIGHT SAVING

Declares for Stimulating Intelligent Self-Interests of Employers and Workers.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Judge Miller campaigned today through Clinton, Oneida and Chenango Counties, making agriculture the basis of his seven speeches. He dwelt on the things he asserted Governor Smith had failed to do for the farmers and made many promises of what would be done for the farmers if he were elected.

Tonight in a speech to 2,000 persons in the Binghamton High School and in a talk to employes of the Johnson shoe manufacturing company at Johnson City, near here, he challenged the Governor to "explain to the workingmen of this State why he has not redeemed his promises to do away with the delays which now occur in settlement of claims" under the provisions of the workmen's compensation law.

In his speeches in Hamilton, Norwich and Oxford Judge Miller again devoted much time to criticism of "the Wilson League of Nations"; he called it an attempt to "establish a super-State," and, referring to Governor Cox's charge about seventeen groups backing Harding, declared that Nov. 3 would disclose the number and extent of "the groups against Cox."

While the Republican candidate was discussing this topic a man in the audience in front of the Norwich Court House voiced the bitter feelings of the farmers against daylight saving.

"Well," said Judge Miller, who recently recorded himself against the light saving law, "I don't have to talk to you people here on that. You are going to take care of that question without my saying anything to you about it. And you know with reference to that whether or not one can study the laws of nature up here in Chenango County and learn whether the sun will stop in its course because you turn the clock an hour ahead. You can learn as much about that up here where you are next to the laws of nature as you can in Oliver Street in New York City.

"I am led to say just a word on a matter connected with agriculture. The Governor has said—he has said in this very campaign—that he could sit in the Executive chair at Albany and not concern himself that much"—snapping his fingers—"about agriculture. He said that he could do it without a twinge of his conscience. He made two concrete proposals for agriculture during his term. One was a proposal to Tammany-ize your Agriculture Department and the second was to suggest the creation of a commission to fix the price of farmers' milk.

"I don't pretend to be able to solve your milk problem. It is a difficult one. It is a serious one, and wrapped with it is the general problem of food production and distribution in this State. Now, my friends, I don't pretend to know all that there is to be known on this subject. But I do know what every one who has studied the subject must know, that there is today too great a spread between the producer and the consumer's door. There is now too much waste, waste of product which often rots on the ground because it does not pay to harvest it, product that rots after it has been harvested, while it is awaiting a market in some congested centre where it finds a glut. There is too much waste of effort and cost in the distribution of the product. We need improvement in our distribution system. We need improvement in marketing systems. We need co-operation, which the farmers are now learning about and which the State needs to promote."

Declaring that he would see that the Department of Farms and Markets "functions after Jan. 1," Judge Miller said: "This subject, of the greatest importance to all the people of the State, should be taken out of politics. It should be dealt with upon its merits, regardless of politics and solely in the interest of all the people of the State."

Tonight in his talk to the shoe workers, who are employed under social welfare conditions established by George F. Johnson, President of the big plant, Judge Miller declared that while he did not wish to minimize the importance of Governor Smith's three welfare ideas, compulsory health insurance, eight-hour law for women and children, and the minimum wage law for women and children, he said he considered them "of secondary importance as compared to the great national issues involved in this election."

"I would spare no effort to safeguard and to protect womanhood and motherhood. I would spare no effort to protect and preserve life, limb and health. I would spare no effort to improve conditions of labor, but next to that I would promote and stimulate industry so that from the profits of industry labor might receive its fair share, and then I would promote and stimulate a better understanding and a better co-operation between employer and employe to the end that labor should get its fair share, and, in my opinion, industrial justice will be best promoted by arousing and stimulating enlightened self-interests on the part of both employer and employe."

PARSONS SAYS PETITION IS MOVE TO GET VOTES

Warns Signers That 'Irreconcilables' Will Be in Control After Election.

Herbert Parsons yesterday denounced the action of the thirty-one Republicans who signed a petition declaring both for Senator Harding and the League of Nations as an attempt to deceive the people and get votes for Harding. Mr. Parsons declared that Dr. MacCracken, who refused to sign the petition, was right.

"The eminent men who signed the statement will not have the influence with Harding after the election that the opponents of the League will," said Mr. Parsons. "It may be difficult for admirers of these eminent men to believe this, but it is true.

"The 'irreconcilables' are not lovers of Elihu Root. The 'irreconcilables' will be in the Senate. The 'irreconcilables' will be needed for party control. The signers of the petition are not and will not be. The 'irreconcilables' will be in a strategic position to bend Harding to their will. Nor will they miss the opportunity.

"Some of them may be willing to let Harding try out his bunk about an association of nations or a new league, knowing that this is not a serious proposition and that nothing can happen. But when it comes to modifying the present League and going into it with reservations or amendments, which is what the signers of the petition know, or should know, is the only practicable course—this the 'irreconcilables' will prevent. And Harding then will yield with a spasm of sentiment, hoping other issues will cause the people to forget this issue of the League."

Chairman George White of the Democratic National Committee made this comment on the petition:

"The Democratic Party is not concerned with the attempt of various politicians to save their faces, but it is determined that the people of the United States and those who fought for lasting peace shall neither be fooled nor betrayed. Its candidates stand on a clear platform for going into the League with any reservations deemed necessary to emphasize the supremacy of our Constitution.

"The people will follow the straight, clear, honest course and leave the befuddled and the disingenuous to untangle themselves after the election."

GARVER EXPLAINS HIS VISIT TO SWANN

SAYS CHARGE IS RIDICULOUS

Only Sought to Prevent Substitution of City's Corporation Counsel in the Case.

John A. Garver's unqualified denial of assertions made by District Attorney Edward Swann in a statement attacking several members of the City Bar Association following their refusal to indorse his candidacy for the Supreme Court bench, brought a new statement from Mr. Swann yesterday in which he reiterated the assertions which Mr. Garver had characterized as "a deliberate invention, with absolutely no foundation in the disputed facts."

"District Attorney Swann," said Mr. Garver in his statement, "attempts to meet the serious charges of misconduct made against him by the Judiciary Committee of the Bar Association by bringing forward entirely irrelevant matter, some of which concerns me. In doing this he exhibits the characteristics which the Bar Association has condemned.

"It is absolutely false that I asked him to withdraw his answer in the gas case, to which he refers, or that I requested him to consent to a judgment in favor of the company, setting aside the eighty-cent law. That law he characterizes, in language that illustrates the judicial qualities of his mind and temper, as one which 'was passed for the protection of the helpless public against the oppression of a rapacious combination.'

The Gas Litigation.

"After a trial occupying more than eight months, in which almost daily sessions were held and in which the public were represented by special counsel employed by the Public Service Commission, by the Attorney General and by the Corporation Counsel, and in which the record occupies about 16,000 printed pages, exclusive of many hundreds of exhibits of great length, the court has found that the company has been serving the public in recent years upon a basis which has yielded a return on the capital invested of only about 1.2 per cent., and on its own motion the court has made a 50 per cent. advance in the rate which the gas company is permitted to charge.

"How ridiculous the statement of the District Attorney is, that I requested him to withdraw his answer and consent to a judgment in favor of the company, is obvious in the fact that both the Public Service Commission and the Attorney General had previously served separate answers, putting in issue the allegations of the complaint and that the withdrawal of the answer by the District Attorney would not have enabled the company to obtain a judgment.

"The real defendants in the case were the Public Service Commission, charged with the duty of supervising public utility companies and of enforcing the law applicable to them, and the Attorney General, charged with the duty of upholding the constitutionality of statutes under attack; and the gas suit was an attack on the old Eighty-cent act of 1906 as confiscatory and, therefore, unconstitutional.

Status of the District Attorney.

"The District Attorney was made a party defendant merely because it is his duty and also that of the Attorney General to enforce the penalties provided in case of the violation of a statute. These duties are merely those of a criminal prosecutor; and where, as in the present litigation, there has been no violation of a law, and the effort is to have the law declared a nullity, the District Attorney is not a necessary party defendant; and in some of the rate cases now pending he has not been made a party and has not sought to intervene.

"In the previous 80-cent case, which was decided in 1908 by the United States Circuit Court in favor of the company, the District Attorney appeared and served an answer; but he never took an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, his counsel deeming that the interests of the public were sufficiently represented and protected by the Public Service Commission and the Attorney General.

"In the present case, to which the District Attorney refers, he was served with a subpoena and bill of complaint in January, 1919. Robert C. Taylor, Esq., entered an appearance as his solyicitor on March 12, 1919; and his time, to answer expired on April 24, 1919. No answer, however, was served, and he remained in default for some time, when his attention was called to the fact; and I consented to waive his default. No answer had been served by him on May 9, 1919, the day on which I called upon Mr. Swann. That was the only interview I ever had with him in regard to the gas litigation. Previously, the city had made an application to the court for leave to intervene as a party defendant. That motion I vigorously opposed, as I believed that its only object was political; for the public interest was already adequately represented and protected and it was certain that the intervention of the city would greatly prolong the trial and add enormously to the expense of the litigation. Judge Mayer denied the application to intervene, on the ground that, as a matter of law, the city was neither a necessary nor a proper party; and his decision was unanimously sustained by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Visit to Mr. Swann.

"Early in May, 1919, I learned that the District Attorney had been requested to permit the Corporation Counsel to be substituted as his solicitor in the place of Mr. Taylor. This was a palpable attempt to evade the effect of the order previously made, excluding the city and the Corporation Counsel from the litigation, and upon an examination of the law on the subject, I reached the conclusion that the Corporation Counsel had no right to represent the District Attorney in the litigation, and that it would be a misapplication and waste of the public funds to do so. Entertaining this opinion, I called upon District Attorney Swann on May 9, 1919, and urged the reasons which I thought should influence him in not consenting to the substitution. He told me, however, that he had already informed the Mayor that he would consent, and thereafter, on May 15, 1919, an order was made upon the written consent of the District Attorney, substituting the Corporation Counsel as solicitor for the District Attorney in the place of Mr. Taylor.

"It was not until May 24, 1919, more than a fortnight after my interview with the District Attorney, that the Corporation Counsel, as solicitor for the District Attorney, served an answer, and the Corporation Counsel has ever since exclusively represented the District Attorney, and is the only one who could have withdrawn the answer that had been interposed. The statement that I requested Mr. Swann to withdraw his answer and allow judgment to be taken in favor of the company is a deliberate invention, with absolutely no foundation in the disputed facts."

Mr. Swann in his reply to Mr. Garver says:

"I had never seen Mr. Garver before he called on me at my house, and it is incredible that any one should believe that he called on me at my house merely to 'advise' me in regard to a matter in which I had been made a defendant in my official capacity and in which he represented the plaintiffs.

"Mr. Garver did not call at my office, but at my house, and his call was solely for the purpose of endeavoring to persuade me to act in the case in a way that would render it as easy as possible for the gas combine to set aside the eighty-cent gas law, so that they could be in a position to charge the public 'all that the traffic will bear.'

"From Mr. Garver's angle of vision, a public official who does not yield to 'advice' from one of the great public utility combines that have heretofore been the directing force behind former local Governments of this city should not be 'approved' a committee composed solely of the several counsel of those combines."

SMITH SAYS MILLER IS A REACTIONARY

HITS HEALTH BILLS STAND

Asks Judge to Study Record of the Republican Legislature in Last Eighteen Months.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Governor Smith spoke here tonight before a largely attended mass meeting at which Professor Charles K. Burdick of the Cornell University Law School presided. Speaking of Judge Miller's declaration on State issues, the Governor said:

"He says that he knows no difference of opinion between the parties on questions of public health. That is because he is unfamiliar with the record of the past year and a half at Albany. I would suggest that he study what happened to the public health bills at the last session of the Legislature, and then declare whether he stands with the reactionary group that defeated the public health bills in order that a Democratic Governor might not get the credit of having them enacted during his term.

"His argument against the welfare bills is the stock argument used in this State for a number of years by the reactionary group which wrote the platform on which Judge Miller is running. When I hear him talk about taking away from women and children the incentive to practice industry, frugality and thrift, I am reminded of the argument made by William Barnes in the Constitutional Convention, when he urged amendments to the Constitution which would prevent the Legislature for all time to come from enacting such measures as the Workmen's Compensation act. I am further reminded of the argument made in the Legislature by the Republican leader from Albany when he argued against the child welfare bills.

"Nothing could be more characteristic of the old-time reactionary attitude toward social welfare than the reminder from Judge Miller last night to the toiling men of the State that they must never believe that the world owes them a living. That expression has echoed and re-echoed through the committee rooms of the Legislature for a generation, always urged by the attorneys representing special interests and standing in opposition to every progressive measure that the State ever enacted.

"Again I repeat that welfare legislation is not intended as a matter of favor to a class or group of our citizens, but is intended to benefit the whole State by promoting public health and public welfare.

"George F. Johnson, the largest employer of labor in the State, is entirely out of tune with Judge Miller because, he said, 'the hope of the world lies in evolution, progress and constant improvement, and we look with confidence into that future rapidly approaching when all may have a more equal share in the good things of life, when the rights of humans are acknowledged to be more sacred than the right of dollars.'"

DE LA HUERTA KEEN FOR U.S. RECOGNITION

Government will respect and cause to be respected all rights legitimately acquired under the protection of its own laws.

"On our frontiers all cause of unrest for our neighbors has disappeared and the present Government of Mexico will co-operate with the authorities of the United States and Guatemala to the end of avoiding disturbances which might arise along the boundaries, in order to insure the stable peace and cordiality which at present prevail.

"On numerous occasions, as I have said before, I have defined the honest policy which Mexico must pursue toward the other nations of the world during the remaining days of my Administration, as well as during the next Administration, which will be headed by a man representative of Mexican honesty, such as is Citizen Alvaro Obregon. I do not see, therefore, why conditions should be imposed upon us by foreign countries when our one desire is to form a part of the concert of civilized nations by respecting all of the established principles for the development of free peoples.

"President Wilson is a man of noblest ideals, proved in practice, and he has fought for them in his country against extraordinary forces of reaction in an exaggerated form. He has outlined the evolution of this people with unfailing certainty. He has been defending justice during these times when the peoples of the earth are shaken by stormy currents which disorganize the balance of society.

"He has striven nobly against the avalanche of interventionists who, not satisfied with the profits which they secure from their speculations upon our soil, desire to subjugate our people. He has endeavored in a thousand ways to bring about understanding between the laboring classes of his country and the laboring classes of our nation. Such a man would not wish our heart, nor would he dream of imposing conditions as his price of considering us a free people, capable of sustaining international relations."

"What is your opinion regarding the League of Nations?" he was asked, and he answered: "That it will be a beneficial institution to humanity. If its realization is not attained the responsibility will rest upon those who by means of political machinations are endeavoring to overthrow a noble idea which, if it became a fact, would bring with it peace between all nations and tranquility for the great human family."

CREEL RETURNING TO AID MEXICANS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—George Creel announced in an interview published in Mexico City today that he was returning to the United States to work for immediate recognition of the Mexican Government by this Government, according to advices from the Mexican capital. He left Mexico City this morning on his return to the United States with Roberto V. Pesqueira, Mexican Financial Agent in New York, whom he accompanied on his Mexican visit.

Mr. Creel, who called at the White House on two successive days just before going to Mexico, is quoted by El Heraldo, the official organ of the Mexican Government and owned by Salvador Alvarado, Minister of Finance, as saying that he would proceed at once to Washington and again call on the President.

Provisional President de la Huerta, whose illness is of such a nature that only the most urgent matters are brought to his attention, gave Creel a six-hour conference immediately upon his arrival in Mexico City. State Department officials said today that they did not know what credentials Creel had that enabled him to obtain this interview with the Mexican President. Creel's interview in today's El Heraldo was given through Pesqueira, who has been his constant companion.

Creel also said in the interview that the oil question was a matter solely between the oil companies and the Mexican Government, and that the United States Government should not concern itself with the matter. A high official of the State Department, on reading the report of the interview, said:

"The United States has sent some fourteen notes to Mexico on the oil question. The attitude of this Government has not varied in any particular from the time of sending the first note in 1916 to the present time. All we demanded then and all we demand now is the protection of American lives, rights and property such as is accorded to foreigners in every civilized country of the world.

"If the State Department had not intervened at the outset the Allies would not have had oil with which to win the war against Germany. The German agents were entirely in the ascendancy in Mexico and they would have succeeded in preventing the Allies from getting Mexican oil if we had not adopted a firm stand."

Pesqueira's remarks in Mexico City, published this morning, charging that prominent American business men were carrying on a lobby in the State Department to prevent too hasty recognition of the de la Huerta Government, occasioned smiles in Washington today and evidently were not regarded as calling for any reply.

Representatives of the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico issued a sharp retort yesterday to the charges of Roberto V. Pesqueira, contained in dispatches from Mexico City, which were to the effect that the petroleum interests were endeavoring to influence our State Department in the Mexican oil controversy rather than have the issue decided in the Mexican courts. It was pointed out in the reply that the oil case had been pending in the Mexican courts for some two years.

The answer to the Mexican statement says:

"Fortunately there is no misunderstanding, even in Mexico, of the attitude of the State Department, and no necessity on the part of Americans whose properties in Mexico are menaced to 'bias the judgment' of any of the officials of our Government in Washington. In addition to appealing for the protection of their own State Department, however, the Americans whose properties in Mexico were menaced by the Carranza Constitution and decrees instituted proceedings in the Mexican courts for the defense of their properties more than two years ago, and these proceedings are still pending.

AMERICAN LINE ENDS LONG MAIL SUBSIDY

CONTRACT LASTED 25 YEARS

After being maintained for a quarter of a century the mail subsidy contract between the Postmaster General and the American Line has expired and has not been renewed. The agreement called for a weekly service between the United States, Great Britain and France, by vessels capable of a speed of twenty knots an hour, to be paid for at the rate of $4 for each nautical mile covered on the outward and homeward voyages.

The American liner New York, which sails at noon today for Cherbourg and Southampton, will carry the mails and parcel post at the rate of 80 cents per pound, which is not much above what is paid by shippers on express freight by fast Atlantic liners.

The International Mercantile Marine Company, owner of the American Line, did not bid for a new contract after the old one expired on Oct. 12, because the Directors considered that it would be impossible for them to operate a fleet of 20-knot steamships between New York, Cherbourg and Southampton at $4 per mile each way. One of the officials pointed out that the cost of the fuel for the Philadelphia on a round voyage was more than the total expense of the voyage under normal conditions before the war.

During the twenty-five years the service has been maintained by the liners Philadelphia, New York, St. Louis and St. Paul, which were the first to make Southampton a port of call for New York liners in England and the first steamships to be turned around and sailed again in three days at each end of the voyage. The service was continued even during the World War, when the liners reverted to their old port, Liverpool. These vessels for a time formed the only regular mail communication between the United States and England. They also carried thousands of American troops.

The liners Philadelphia, New York and St. Paul will carry mails at the poundage rate between New York and Southampton until the end of the year, when they will go into the West Indies cruise business for three months and may operate again to Southampton in the Summer of 1921.

ments, not only on account of the delay and inconvenience, but the expense involved, which is considerable. Younger members of the diplomatic circle feel that they are particularly hard hit and some of them figure that their private purses will be subject to a strain through added costs of transportation.

In order to reduce the expense some diplomatic establishments have entered into a club arrangement by which several establishments pay pro rata for one truck and the expenses of the diplomatic servant or servants who drive it to New York and back and handle the consignments at the pier in New York.

The new ruling of the Secretary of State and the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury has made it practically impossible for diplomatic establishments in Washington to bring wines and liquors for any considerable distance within the limits of the United States. The ruling shuts off supplies from Canada and Mexico and from Cuba via Florida. Much of the liquor imported by diplomatic establishments is said to come by way of Canada, but the new regulation will prevent its shipment hereafter from the border by common carrier. It can be legally brought to Washington from the Canadian frontier only in road vehicles operated by members of diplomatic establishments.

In the absence of Assistant Secretary Shouse from Washington little in the way of detailed information concerning his order of Oct. 11 could be obtained at the Treasury Department. It was said there that the order was intended to prevent violation of the law as to shipments of intoxicating beverages through the territory of the United States. Officials explained that the order did not provide for the seizure of such importations unless an attempt was made to transport them through American territory.

One official intimated that if a diplomatic representative arriving in this country with intoxicating liquors in his possession desired to carry them from New York to Washington he might be permitted to take them with him on a railroad train if he carried them himself or if they were carried by some servant attached to his diplomatic establishment. Under this interpretation an Ambassador, for example, would be obliged to confine the amount of liquor he carried on the railroad train to the amount that he or his servants could carry in an ordinary piece of hand baggage. It would be a violation of the law for the Ambassador to have the assistant of a railroad porter in carrying the liquor to or from the train, as the porter has no diplomatic privilege, even when employed by the Ambassador for this service.

One Ruling Relieves Young Diplomats.

Some time ago the Ambassadors and Ministers of foreign Governments in Washington notified the members of their establishments that they must not give liquor to any friends. This, it was pointed out, would be a violation of American law. While outwardly indicating that they were provoked over the decision of their chiefs, many of the subordinate diplomatic officials were secretly pleased, as they had found that it was becoming an expensive burden to supply the wants of their thirsty American friends.

The object of the decision was understood to be not to prevent diplomatic officers from treating their American friends to an occasional social drink, but to warn them that they must not import liquor under their diplomatic privilege and present it in bottles or larger lots to persons not connected with the foreign diplomatic service.

The right of a foreign diplomatic representative and those connected with his official establishment or personal household to immunity from examination of their persons and personal belongings has been long established and recognized. While the diplomatic representatives of foreign Governments in this country might have a good case if they made an issue of the new customs regulation, their disposition is understood to be to comply with the interpretation of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act laid down by the State and Treasury Departments and to prevent violations of the law by any persons connected with their establishments.

COOLIDGE WILL LEAD AN OLD-TIME PARADE

TALKS OF PARTY'S CHANCES

Sees Encouraging Outlook for Success in Maryland, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Governor Calvin Coolidge, Republican candidate for Vice President, stopped off here yesterday for a conference with Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, and approved the latter's plan for a "Coolidge Day" here on Oct. 28, with a business men's parade in the afternoon and a speech by Governor Coolidge in Carnegie Hall in the evening. In an interview with newspaper men before leaving to speak at Philadelphia in the evening, Governor Coolidge said he considered the progress of the campaign most satisfactory. After speaking in Philadelphia he will go to Washington to start a tour of the Southern border States.

According to Mr. Hays the parade on "Coolidge Day" will be "tremendous." It will be in charge of the Business Men's Republican Association, of which Michael Friedsam is President, Charles H. Sherrill, Chairman of the Executive Committee; William Warren Barbour, Treasurer, and Roger W. Allen, Executive Secretary. In announcing the parade and meeting, Mr. Hays said:

"The parade will be under the management of the Business Men's Republican Association, which was invited by the Republican National Committee to take charge. This organization was founded in 1884, and in every Presidential campaign since that time has demonstrated its loyalty to the party and its faith in Republican principles. The association now consists of well organized divisions in forty-five different trades and commercial enterprises.

"It will be a tremendous parade. Virtually every trade and business occupation in the city will be represented in line, which will be supplemented by marching units from twenty-seven universities and colleges."

While in New York Governor Coolidge had a conference at luncheon with Mr. Hays and John W. Weeks and A. T. Hert, members of the Republican National Executive Committee; Fred W. Upham, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, and Harry W. Daugherty, Senator Harding's pre-convention campaign manager.

In his talk with reporters Governor Coolidge said the challenge for a joint debate from Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for Vice President, had not reached him. Governor Coolidge said that if he received the challenge he "would see what he could do about it," but added that in general he did not favor that method of campaigning.

Governor Coolidge said he believed the Republican national ticket has a "very good chance of carrying Maryland and Kentucky and better than an even chance of carrying Tennessee. I base this belief," he said, "not only on the reports we receive but on the significant fact that many Democrats are showing an intention of voting the Republican ticket because they want a change."

In reply to questions Governor Coolidge said he was confident that Senator George H. Moses would be re-elected in New Hampshire and Senator Frank B. Brandegee in Connecticut. He also said that Boston, usually a Democratic city, would go Republican this year.

Governor Coolidge was accompanied to Washington by Governor Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, and Colonel Thomas W. Miller, chief of the Eastern Division of the Republican Speakers' Bureau. He will start from there tomorrow on a speaking trip through Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, on which he will be accompanied by Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois and Job E. Hedges of this city.

What is originality? Is it discovering something entirely new? There is nothing new under the sun! Even the airplane is an imitation of the flight of the sea-gull. Originality is accurate observation, plus the ability to put two and two together and sometimes make more than four. It is doing a thing better than it has ever been done. It is making two sheaves of wheat grow where one grew before. The man who gives his child THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE has originality. He is not content with turning his boy or girl over to the schoolroom for a few hours a day for a few years, and calling it an education.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE in the home is the greatest help the child can have in laying the foundations of a thorough, practical and all-round education upon which the structure of life can be safely built. Join the army of those who are stepping aside from the beaten track and giving their children a better chance to make a success of their work and their lives. It is the best thing a little money can buy, because it pays dividends of interest and knowledge from the very first day it comes into the home. There is nothing with which to compare it. It stands alone.

Facts Which Tell The Story

The efficiency of the ignorant person in comparison with the educated is as the spinning wheel against the factory, the pine fagot against the electric light, the log cabin against a steel skyscraper, or the three R's against THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE. The boy and girl at school who need help with their compositions, father and mother who want a quick and handy reference to some subject of present-day interest, aunty who must have an outline for her club paper,—every member of the family is equally satisfied and delighted. Over 1,000,000 children of today are being educated with this great new helper in the home. Every teacher knows that children who possess this work lead their classes. What does this mean to you?

Every father and mother knows that the children need help in the home, help with their study and with their entertainments,—a source of information which is more accurate and fuller than the parent can ever hope to be. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the first work of reference made for the children, written in plain and simple language, with a great wealth of striking educational pictures. So fascinating are these illustrations that the problem of capturing the child's interest is solved at a glance, and he is eager to read the descriptive little articles which are just the right length and make just the right kind of appeal to the mind of a child.

The 16 Great Departments of Knowledge,—Nature, Science, History, Biography, Astronomy, Physiology, Art, Poetry, Literature, Gardening and Carpentry, Sports and Games—are the open doors through which the child enters the great world of knowledge. They complete the full round o life indoors and outdoors. Parents, teachers and children are equal sharers in this great boon to the home and the school. It fill every demand of the busy parent and the active child.

Teaching Your Child By Pictures

The eyes are the first and greatest teachers. The nerves from the eyes to the brain are twenty-two times as large as the nerves from the ears to the brain. One of the chief reasons why THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE appeals so strongly to the child is because of its 10,000 striking illustrations, the world in the sky, the world in the waters, the world in forest and field, are beautifully illustrated with series of pictures. There are pictures of cows, dogs and horses, in their natural colors. Every step of important industrial processes is pictured and described, and the practical things of everyday life are wonderfully illustrated and explained.

The sample page FREE BOOK contains 140 pictures, the contents of all the great departments, and 350 questions answered in the Wonder Section, and a number of brief articles showing the method of teaching the child most difficult subjects quickly and easily. THERE is no greater work any American manufacturer can do today than to restore his customer's dollar to its pre-war purchasing power.

We have entered the retail field in New York to accomplish that object for the buyers of fine custom-tailored clothes.

Indeed, we seek to strengthen the clothes-dollar beyond its pre-war performing ability.

For we aim to make it buy a better custom-tailor value than it ever bought before.

T·R·T

New York has issued a distress call for lower clothes prices. And in answer to this call, this wholesale tailoring house—half a century old, and the largest in America—has stepped forward to offer its service direct at retail to New York men.

But our intent is not merely to afford New York the price-relief it seeks. That might be wholly a feat of agile cost whittling.

An achievement, rare—even in normal times.

T·R·T

But how can we accomplish this program with costs still so acutely high?

We have set our New York feature price at $40—for an all wool, all quality, made-to-order suit or overcoat.

With ready-mades still averaging $50 to $80, can we keep faith on that $40 offer—delivering dependable, made-to-measure service?

Frankly, we cannot reduce the cost of the making. There has been no break in labor or material costs affecting this season's production.

But we CAN and WILL reduce the cost of selling. And thereby lies our miracle of money-saving for New York clothes buyers.

By acting as our own retailers in New York City, using part of our wholesale organization for retail service, we eliminate a large part of the usual retail overhead which, after all, constitutes a very substantial factor in the ultimate selling price.

T·R·T

And so has come our resolve to do our bit in alleviating the high living cost crisis in New York.

And our dealers are with us in this plan—confined, as it will be, exclusively to New York and Chicago—our manufacturing centers.

They realize that it is a great advertising opportunity for Royal Tailoring. Any maker who can restore the badly shriveled New York dollar to its old ante-bellum self has put over a publicity scoop of national significance.

The Royal Tailors and their dealers want that scoop for Royal Tailoring. Hence, this special and wholly local New York maker-to-wearer plan.

T·R·T

Before you come to our wholesale salesrooms to inspect Royal values, look around in the retail clothing stores; inspect the woolens, the trimmings, workmanship in ready-made suits at $50 to $80.

Then come here and compare your findings with the intrinsic merchandise quality we are delivering in all pure wool, made-to-order suits or overcoats at $40.

Tailored to your taste.

Patterned to your personality. Stitched and styled to your measure and mandate.

With the guarantee of our $4,000,000 wholesale house back of it,—guaranteeing your satisfaction or your money back.

SEARLES WILL CASE ORDERED TO JURY

COURT MAKES RESERVATION

Withholds Right to Name Person or Persons Against Whom Such Charges Shall Be Made.

SALEM, Mass., Oct. 15.—Charges that the will of Edward F. Searles of Methuen and New York, which left the bulk of an estate of more than $20,000,000 to Arthur T. Walker of New York, was made under undue influence and at a time when the millionaire was mentally incompetent, were ordered to a jury for trial by Judge Alden T. White in the Probate Court here today. Albert V. Searles of Boston, a nephew who received $250,000 under the will, is contesting it.

The Court reserved the right to name the person or persons against whom the charge of undue influence should be made, and reserved decision on other charges made by counsel for the nephew as the basis for issues for jury trial.

Administration of the estate was ordered by the Court to be placed in the hands of Augustus P. Loring and Roger Ernest as special administrators.

Charles F. Choate, Jr., of Boston, counsel for the executors, today completed his argument, begun on Wednesday after Sherman L. Whipple of Boston had argued on behalf of the nephew. Mr. Whipple had asked for a jury trial and Mr. Choate opposed the proposition. Under the terms of the will the bequest to Albert Victor Searles was to be forfeited if he contested the document.

Mr. Whipple had asserted that a plot existed to gain control of the Searles millions, and that the aged man had been induced to make Mr. Walker his residuary legatee in the belief that this was the only way in which he could make suitable provision for the future welfare of Angelo Ellison, a Greek youth in whom he was interested. Mr. Choate declared today that the idea of a plot was "pure imagination on the part of Mr. Whipple." He quoted previous wills made by Mr. Searles to support his contention that the millionaire never had intended to make any greater provision for Albert V. Searles or other relatives than was contained in the will.

There was no evidence, Mr. Choate said, that Mr. Walker ever had tried to profit by his business or personal relations with the testator. He asserted that Mr. Whipple had failed to prove that Mr. Searles in his last illness was improperly isolated from friends and relatives, and contended that Albert V. Searles had made preparations long before his uncle's death to contest his will.

After Mr. Choate had completed his argument Mr. Whipple replied briefly, reiterating his charge that the millionaire's mind had become affected, and that certain persons had taken advantage of his condition to obtain his signature to the will.

Polling 600,000 Voters In Six Pivotal States

In this week's LITERARY DIGEST the first instalment of THE DIGEST'S poll of 600,000 voters in the six big doubtful States of New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and California is published. These votes have been polled from all classes of voters with entire impartiality, and the results of the poll are extremely interesting because the electoral votes of these six States total 140, or more than half of the 266 votes necessary for a choice by the electoral college.

The article accompanying the tabulation brings out many interesting sidelights on the political situation this year. This week's number of THE DIGEST will be read and studied with unusual interest by men and women of all political faiths.

EVERY VESSEL IS A BARGAIN

at very low prices and on the deferred payment basis. They will be sold by sealed competitive bids to be opened in the Navy Department, Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Washington, D. C., on October 28th, 1920.

A new catalog contains photographs of the vessels and complete descriptions. There are five wood and iron tugs, of 200 to 400 horsepower, prices ranging fom $8,500 to $24,000. A profitable business in any harbor awaits the purchasers. The several yachts should find big returns in the Florida-Cuba trade, prices ranging from $4,500 to $125,000. The cruisers and gunboats can be converted into cargo-boats to be used in relieving the country's transportation requirements, prices ranging from $30,000 to $225,000.

Practically all of these vessels are now located on the east coast in the larger ports. This sale includes 35 vessels, 11 motor boats and motor yachts and the same number of steam yachts. The balance is made up of tugs and several convertible gunboats and cruisers that will make excellent cargo-boats.

One regular cargo-boat of over 4,300 tons displacement, the U. S. S. SURVEY, appraised at $370,000, is included in this sale.

New purchasing arrangements have been made to insure the immediate sale of all these boats. These are the MINIMUM PRICE BASIS and the DEFERRED PAYMENT BASIS. The Department binds itself to accept the highest bid above the minimum price which has been set. Bids may be made on the deferred payment basis for many of the vessels; that is, initial payment of 25 per cent. of accepted bid and balance in six equal semi-annual installments, three years thus being allowed to complete payment.

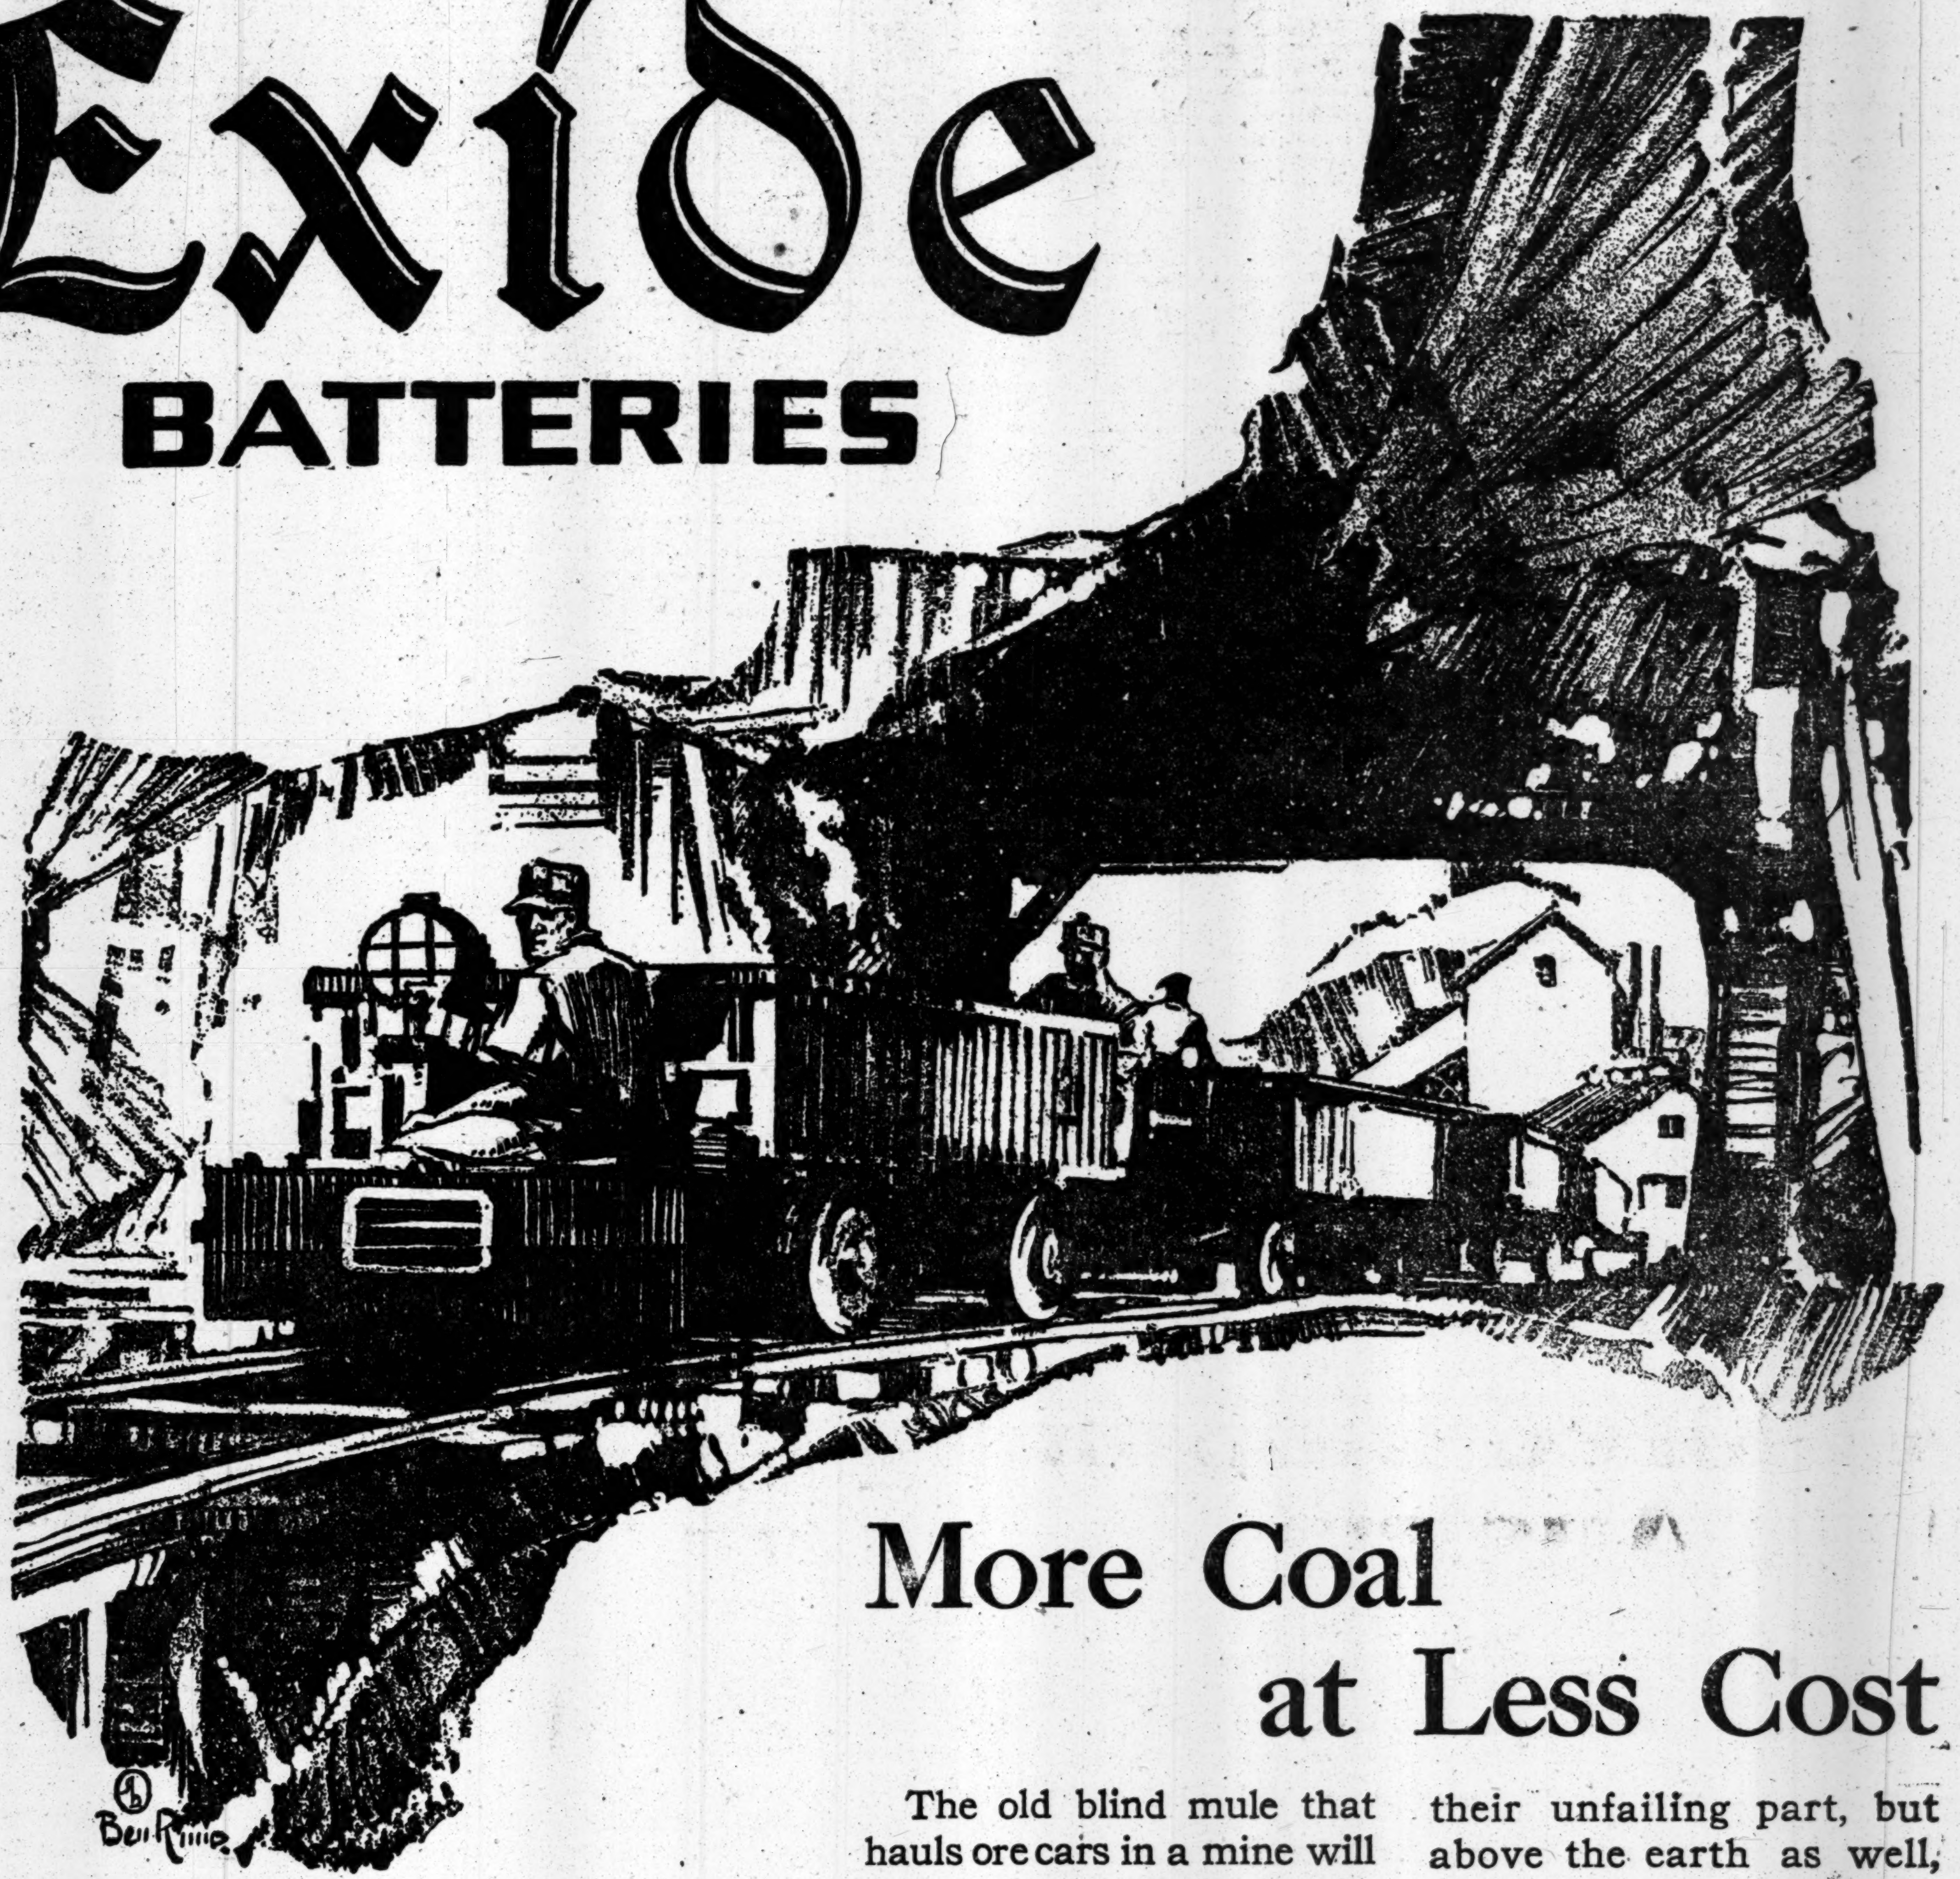
BATTERIES



More Coal at Less Cost

The old blind mule that hauls ore cars in a mine will soon be but a relic of the picturesque past. More coal we must have, and mine locomotives propelled by Exide-Ironclad Batteries have proved that they increase output, save labor, and cut operating costs. Not only underground, but under the sea in submarine boats, Exide Batteries lend the magic of their stored-up power.

Not only on the sea, in lighting yachts and firing the big guns of our navy, and on the land in countless industries do Exide Batteries play their unfailing part, but above the earth as well, Exides do their bit. For many of our airplanes use Exide Batteries for ignition, and nearly all wireless plants depend on Exides for reserve power. From the little battery that lights a motorcycle to the huge cells used in most central stations in our great cities for emergency power, there is an Exide Battery for every purpose.

NOT THE WHOLE TRUTH.

Why do the thirty-one Republicans of light and leading who signed the statement put forth yesterday in support of the Republican cause stop with Mr. HARDING's speech of Aug. 28? Is not the Des Moines speech of Oct. 7 equally canonical? Is it not of higher and final authority as expressing the later, the riper opinions of the candidate? On Aug. 28 Mr. HARDING said: "I would take and combine all that is good and excise all that is bad from both organizations," meaning The Hague Tribunal and the League. But in his speech at Des Moines he said flatly: "I oppose the proposed League," because, as he explained, "I understand precisely what we are being let in for." And further: "I do not want to clarify these obligations; I want to turn my back on them. It is not interpretation but rejection that I am seeking." Governor Cox, he said, "favors going into the Paris League and I favor staying out." The signers of this statement are described as friends of the League of Nations. Most of them have been known as sincerely friendly to it. Have they now, like Mr. HARDING, turned their backs upon the League? If not, how can they entertain the belief that "we can most effectively advance the cause of international co-operation to promote peace by supporting Mr. HARDING," who, as Senator JOHNSON says, has "scrapped" the League and proposes in its place only a vague, preposterous and impossible association?

The omission of all reference to that vital speech at Des Moines is not the only thing that surprises us in this statement of the thirty-one. They declare that President WILSON "insisted upon the agreement absolutely unchanged." Is that a fact? Mr. HITCHCOCK declared the other day that Mr. WILSON had consented in writing to the reservations offered by the Nebraska Senator, very important reservations and, we think, sufficient to satisfy every sincere and candid friend of the League. Senator GLASS made a statement in the Senate to the same effect in respect to the reservations agreed upon by both parties.

Again, these gentlemen declare that "it is idle to say that Congress has power to refuse to authorize war" to support the undertaking of Article X., because that would be "a refusal by our Government to keep the obligation of the Treaty," so that "the alternative would be war or a breach of solemnly pledged faith by the United States." President WILSON said on Oct. 3 upon this point that "there is nothing in the Covenant which in the least interferes with or impairs the right of Congress to declare war or not to declare war in accord with its own independent judgment, as our Constitution provides." Those who drew the Covenant, he said, "would have been amazed and indignant" at the Republican interpretation of Article X., which was carefully drawn to avoid any interference with the constitutional arrangements of any of the great nations.

These thirty-one gentlemen are all, we believe, Republicans. It is natural and to be expected that Republicans should support a Republican candidate for the Presidency. It is not by their example, therefore, but only by force of their reasoning and argument, that they can expect to influence others to abide with them under the Republican banner. Their appeal is not a call to the unconverted, like most campaign utterances. It is in effect a remonstrance addressed to those Republicans who are in process of conversion to the support of Cox. It comes too late. Millions of Republican men and women have already examined and rejected the arguments here presented. Many of them may vote for HARDING nevertheless, but on grounds of party faith and allegiance, because they dislike the Administration, distrust the Democrats, or for other reasons, and not because of any belief or hope that the election of Mr. HARDING will secure the ratification of the Treaty, bring the United States into the League of Nations, or promote any international agreement for the prevention of war that for an instant can be compared in probable effectiveness with the Paris Convention.

JUDGE MILLER'S SACRIFICE.

Not since CURTIUS rode his horse into the Forum swamp has the world seen a hero like Judge MILLER. He has sacrificed himself on the altar of his country. Modestly and nobly he recounts his legend:

> I did not consent to become the standard bearer of my party merely to become Governor of this State. I gave my consent to make this fight because in these crucial times I think that any citizen ought to be willing to make whatever sacrifice he can for the preservation of American institutions, for the safeguarding of America from the domination of foreign control, for the rescue of our Government and for the re-establishment of our free democratic institutions. I took this post first of all to make this fight for the election of HARDING and COOLIDGE.

Beautiful is this devotion, though it seems a little hard that the people of New York can't vote for a Governor and a Lieutenant Governor. Still, any good citizen ought to be willing to give up a few merely local rights or privileges for the sake of saving the United States "from the domination of foreign control" and of setting up again "our free democratic institutions." No impetuous zeal for rescuing our Government from gross extravagance has been shown by the Republicans of the present Congress; and the Republicans of the Legislature steadily resist the only means of reducing State extravagance and giving the State an economical, responsible, effectual Government. Beholding our shattered freedom and the accursed foreign dominators going forth to dominate, what good man will insist on mere pettinesses like economy and efficiency? Judge MILLER has sacrificed himself. Ought not the rest of us consent humbly to be sacrificed with him?

"American progress," Judge MILLER tells us, "has been based upon a great human law which has been unchanging, and that is that it requires incentive to stimulate ambition." With all respect to Judge MILLER, American progress, if the Republican theory is correct, has been based upon a great, divine and heaven-born law which, unfortunately, was changed by the smashers of our institutions at Washington. We must "undo the Underwood tariff" as Judge MILLER says, "elect a Republican President and a Republican Congress, and put back on the statute books a tariff which will protect American industries and American labor."

Exactly. We mustn't allow the foreign domination-seekers to dominate our industries. We mustn't let our foreign creditors to the tune of many billions pay their interest and their debts by sending their pauper-labor commodities over here. We must protect our farmers and our manufacturers by making it impossible for them to sell their surplus abroad. Commerce is a one-sided affair, not a matter of exchange of commodities.

Judge MILLER has sacrificed himself. The voters of New York have got to sacrifice themselves. To the tariff that fell from heaven all Americans must sacrifice themselves. Doubtless Judge MILLER begins his speeches not with "Fellow-Citizens" but "Fellow-Victims."

THE BRITISH COAL STRIKE.

If at the last moment the threatened strike of the British miners is averted, it will be because of the realization by the men that their action is foolish and will be futile. Their leader, Mr. SMILLIE, is an able man, but he has slowly been manoeuvred into an untenable position. At first his demand was for the nationalization of the coal mines. Forced to drop that, his next claim was that the miners should fix the selling price of coal. Unable to defend that, he finally came down to the irreducible minimum of an advance of two shillings a day in wages.

From even this he had to retreat in conference with the Government officials. They produced exact figures for the coal industry. These confounded him. Where he had alleged vast profits for the owners, the actual facts showed heavy losses for many of them, while the total profit for the entire number of mines was less than half of Mr. SMILLIE's estimate. But the worst blow was the showing that, with more men employed at higher wages, production had fallen off. During the quarter ended last March the coal mined was at the rate of 248,000,000 tons a year. In the succeeding three months it had dropped to 232,000,000 tons. Here came in the turning point of the final controversy—the question on which the miners have voted. What the owners proposed was a "datum line" of 240,000,000 tons a year. If production rose above that, wages would rise. Mr. SMILLIE agreed that the output should be greater, stating publicly that "the desire of the Government has our support." He and the other leaders advised the miners to accept the terms offered. But the ballot revealed a large majority for rejection and in favor of calling a general strike.

It will be intensely unpopular, if it comes, and cannot last long. Other labor organizations have condemned it in advance. The Government and the public are prepared to meet it with unyielding front. If the strike means simply a blunder by the miners, they will soon find that out. If it is due to a revolutionary element among them, that will speedily be detected and the responsibility fixed. Either way, the results cannot be so serious as it was feared two months ago that they might be. The danger at present is little more than that of a "rump" strike.

SPIGOT PROHIBITION.

By dint of two expeditions against the Italian steamship Dante Alighieri, customs officials succeeded in finding some 150 bottles of wine, owned and secreted by the crew. Meanwhile unnumbered resorts were in full blast beneath the city flag. There is much to be said for prohibition; but does it not apply with equal force to native and stranger, to bunghole and spigot? Those who predicted farce and futility in its enforcement could scarcely have imagined the carnival of absurdity which leaps to the eye on every side.

Consider the "wet curb." Thousands of cases of liquor, fraudulently released from bond, were openly sold and delivered. When that source was cut off, Canada began to ooze supplies all along some three thousand miles of her border. Distillers in Scotland report that their American trade is brisker than ever. For the moment the wet curb is lost—or more probably gone before. Eventually the enforcement agents may locate its new habitat; but, judged by past performance, they are not likely to locate the curb brokers.

And, finally, there is the matter of home brew. According to the Medical Society of Perth Amboy, local practitioners report that "intoxication has become alarmingly more prevalent" and is rapidly extending to mothers and children. These New Jersey physicians come out roundly for a modification of the enforcement law that will permit beer and light wines.

PEACE AT RIGA.

The Polish and Russian delegates have signed preliminary peace terms, which are to take effect at midnight on Monday—the delay being due to the difficulty of getting the news to the far-flung cavalry columns of the two armies. On the whole, the terms deserve to be called "a peace without victors or vanquished"; and that sort of peace is probably the best that could have been obtained. It is entirely true, as the heads of the peace delegations said, that both countries desperately needed peace; it is not so sure that both were tired of war. In the rank and file on both sides national hatred is intense, and there must be many who regret the lost opportunity to strike another blow at the traditional enemy. There are also highly placed gentlemen in both countries who want more than they will get and think they should have had more, and doubtless there will be efforts, both in Moscow and in Warsaw, to break the spirit if not the letter of some of the promises given at Riga.

So we can understand that JOFFE and DOMBSKI, the chief negotiators, regard it as a good deal of an accomplishment that peace was made at all. And it is, on the whole, a pretty satisfactory sort of peace, if both sides stick to it. There is no indemnity; the frontier is far short of Polish aspirations and equally out of keeping with Russian desires, but it is perhaps the most nearly defensible that Poland could have attained. There is a reciprocal pledge to support no revolutionary movements and no military organizations in arms against the Governments concerned. That means that the Bolsheviki abandon, or profess to abandon, their dream of Bolshevizing Poland, and the Poles will give no more help to WRANGEL. The Ukrainian Government which signs the treaty is the Bolshevist Government, controlled from Moscow, so the Poles must cut loose from PETLURA. But PETLURA took care of himself for a long time, and if we can believe the latest news from the Ukraine he is doing so pretty well now. On the other hand, the Bolsheviki promise to keep out of disputes between Poland and Lithuania. This is give-and-take of a most realistic sort.

But if it is a peace without victory in the light of the long history of Russo-Polish relations, it is very much of a Polish victory by contrast with the terms which the Bolsheviki offered two months ago when their armies were at the gates of Warsaw. That is the fruit of the triumph of Polish bravery and French leadership in the battles of August.

The Poles doubtless feel that they got little but sympathy from the western nations — aside from France, which sent WEYGAND—and as sympathy does not win battles they may feel that they owe no particular consideration to those whose friendship was taken out in talk. But sympathy is of some use, after all, and the Poles will lose a good deal of that sympathy unless they take some practical action to back up the governmental disavowal of the "mutineers" who seized Vilna. These Poles, living in territory likely to be allotted to Lithuania, saw themselves likely to become men without a country unless they could swallow their racial antipathies and become Lithuanians themselves. So they "resigned" from the Polish Army and drove the Lithuanian Government out of Vilna, where they have set up a new State on the order of Fiume. They deserve some sympathy, but if every disinherited national fragment is to be allowed to upset international agreement Eastern Europe will die in anarchy. Poland doubtless feels that their claim is just, but it cannot allow mutinous troops to rupture an armistice concluded by the Polish Government without admitting that it is no government at all. None of the enemies of Poland ever made a stronger argument in support of the charge of imperialism than General ZELLGOUSKI and his soldiers.

REPARATIONS AND PRESTIGE.

The conference at Spa began to clear away the wreckage of economic Europe, but little has been done since. The meeting with the Germans at Geneva has been postponed; the sum of the indemnity has never been fixed; and the recent dickerings between England, France and Germany have been long and profitless, based more on considerations of national pride and advantage than on the evident need of getting something done.

The Brussels congress produced little but wringing of the hands and expressions of good intention, largely because no real start can be made until the indemnity is fixed. Good intentions are well enough, but good sense is needed to supplement them. If this seems harsh comment, it may be justified by the recent contentions between England and France, which Premier DELACROIX of Belgium is now trying to harmonize in the interest of his own country as well as of the two principals. The French have won a victory in that the Reparation Commission is still to have the handling of the matter; the chief point of dispute just now is whether the Germans are to have a voice in the discussions or are to be called in for consultation on details. This seems like a question of French prestige, of unwillingness to admit the appearance of the German envoys in a position of apparent equality, rather than any intelligent objection based on practical grounds.

The fundamental premises are the same in any case. The Germans will pay not one mark more than they are made to pay, whether they come into the conference as equals or are merely brought in to hear its verdict. As a matter of justice Germany ought to pay for all the damage of the war, but everybody knows she cannot; it will take fifty years' work by a whole world to do that. It is a purely practical question of how much the Germans will endure rather than quit work and let their country go to smash. And that maximum is certain to be far less than the French have hoped.

The sooner the French set the amount, or let a conference in which they will certainly have the principal voice set the amount, the better; then they can start the work of getting it. Meanwhile by gigantic effort the French expect to balance their ordinary budget this year; but there remains an extraordinary budget of 24,000,000,000 francs for restoration of war losses which is backed only by the indemnity. Germany, in justice, ought to pay it all, this year and in the years following; but it cannot be extracted from Germany, and the French would do better to estimate what they can get and then go get it. French statesmen and financiers who demand the impossible are tying the hands of their friends in England; and unless those friends get the better of the British faction which is greedy for Central European trade, the French run a risk of getting next to nothing.

GORKY RECONSIDERS.

It was not long ago that MAXIM GORKY undertook to give to the world the true measure of LENIN's greatness. He placed the Russian dictator far above PETER the Great, and advanced him to the rank of the world's most powerful political reformer. Compared with LENIN, so GORKY wrote, CLEMENCEAU was nothing but a "wicked cynic" and President WILSON an "innocent romantic of democracy." As for LLOYD GEORGE, he was only one of the "professional murderers" who worked their will at Paris. But it would appear that the Russian writer has been a bit disillusioned about his hero. GORKY has just made a strong and moving protest against LENIN's imprisoning and killing of so many Russian scholars and scientists. He calls this the squandering of one of the great assets of the Russia that is to be. But if the intellect and education of the Russia of today are against the dictatorship of the proletariat, there is nothing for it but to lock them up or shoot them. However, it is reported that GORKY's belated appeal has had the effect of freeing some of the men whose crime consisted in possessing knowledge and a conscience.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Big Rewards with No Questions Asked. With robberies as frequent as they are now in this vicinity, and remembering how rarely the thieves are captured or the stolen property is recovered by the police, one cannot hold victims of the busy despoilers to an ideally perfect justification of efforts made by themselves to get back the treasures of which they have been bereft. Still, it is impossible not to wonder just what is the duty of the honest citizen who has been robbed—whether he does not fail in the performance of his duty as such citizen when the effort he makes is one that tends to make burglary a safer as well as a more profitable occupation than it otherwise would be.

For instance, how about adding to the offer of a large reward for the return of stolen jewels a solemn and emphatic assurance that no inquiries will be addressed to the person who brings them back to the owners? Only this week, "absolutely no questions" was the phrase that followed "$5,000 reward" in advertisements pleading for the return of a pearl necklace. This, by almost inevitable implication, means that no attempt of any kind will be made to apprehend, as well as none even to embarrass, the present possessor of the necklace when he comes to get more money than any professional "fence" would be likely to pay him for it.

Certainly the man who trusts to this assurance would have some right to think himself cruelly and meanly deceived if the advertiser kept the promise only to the ear and broke its spirit by having concealed policemen ready to seize the bringer of the treasure as soon as he had pocketed the $5,000. Certainly, too, the playing of such a trick would render the future making of like assurances next to useless as a means of recovering stolen property. Probably, therefore, it wouldn't be done, as the recovery of stolen property is the only thing which advertisers of this sort seem to have in mind.

Obligations, Legal and Moral. In such a case as the one just discussed, it is obvious that the man who brings back the stolen property is either the thief or else he is the agent of the thief, and equally guilty—equally a public enemy. As regards the law, it seems to be unquestionable, or at least unquestioned, in legal circles that no punishable offense is committed by the private citizen who traffics with robbers in this way and refrains from trying to bring them to justice.

That is not compounding a felony, the lawyers say, though compounding a felony is just what it looks like from some points of view; and they claim that the private citizen is under obligation to do the work of thief catching and thief prosecuting which he has relegated to policemen and District Attorneys.

That has a plausible sound—a sound as plausible as is that of many another lawyer's argument that is hard to refute and still does not carry conviction outside of the circle where it originates. No matter what the lawyers say, it is the moral, if not the legal, duty of every citizen to use reasonable diligence in the prevention of crime, and nobody can doubt that the unquestioning payment of rewards for the return without explanation by unknown persons of stolen goods encourages burglary, safeguards burglars and increases a social danger already large.

That the same condemnation, so far as theory goes, lies against a parent who thus recovers a kidnapped child is true, but to condemn such a parent would be carrying logic to its extremity and would lead, as always, into absurdity. It doesn't deprive the logic of soundness in the more moderate applications.

Regulation Held Permissible. In declaring unconstitutional the ordinance under which the police of Mount Vernon have arrested certain persons who attempted, without a permit from the Mayor, to make speeches in the streets of that city, Supreme Court Justice MARTIN J. KEOGH—whose opinions always command respect—took pains to make this important statement:

> I do not mean by this decision to question the right of the municipal authorities to regulate by reasonable ordinance the holding of meetings in the streets of the city.

This was, in effect, to say that, while an ordinance in regard to street speaking violated constitutional rights if it attempted to confer on a municipal official the power to refuse permits at his discretion, there would be nothing unconstitutional in an ordinance conferring on the same official the power to refuse permits for stated reasons of demonstrable adequacy. In other words, a city can regulate, but it cannot abrogate, the right to deliver speeches in public places.

Presumably, it would be reasonable, and therefore constitutional, not to permit public speaking of any kind, or on any subject, where it would interfere with legitimate traffic; presumably, any orator, even if provided with a permit, could be stopped and arrested for inciting his hearers to crime or violence.

It ought to be easy, therefore, and in fact it is easy, in any city, to draw, pass and enforce with regard to street speaking an ordinance under which really and legitimately objectionable or dangerous speakers can be silenced without infringing in the slightest degree the amount and kind of "free speech" to which we are all entitled.

The mistake made in Mount Vernon was that of trying to enforce an ill-drawn and unreasonable ordinance—an ordinance that enabled the Mayor, if he happened to be that kind of man, to exercise an oppressive and wrongful power. It is to be noted, however, that Justice KEOGH condemned the Mount Vernon ordinance, not the Mount Vernon Mayor, and that in his decision there is no comfort for the misguided folk who think that they have a constitutional right to say anything they choose, wherever they choose to say it.

A Choice Based on Nothing. Among the queerer peculiarities of New Yorkers is that of ascribing to white eggs a mysterious superiority to brown eggs. So strong is this delusion that they are willing to pay, and often do pay, more for the objects of their preference than they would have to pay for eggs precisely as good and cheaper only because of wholly imaginary difference in merit. Indeed, the brown eggs, being, as a rule, produced by hens of the Asiatic breeds or strains, are better, because larger, than the white eggs, most of which are laid by the smaller Mediterranean varieties. Yet not infrequently a tender New York mother can be heard to say that she, and the other adults in the family eat brown eggs because they are cheaper, she always buys white eggs for her children.

In Boston, for reasons unexplained and probably inexplicable, the New York opinion as to eggs is exactly reversed. There the brown ones are preferred and the white ones viewed askance as inferior, with a like result as to demand and prices. These are mere whimsicalities, with no basis on fact or experience. They are not exactly vicious, but it is humiliating that human beings, claiming to belong to the order of "homo sapiens," should be so foolish.

ONE HOPE FOR THE LEAGUE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many voters who believe in the League of Nations are sincerely puzzled by conflicting views and arguments and sincerely uncertain which party will most surely bring about ratification, with whatever reservations are necessary to protect American interests.

It is time to stop looking back and squarely face the issue with which we are confronted. Of course Wilson made mistakes and, of course, the League is not perfect, but the one great outstanding fact, which overshadows all defects is that for the first time the nations of the earth are uniting with a common purpose to maintain international law and order and enforce peace. Faults in the covenant can be corrected later as faults in our Constitution were corrected, but in the meantime the American people must decide whether or not the United States is to go down in history as the only important nation on the face of the globe which refused to join in this worldwide movement for human welfare.

The objection that the League constitutes a "super-government" which would impair our national independence indicates either ignorance or intentional misrepresentation. The League can only advise and every member is free to adopt or decline its recommendations. Under Article X., however, members of the League assume a joint obligation to protect each other against external aggression. This obligation is truly the "heart of the League," for without some means to restrain offending nations the League would be as futile as our civil laws without courts or police. There is little danger that any nation will be rash enough to defy the united opposition of other members of the League, for if the United States alone under the Monroe Doctrine has been able to protect South American nations from foreign aggression for more than a hundred years without firing a gun, surely the combined influence of forty nations should be equally effective.

Neither the Executive Council nor the Assembly of the League has any power to interpret or enforce this obligation, each member retaining complete independence and entire freedom to take such action as it sees fit in carrying out the undertaking. While Article X. in its present form would involve a definite obligation which must be honorably recognized, Congress would clearly have the right to determine in each case in what manner the United States should co-operate in bringing pressure upon any offending nation. Lloyd George in his recent statement to the British House of Commons makes it very clear that this obligation does not contemplate war and, indeed, that military action "is inconsistent with the whole theory of the covenant into which we have entered," which "contemplates other methods of bringing pressure to bear upon recalcitrant nations which are guilty of acts of aggression against their neighbors and endanger their independence."

There is not the slightest danger, however, that the United States will join the League without such reservations as will clearly define and limit its obligations. The Democratic candidate is in favor of joining the League with reservations; the Republican candidate favors not reservations, but rejection. Can there then be any doubt as to which candidate should receive the support of friends of the League? Mr. Griscom says that if Cox is elected international agreement and co-operation will be "as distant as the moon." This apparently means that if the majority of the American people, by electing Cox, indicate their desire to join the League of Nations, the Republican Senate will nevertheless oppose and prevent the ratification of the treaty. Surely no friend of the League can be deterred from voting for the Democratic candidate by such a threat.

Mr. Harding frankly favors "not reservations but rejection." To vote for such a candidate in the hope that he does not mean what he says or that he will change his views after election is not an inspiring program.

There is but one way for friends of the League to frankly stand up and be counted and that is to vote for Cox.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Granting some of the premises of "Voting with a Grimace" in today's TIMES, it does not necessarily follow that a man who is in harmony with the spirit in which the League of Nations was conceived is going to vote the Republican ticket because he hates Mr. Wilson nor that in doing so he is voting his animosities rather than his convictions. Mr. Hoover put his finger on the salient point of the whole argument in his Indianapolis address when he stated that statesmanship and leadership in the Democratic Party has not been in evidence since the declaration of the armistice; that, and Mr. Wilson's "offensive partisanship" in assuming that the Democratic Party should dominate the issues of peace-making, to the ignoring of all Republican interests, has brought about a lack of confidence in the Democratic Administration that temporarily, at least, relegates any and all issues for which it stands to the rear.

This doesn't mean that they hate President Wilson; it simply means that they want a change, and they are going to vote for Mr. Harding whether they like him or not rather than take any further chances of a continuance of party measures of which they have grown weary beyond words. The League of Nations will take care of itself for the present. As Mr. Hoover puts it, the solemn referendum is not on the League but on the failure of the Democratic Party to acquit itself in statesmanship and leadership for the last two years.

The Fourteenth Stripe.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The October Review of Reviews has a reproduction—reduced, no doubt—of a cartoon from Harvey's Weekly, showing the Republican candidate standing under a flag. It is not an American flag. Look for yourself and see. The candidate and his friends must have taken shrewd advantage of the lack of close observation on the part of the majority of mankind. It is quite pertinent to ask these masking Americanists what the fourteenth stripe stands for. Does it represent the new power in government, the Senatorial oligarchic cabal, the "Fourth Estate" in our hitherto threefold Government, the glorious efflorescence of the Republican century plant? Or does it stand for the German-Americans and other anti-League hyphenates that the ever-flopping, canny "Sage of Marion" and Chairman Will Hays are adeptly corralling into the fold of the Godless Oligarchic Partisans?

It might be well for those who revere the old Stars and Stripes to consider, to ponder. The Wise Man says: "In vain is the net spread in the sight of any bird." We are also reminded of two other well-known sayings, to wit: "Murder will out," and "Save us from our friends."

A PRAYER.

Give me new words, O God, to tell old dreams
So that a tired world may find them sweet;
Since they remain for me so beautiful
I long to give them freely when I meet
Those weary ones whose eyes and bitter lips
Show plainly that their dreams have met defeat.

Teach me to fashion such a thread of joy
That the bright verities of sea and sky
May creep into their hearts and there unfold
Some half-forgotten hope that still holds true—
So they shall cast aside what makes them old.

EDNA MEAD.

DAVIS TO PRACTICE HERE.

Will Join Stetson, Jennings & Russell on Return from London.

John W. Davis, Ambassador to Great Britain, will become a member of the law firm of Stetson, Jennings & Russell, 15 Broad Street, upon the expiration of his term of office. No time has been set for the Ambassador to begin his work here, according to Allen Wardwell, a member of the firm, who explained that the understanding was that Mr. Davis would come to this city when he felt his term of office had expired, which probably will be some time next year. Mr. Davis will return to London on Oct. 28.

It further was explained by Mr. Wardwell that Mr. Davis had been invited to become a member of the firm in view of the death of Frederic B. Jennings. The work of the old partnership is further affected by the serious illness of Francis Lynde Stetson. At present it is contemplated that Ambassador Davis shall participate in the general work of the firm rather than undertake any special line of legal activity.

The head of the firm of Stetson, Jennings & Russell, Francis Lynde Stetson, is personal counsel for J. P. Morgan and was personal counsel to the latter's father, the late J. P. Morgan, Sr.

WON'T CHANGE SHIP RATES.

Head of French Line Says Present Charges Are Necessary to Survive.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Gaston de Pellerin de la Touche, President of the Board of Directors of the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, commenting upon articles in the French press quoting Admiral Benson, head of the United States Shipping Board, as saying the board would "declare war on the French Line unless it agreed to enter the conference of shipping lines for the purpose of stabilizing rates," told The Associated Press today that the French Line was not looking for war. It had enough of war, he said, and wished to live at peace with every other company.

"In order to live at peace with one another," the Frenchman added, "we must first be in a position to live at all, and if we accepted the Shipping Board rates at the present time we would be unable to earn a living."

"I cannot believe," M. Pellerin added, "that Admiral Benson used the words 'declare war' as stated in the French press. If he did we are very sorry, but we must continue doing business on a paying basis or quit."

PEKING POLITICALLY QUIET.

Direct Dispatch Disposes of Shanghai Rumors of a Coup d'Etat.

PEKING, Oct. 14 (Associated Press).—Peking is politically tranquil at present and nothing is known here to justify reports of any crisis, actual or impending.

[This sets at rest the rumors current in Shanghai, as reported in a Shanghai dispatch of Oct. 12, that General Chang Tsao-lin, Governor of Feng-tien, had overthrown the Peking Government and proclaimed a monarchy.]

The question of a successor to General Li Shun, commander of the Chinese Government troops in the provinces of Kiang-su and Kiang-si, and leader of a powerful political group, who committed suicide at Nanking recently, is the subject of considerable speculation. In some quarters it is declared that the Government desires to profit by the vacancy and promote the reduction of the powers of the military governors through the appointing of some incumbent of no prominence.

On the other hand, the Shanghai interests, it is asserted, desire the appointment of General Wu Pei-fu, leader of the Chili forces in the conflict with the Anfuites, whose part in this victory made him a popular hero. The elevation of General Wu Pei-fu, however, might be opposed, it is said, by General Chang Tsao-lin, regarded as the power behind the present administration, but as yet there have been no developments along these lines.

The financial crisis is causing some uneasiness, and the results of the consortium meeting in the United States are being watched with interest.

WILL PAVE PERUVIAN CITIES.

New York Company Has Big Contract Covering Sanitation Work.

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 14.—A contract has been entered into between the Peruvian Government and the Foundation Company of New York for water supply, paving and sanitation work in Lima and Callao and their suburbs. The agreement provides for the expenditure of $1,000,000 in the next ten months on public works, which it is desired to have completed in time for the Peruvian centenary celebrations next year.

Contingent upon suitable financing arrangements being made, the contract also provides for the expenditure of an additional $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 on water supply, paving and sanitation work in thirty Peruvian towns and cities, the work to extend over a period of three years. The contract is on the basis of cost plus 10 per cent. The company has already started operations under the contract.

PLANS LEAGUE CELEBRATION

Milan Conference Recommends Yearly Commemoration

MILAN, Oct. 14.—Proposals for the establishment of an international bureau for education on the same lines as the International Labor Bureau were adopted at a plenary session of the Conference of League of Nations Societies here today. This organization would be called the International Educational Bureau, according to plans discussed at the meeting.

The conference also adopted a motion in favor of the inclusion in the curriculum of all educational institutions, from primary schools to universities, of lessons in the principles of the foundation of the League of Nations and the duty of citizens toward it.

A recommendation has been made by the conference that each year a day be set apart over the entire world on which the anniversary of the foundation of the League of Nations may be celebrated.

KING ALBERT MADE MARSHAL

Brazilians Also Vote to Raise Belgian Legation to Embassy.

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 15.—The Chamber of Deputies has approved the Senate measure making Albert, King of the Belgians, a citizen of Brazil and a Marshal of the army. It has also voted to raise the Brazilian Legation in Brussels to the rank of an Embassy.

These measures are expected to be approved by President Pessoa before the Belgian rulers start on their return voyage to Belgium aboard the dreadnought Sao Paulo tomorrow.

DR. PARKHURST IN NEW POST

Accepts Pastorate of Manhattan Congregational Church.

The Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst has accepted the active pastorate for one year of the Manhattan Congregational Church, Broadway, near Seventy-sixth Street. He will begin his work tomorrow. Dr. Parkhurst, who is 78 years old, is one of the two pastors emeriti of the First Presbyterian Church on a pension of $8,000. The other is the Rev. Dr. Howard Duffield.

For thirty-seven years Dr. Parkhurst was pastor of Madison Square Church, which three years ago with the University Place Church, was absorbed by the First Church. The Manhattan Church has been without a pastor since September, 1919, when the Rev. Dr. William T. McElveen accepted a call to Portland, Ore.

J. P. MORGAN TABLET FOR ART MUSEUM

CHINESE HAN TOMBSTONES

Scenes Depicted Are a Commentary Upon Ancient Life—Arms from Old Tombs of Japan.

Two interesting pieces of work that are going on at the Metropolitan Museum of Art are preparations for a memorial tablet to the late President of the Museum, J. Pierpont Morgan, and the placing of the delightful pediment by Adolph A. Weinman, formerly on the Madison Square Presbyterian Church, on the south side of the Museum building at the rear of the library.

The tablet will be by Paul Manship, and is not yet completed. It will occupy a prominent place in the big main entrance hall of the Museum, at the right of the broad staircase leading to the floor above. The placing of the tablet requires some change in the wall and a large houselike framework has been erected around the place and attracts the attention of visitors.

Mr. Weinman's pediment is a charming piece of work, figures in relief on a blue ground. It was not possible to remove it without damaging it to a certain extent, and Mr. Weinman has volunteered to remodel the broken places in preference to having them mended, and the scaffolding is still standing before the pediment awaiting the completion of this work. It was necessary to widen the rear wall of the library to place the pediment and this has permitted the insertion of a couple of rosace windows, which were also in the church.

There was opened yesterday in the gallery which has been devoted to Japanese prints in the Department of Far Eastern Art, Room H-11, an exhibit of interesting rubbings of old Chinese (Han) tombstones. The scenes depicted upon these old stones are a delightful commentary upon ancient Chinese life. There are kings and queens and spirited horses and chariots, savage battles and representations of devoted acts of filial piety. The latter are like fairy tales. One of these celebrates the virtues of a nobleman who, having a wife and child and old mother to care for, became very poor, there was food for only three mouths and he gladly, with noble filial piety, prepared to sacrifice his three-year-old son and bury him alive. Digging deep into the ground to perform this noble act he found, however, a treasure-trove of gold, a reward for his virtue, and the husband, wife and child lived happily with the old mother until death came naturally and the father's noble deed was engraved upon his tombstone. There is one actual stone, of beautiful workmanship, from the mortuary chapel of one of the old tombs. This is an unusual exhibition and there is probably nothing like it outside of China and the British Museum.

In the exceptionally fine collection of Japanese arms and armor at the Museum changes have been made in the arrangement, and a fine lot of old armor which it is said could not be duplicated outside of the national collections of Japan has been placed on exhibition for the first time. It is from old tombs of Japan, dating from A. D. 700 back. The reverence of the Japanese for their ancestors has prevented the opening of the big mounds which formed the old tombs until recently, and now that this has been done the finds of ancient arms have reconstructed much of the early history of the country. Very interesting are a lot of old swords, which are, according to Dr. Bashford Dean, Curator of the Department of Arms and Armor, Korean or possibly Chinese (T'ang), which found their way into Japan, he says, at the time of the winning of the kingdom by the heavenly ancestor of the emperors. There is a carefully prepared restoration of one of these swords by the well-known artist, Sarakatsu Gassan, after a specimen now in the Imperial Museum at Tokio.

There are interesting old stirrups, some of them worn previous to A. D. 600, and ornamental work, Japanese trappings in copper gilt of the same period. There are quaint reproductions of horses, the size of a big dog, which were placed at the heads of the graves, the actual accoutrements they wore, including bells like American sleighbells, shown in other cases.

Beautiful metal work, as fine as a goldsmith's work, are sword mountings, sword knives, &c., from the Goda collection. Goda was a Japanese expert who collected not only for himself, but for one of the princely families of Japan.

In the Bulletin of the Museum, which will appear in a few days, is the announcement that Director Edward Robinson of the Museum, who is also the curator of its classical department, has been granted a leave of absence for six months to enable him to visit Egypt, Greece and Italy during the coming Winter and Spring, and the Museum's Egyptian expedition near Thebes. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will sail on the Cretic Nov. 9 for Naples.

WILL LET SOCIALISTS SPEAK.

New London Mayor Won't Bar Street Addresses, If Not Inflammatory.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 15.—Mayor E. Frank Morgan, after more fully considering the question of permitting the Socialists and Socialist Labor Party members to speak in the street in this city, has decided that he will not oppose them further in their efforts to hold open-air meetings, provided that there is no indulgence in inflammatory speech.

He said today that he would withdraw his instructions to the Captain of Police ordering the arrest of any of those speaking without a permit, but that all open-air meetings would be under surveillance, and in case any remarks were made which tended to incite the public against constituted authority, the arrest of the speaker would follow.

The Mayor says that he has no objection to meetings of Socialists or members of the Socialist Labor Party if they are held in properly designated localities, and also if their utterances are not against the fundamental principles of established government.

Under the Mayor's ruling there will be no opposition to the Socialist rally planned for Sunday, of which the Socialists expected to make a test case.

LEARN TROUBLES OF ALIENS.

Citizens and Officials Make Part of Harbor Trip with Immigrants.

The committee of officials and citizens, which was to pass through Ellis Island with immigrants yesterday, found their plans upset when there was a long delay in getting the foreigners off the Adriatic. Several of the committee, including Commissioner of Immigration Wallis, Collector of the Port Newton, and representatives of the League of Foreign-Born Citizens, among them William Fellowes Morgan, went on board the steamer down the harbor with the customs officials, and talked with the steerage passengers as the Adriatic came up to her pier in the North River. Mrs. Vincent Astor went on board there and joined the committee.

It was learned from the immigrants that several of them had been robbed at the disinfecting station at the free port of Danzig. Commissioner Wallis took the names of those who complained, in order to investigate the matter.

The trial trip through the immigration channels will be completed later.

PEEKSKILL, Oct. 15.—Sailors and marines as well as Palisades Park policemen and volunteers were out all day searching for Welbourne Davis, four years old, son of Paymaster John K. Davis of the United States naval magazine station on Iona Island, near Peekskill, who vanished from the island four days ago. It is believed he may have been lost in the woods in Stony Point township, on the mainland, near the island.

The naval officers hope either to find the body of the little fellow, who everybody about the station knew and cherished, or else rescue him in the woods. The child may have crossed the bridge to the mainland and got lost in the wooded mountains nearby, or he may have fallen off the docks of the island and been lost in the river. The seamen adn naval officers are dragging the river with grappling irons around the island. At least 200 persons are taking part in the search.

WALLSTEIN TO AID IN HOUSING INQUIRY

Counsel for Citizens' Union Selected as Untermyer's Associate by Legislators.

REWARD "FAIR" LANDLORD

Jersey City Reduces Assessment of Owner $500 and Thanks Him in Letter.

Leonard M. Wallstein, Commissioner of Accounts under the Mitchel administration and at present counsel for the Citizens' Union, will be associated with Samuel Untermyer in the Legislative Housing Committee's investigation of savings banks, insurance companies and the alleged Building Material Trust. The appointment of Mr. Wallstein was made at the suggestion of Mr. Untermyer, and the choice found immediate favor with Senator Lockwood, Chairman of the committee.

In a statement Senator Lockwood said that nothing would please him more than to have Mr. Wallstein associated with the inquiry. Mr. Wallstein when notified of the appointment announced that he would accept the commission.

"It is about time," he added, "that something is done to break up the so-called Building Material Trust and compel the savings banks and insurance companies to put part of their money in mortgages, thereby stimulating housing projects. Figuratively speaking, I have taken off my coat, and I don't put it on again until the party is over."

As Commissioner of Accounts, Mr. Wallstein has figured in many important inquiries.

The start of the investigation has been set over one day. The committee learned that the Aldermanic Chamber in City Hall, where the hearings are to be conducted, would be in use on Tuesday, the origina lday set. The committee will therefore begin its work on Wednesday morning.

A conference attended by Senator Lockwood, Attorney General Newton, Deputy Attorney General Samuel Berger, Mr. Untermyer and Nathan Goldstein, statistician of the committee, was held behind closed doors yesterday afternoon in the Murray Hill Hotel. The question of the State prosecutor aiding in the inquiry was discussed at length, it was said.

The tax officials of Jersey City in making out the 1920 assessment roll are taking cognizance of landlords who are not increasing the rent of their tenants, judging from a letter received by one such owner, a copy of which was furnished to THE TIMES. The letter follows:

Department of Revenue and Finance,
Bureau of Tax Assessments,
City Hall,
Jersey City, N. J.
[Official Seal
Corporation of Jersey City.]
James F. Gannon, Jr., Director.
October 7, 1920.
Mr. Ferd. Bartels, 138 Bowers Street,
City.

Dear Sir: Your tenant, Mr. William F. Deidloff, advises me that you are among the landlords of Jersey City who have been decent and fair in relation with their tenants. I appreciate that it is very easy for any property owner to take advantage of the present shortage of houses and demand an extortionate rent. You have not done this, and are certainly to be commended for your fairness.

I have raised assessments where rents have been increased, and I think I am justified. I further think that the rule should work both ways, and that in making assessments I should recognize in some measure the landlord who has not increased rentals to an unreasonable extent. I am therefore reducing your assessment for 1921 $500, and trust that you will appreciate the spirit of this reduction more than the amount involved.

Yours very truly,
JAMES F. GANNON, Jr.,
Director.

BRITAIN PLACES EMBARGO ON COAL

short period, however, the general passenger service will be cut by 10 to 20 per cent.

Meanwhile freight service will dwindle automatically. Fifty per cent. of the normal freight trains, it is reckoned, carry coal and another 30 per cent. commodities for the manufacture, of which coal is necessary. These will, of course, disappear of their own accord.

Food stocks throughout the country are reported to be good, and the Food Ministry expects no trouble as long as it can get trains. The country is divided into twelve food districts, each under a capable food commission. They will meet emergencies as they arise.

The only thing to be rationed immediately is sugar, the allowance of which will be cut next week from 12 to 6 ounces per head, and it is hoped to avoid altogether the rationing of meat and other necessaries. If, however, trains are interrupted, then each food district will be split into numerous areas, each under its own officer, and recourse will be had to many expedients to meet the situation. Thus cattle will once more be driven to market for distances up to sixty or eighty miles. Cities and large centres must depend on foreign meat. Coasting steamers, of which the number this year is greatly increased, will be pressed into service and the all-important yeast will be brought from Scottish and Ulster distilleries to English ports in torpedo boat destroyers.

Motor Transport Ready.

Meanwhile the Ministry of Transport has its scheme for organizing motor transport in place of the railroads all complete. It is declared that the wonderful work which was done last year during the railway strike can be multiplied twenty times, if need arises. Lorries, drivers, routes, are all ready, and columns of food wagons will be run along the highroads of the United Kingdom as trains.

The Ministry of Transport has been at work on this scheme for months, and has installed in its Whitehall offices 130 beds, so that the work of supervision can go on night and day. Consequently the tone in Ministerial quarters is one of quiet confidence.

If only people will keep their heads and carry on quietly, responsible officials are quite certain the strike can be met and defeated. So far, indeed, there has been a complete absence of excitement in London. The spirit of the people is known by the fact that all today there has been a constant stream of callers at the Ministry of Transport, offering their automobiles or their personal services in case there is need of them.

Will Affect All Europe.

LONDON, Oct. 15 (Associated Press).—There were no signs late tonight of any intervention or mediation to avert the coal strike which, by decision of the miners' delegates in conference this morning, goes into effect on Saturday night, taking from the mines more than 1,000,000 men.

The Cabinet at a meeting today discussed and decided upon all necessary steps to protect the public services and the interests of the public in general. The fact that the Government has had such a long time to make preparations has tended to give a feeling of confidence to the people. Premier Lloyd George will remain in London over the week-end, instead of taking his cus-customary visit to the country, so as to be ready for any new development.

Public sympathy appears to be entirely with the Government. Many people concede that the miners are entitled to an increase in wages by virtue of the increased cost of living, but contend that the men should have accepted the Government offer to submit the matter to an independent tribunal. There is no doubt negotiations will continue during the strike, and the hope is expressed that something in the direction of a settlement may come from the assembling of Parliament next Tuesday.

In the course of a speech after the miners' conference today Robert Smillie, the miners' leader, expressed regret that the strike had been forced on the miners through the "obduracy of the Government and their unwillingness to recognize the equity of the miners' demands." He declared that he had adopted a pacifist attitude in the belief and hope that a great industrial struggle would be averted, but now, that the miners had decided to enforce their claims by the only weapon left to them, he urged them to be of good cheer, as they had passed through more perilous times.

Mr. Smillie said unity was needed and he hoped there would be no blot on the good name of the Miners' Federation. Personally, he would fight with them to the bitter end.

Hyde Park will be secured as London's central clearing house for milk and the despatch of foodstuffs into the districts covered by the milk lorries. Labor organizations may co-operate with the Ministry of Food in the distribution. The sugar ration will be reduced by half immediately, and other commodities rationed when it becomes necessary.

It was announced by the miners today that some of the men in the engineering departments of the mines would remain at work to keep them in order.

Coincident with the strike decision came the announcement that the Government had placed an embargo upon the export of coal, which move will have far reaching effects upon neighboring countries more or less dependent upon Great Britain for their supplies.

In connection with the embargo on the export of coal the Government this afternoon prohibited foreign ships from taking bunker coal.

American Shipping Board officials here were told by the British Coal Controller's Department this afternoon that the order prohibiting the coaling of foreign ships was issued to enable the checking up of available supplies.

The officials were given assurance that after this had been done passenger and mail-carrying vessels would receive first consideration in the allocation of stocks on hand.

The Shipping Board officials also were assured that there would be no discrimination against American and other foreign ships in these classes. Anticipating the eventuality of a strike, the Shipping Board has arranged with the French Government for supplies of bunker coal at Brest, where it is believed there will be sufficient to meet the Shipping Board's requirements for fifteen days. In addition to this source there is considerable privately owned American coal at Rotterdam and Copenhagen.

It is stated that there is adequate American-owned fuel oil in British ports to take care of the Shipping Board's oil burners, which constitute half the board's fleet now in British and Continental waters.

Hope at the moment is at a low ebb. All reports from the mine fields show that the majority of miners are determined to have nothing to do with the wage proposal of the owners and are ready, even eager, to fight it out.

"There is a bitter spirit among the men," said Herbert Smith, Vice President of the Miners' Federation, today. "If the Government refuses to give way only starvation will defeat the miners, and they will go back then discontented."

The public attitude, as voiced by many of the London newspapers, is hostile to the position taken by the miners, who are accused of lack of reason, wanton folly and wickedness and a desire to impose their will tyrannously upon the whole nation. The miners are told by the newspapers that the public will support the Government and it is insisted that if they strike they must learn through defeat and disappointment that, powerful as they are, the nation is still more powerful. Alarm for the country's economic position is gravely expressed.

"A large number of important industries already are in so tottering a condition that only the slightest push is required to cause them to collapse entirely and a coal shortage would immediately be fatal," is the opinion of The Daily News.

The Times and Daily Mail claiming a desire to show fairness to both sides, refrain from condemnation of either and make suggestions by which they believe the difficulty might be met, but declarations ascribed by various newspapers to the miners indicate that such proposals are not likely to be considered.

Anxiety generally is expressed as to how the other members of labor's triple alliance—the railwaymen and transport workers—will act in the event of a strike. Their attitude as yet is uncertain, although it is believed that a large section of the railway men favor making common cause with the miners. The laborite mouthpiece, The Daily Herald, says it has every hope and every confidence that the other great unions will stand by the miners, and declares: "The day of the capitalist is at hand." The newspaper appeals for solidarity on the part of all the workers.

Speaking at Dundee, Scotland, today on the subject of employment for former soldiers, Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary for War, said that if the great coal strike occurred its consequences would be felt in the derangement of every industry.

If there was a coal strike he did not see any hope for dealing with unemployment in a satisfactory manner, even if the stoppage of the mines was of only a fortnight's duration.

LONDON PAPERS PREDICT GRIM FIGHT TO A FINISH

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Papers of all shades of political opinion, with the exception of The Daily Herald, organ of the extremist agitators, support the Government's attitude in the coal crisis. While hope is expressed that Lloyd George's statement that the Government "still is ready to explore every avenue that might lead to a peaceful solution" may at the eleventh hour result in averting a national disaster, it is agreed that if a strike comes it must be combatted to the end by the community at large.

The Daily Telegraph says it behooves the country to see that those who have made this trouble shall rue their folly. "If the miners strike," it says, "they must be beaten, for it is only through defeat and disappointment that they will learn that, powerful as they are, the nation is still more powerful, and that there are other interests to be taken into account besides their own."

The Morning Post says: "If the miners strike they will be committed to a blunder whose folly and wickedness are unparalleled in the annals of industry in this country. There will be no weakening, either on the part of the Government or of the country. The public will resolutely support the Government, and if the miners expect the smallest sympathy or encouragement they will be disappointed."

EXPECT CALL FOR COAL HERE.

China, Australia and India Also to Supply Europe.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The turn around of American ships in British ports will not be slowed up by the embargo placed on the export of coal by the British Government, officials of the Shipping Board said today. It was explained that most American vessels clearing for English ports coal for the round trip on this side. To meet any emergencies, the board has an adequate reserve supply of bunker coal on the other side.

Imposition of the embargo, officials of the National Coal Association said, will not affect coal prices in the United States. They explained that the amount of coal available for export at the present time was governed by the various Interstate Commerce Commission priority orders. Practically all domestic coal, they said, is covered by the priority orders and, while the demand for export coal will be increased, it cannot react on coal for home consumption.

The countries affected by the British embargo are expected by National Coal Association officals to turn to the United States, but they, it was said, will have to take their chances along with the other foreign bidders, the situation as to export coal here even before the British embargo having been pronounced as "acute."

France may turn to China for more coal in the event of inability to get it in the United States. China, according to advices, has already contracted to furnish 100,000 tons of coal to France, 10,000 tons to Denmark and is offering 200,000 tons more for delivery in Europe.

India is said to be sending coal to France, Italy and Egypt, while South Africa has also been exporting to Egypt and Italy. Coal from Australia has reached Scandinavia.

TRAVIS ADMITS ONE 'BLOT ON HIS OFFICE'

Compromised Moral Obligation to Save State $100,000 in Fanshawe Deal, He Says.

Kernochan Elicits Fact That Controller Failed to Ask Attorney General's Advice.

State Controller Eugene M. Travis, continuing his testimony yesterday at the John Doe inquiry into his purchase of bonds for the State Sinking Fund, said that "the only blot on my administration" was the purchase of a block of bonds from Albert L. Judson, who made $800,000 in profits on bond sales to the State, at a compromise price, resulting in a loss to William S. Fanshawe Judson's associate in the deal, of about $100,000. The price paid by the Controller was 5½ points above the market price.

Mr. Travis testified that he had agreed to take the bonds a year before the sale was made and that he felt "morally obligated" to pay 94½. By the compromise, although Fanshawe lost $100,000, the State paid about $110,000 more that the market price.

"This is the only time I ever entered into a moral obligation with a man and didn't keep it," said Mr. Travis. "No written contract had been signed, so I took advantage of the seller and squeezed him for $100,000."

The Controller said he did not know what Judson's connection was with the sale, except that he was acting for Fanshawe. Previous testimony had disclosed that under Judson's arrangement with Fanshawe, Fanshawe alone bore the losses, although Judson got the greater part of the profits.

Mr. Travis said that after "refreshing his recollection" with regard to the part in the transactions played by James A. Wendell, Deputy Controller and Republican candidate for Controller to succeed Mr. Travis, he was satisfied previous statements he had made to Assistant District Attorney Pecora were incorrect and that Wendell had played only a minor rôle. He denied the authorship of a letter to the Metropolitan Trust Company authorizing the company to pay the Guarantee Trust Company for bonds of a par value of $3,250,000 on which Judson got a big profit without putting up any money. He could not remember a letter stamped with the Controller's signature which Mr. Pecora produced and which contained an offer to sell the State $500,000 in New York City bonds and the reply that purchases were not being made for the Sinking Fund.

Mr. Travis told in detail of the transaction of Nov. 16, 1917, in which he said he "squeezed" Judson and Fanshawe.

"Judson called at my office in October or November, 1916," he said. "The market, he told me, looked good and he said he would like to sell me a couple of million dollars' worth of New York City bonds. After that he talked to Wendell again. Then I told him that we had no money, but would probably have some in January, and would take the bonds at that time. If the market goes down, I said, we must get the benefit. The price then was about 96, I believe.

"Well, the sale dragged along for months and months and the market kept dropping. Finally I did what I've been ashamed of ever since. No written contract had been signed, so I took advantage of the seller. That I consider the one blot on my administration.

"The market dropped to around 84 in November, 1917, on small lots of bonds. One day Le Roy Baldwin, President of the Empire Trust Company, told me he was calling for more collateral on the bonds, which his bank was carrying for Fanshawe, and he didn't believe that Fanshawe could put it up. I told him I would have to take advantage of the absence of a written contract and squeeze him. Then I agreed with Fanshawe to buy the bonds at 89½. I was morally obligated to pay 94½."

Mr. Travis had told Mr. Pecora last August that Mr. Wendell had made the verbal agreement that constituted the "moral obligation." Correcting this he said: "I am not sure about it, but my impression is that I made the agreement and not Wendell."

Mr. Travis testified that after the deal had dragged along for more than six months a conference was held in the New York branch of the Controller's office, at which Mr. Travis, Mr. Wendell, William Boardman and Judson were present. The Controller said that while Mr. Wendell believed the State should take full advantage of the drop in the price of bonds, his other deputy, Mr. Boardman, apparenty thought that there was a legal obligation on the part of the State to take the bonds at 94. His own position, he said, was that Fanshawe was entitled to the original price, but he advocated a middle course because he couldn't afford to stand the criticism which would have followed a purchase at 94.

He described a subsequent talk with Fanshawe as "heartrending." "I think I squeezed him too hard. I am not at all proud of that transaction."

Mr. Travis was questioned about his distinction, if any, between a moral and a legal obligation. He said he didn't believe there was any difference. Chief Justice Kernochan asked whether the Controller had presented the legal aspects of the situation to the Attorney General for a legal opinion. Mr. Travis replied that while his memory was hazy on that point, he thought some lawyer in his office had advised him that the Fanshawe claim was legal.

"If you had consulted the Attorney General" said Justice Kernochan, "and he had decided that the obligation was legal you could have paid 94 for the bonds, saving Fanshawe from loss entirely and clearing yourself of any possible criticism."

"I will not throw my obligations on the Attorney General. I don't believe in 'passing the buck,'" the Controller replied.

"But that is what the Attorney General is paid for," said Justice Kernochan.

Regarding the letter authorizing the Metropolitan Trust Company to pay for $3,250,000 in bonds, which both Mr. Travis and Mr. Wendell repudiated, Mr. Pecora called attention to the Controller's stamp and Wendell's initials, and asked Mr. Travis who he thought had written it.

"Well, we have a stenographer who sometimes draws up form letters for Mr. Wendell to sign. This might have happened," said Mr. Travis.

"Do you mean to say that a bond purchase involving the expenditure of more than $3,000,000 of State funds might have been intrusted to a stenographer, with the result that the State gave almost unlimited authority to a private bond dealer, and thereby suffered a heavy loss?" Mr. Pecora persisted.

"I did not say what happened. What I said was merely offered as a possible explanation."

Justice Kernochan at one point cautioned both Mr. Travis and Mr. Pecora to stop their wrangling. He warned Mr. Travis about generalizing too much in his answers and Mr. Pecora about interrupting the witness.

The testimony of Mr. Travis took up all of yesterday's session. Mr. Wendell will be recalled on Monday, when the inquiry will be resumed.

PILSUDSKI RESIGNS, THEN RECONSIDERS

REBELS SEND ULTIMATUM

LITTLE STATES ALARMED

Fear Polish-Finnish Plan for Alliance Against Russia Will Do Injury to Them.

WARSAW, Oct. 15 (Associated Press).—General Joseph Pilsudski, President of the Republic of Poland, tendered his resignation as Chief Executive today. At the request of the Government, however, General Pilsudski withdrew his resignation provisionally.

The establishment of the Provisional Government of Central Lithuania, the name adopted by the new regime at Vilna, is absorbing virtually all the attention of the various Polish Government officials and has replaced the Riga peace negotiations as the leading feature of the newspapers.

The occupancy of Vilna also has caused a stir in the foreign ministries, particularly the British and French. They have been in constant communication with their Governments with reference to the questions arising from the attempt to create a new State, with Vilna as its centre.

Both the British and French Ministers called on General Pilsudski yesterday and discussed at length the subject of Vilna. General Pilsudski afterward conferred with Premier Witos, Prince Sapieha, the Foreign Minister, and others.

It is reported some of the members of the League of Nations' Commission of Control who have been at Suwalki have gone to Vilna to confer with General Zeligouski and the members of the temporary commission of the new State. Several of the League's representatives, having remained on the Polish side of the line, already have discussed the problem with a representative of the Polish Foreign Office, who left on Tuesday for Suwalki.

Premier Witos, in a statement yesterday in the Diet on Poland's attitude toward the Provisional Government of Central Lithuania, declared his disapproval of General Zeligouski's action. He expressed regret that General Zeligouski took the initiative into his own hands, but gave assurances that Poland would uphold the new State should it be attacked by any power.

General Zeligouski's action was culpable military disobedience, Premier Witos asserted. The Premier said he approved the proposal that self-determination be granted the temporary Government at Vilna.

General Zeligouski has sent the old Lithuanian Government at Kovno an ultimatum demanding that all the Lithuanian troops be withdrawn twenty kilometers to the west of the Vilna-Grodno Railway. The ultimatum contained a twenty-four-hour time limit.

Small States Are Alarmed.

RIGA, Oct. 14 (Associated Press).—Political discussion has been excited throughout the Baltic States by the arrival in this city of Rudolph Holsti, Finnish Minister of Foreign Affairs, to conduct negotiations with M. Dombski, head of the Polish Peace Mission, which reached a preliminary peace agreement with Soviet Russia late last week. His arrival is looked upon as confirmation of insistent rumors that Finland and Poland have made a secret agreement that neither will complete a separate peace with the Bolsheviki until the two countries reach a perfect understanding, and lay the foundation for a Baltic union, in which the two countries would be the backbone.

Lithuanians are greatly agitated by the announcement by Polish authorities that two Polish regiments are moving against Vilna to dislodge General Zeligouski and his troops, the action of whom in occupying Vilna has been disavowed by the Warsaw Government. Lithuanians claim these additional troops are "merely reinforcements" and they are panicky over the movement of troops, said to be Polish, from Vilna along the railway toward the Latvian frontier.

Latvians also are uneasy, and have mobilized troops along their border to resist the "outlaw" Polish troops, should they attempt to cross. Entente officials are exercised over the attitude of the forces in Vilna, which are said to have prevented the League of Nations Commission from entering the city, and, it is alleged, subjected it to what the British describe as "insults."

WRANGEL CONTINUES ADVANCE ON DNIEPER

Believes Bolsheviki Cannot Resume the Offensive for Months.

SEBASTOPOL, Oct. 13.—General Wrangel's advance across the Dnieper is proving successful in spite of stubborn Bolshevist resistance and counter movements by the Bolsheviki in the direction of Pologu Station on the northeastern front.

The South Russian anti-Bolshevist forces have not as yet felt the reaction of the Polish-Russian peace agreement (which it had been assumed would release Soviet forces from the north for action against Wrangel), and General Wrangel believes that if his present offensive succeeds, the Bolsheviki, at the worst, would be unable to drive him from the Crimea.

In the opinion of observers, a successful termination of the present attack would enable General Wrangel to retain his position and resist for many weeks any new Bolshevist attacks.

General Wrangel realizes the grave dangers ahead because of the Polish-Bolshevist peace, but has expressed the belief that any new offensive on the part of the Bolsheviki is months away, as it will take a long time to reorganize the units lost to Poland. The Bolsheviki must also replace immense quantities of munitions.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—The offensive begun by the forces of General Wrangel, the anti-Bolshevist leader in South Russia, on the right bank of the Dnieper has been pursued successfully, says an official statement issued by the Wrangel administration on Monday and received here today.

"We defeated the Sixteenth and Twenty-first Regiments of Bolshevist cavalry and part of the Third Division of Sharpshooters," the statement adds. "We captured six cannon and other booty."

Mail Pilot Sends Airplane 163 Miles in 70 Minutes

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 15.—All previous records over the air mail course between Salt Lake and Rock Springs, Wyo., were broken today when Pilot Yeager, with Ship No. 177, made the 163 miles in one hour and ten minutes, clipping fifty minutes off the previous record.

OUTLET IN FRANCE FOR STANDARD OIL

BIG FLURRY ON THE BOURSE

Stocks of Other Oil Companies Fall and Battle of Corporations Is Expected.

PARIS, Oct. 15 (Associated Press).—The Temps this evening prints a dispatch dated New York saying that the Standard Oil Company had founded a branch in France. The dispatch added that negotiations between A. C. Bedford, President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the Banque de Paris et Pays Bas had reached the final stage in the organization of a French subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company, with Jules Cambon as President.

The news created considerable of a stir on the Paris Bourse and was the cause of greater speculation in oil stocks than had been seen for a long time. Royal Dutch shares declined 100 francs, while Shell Transport stocks also were weak, closing 8 points below Wednesday's figures.

Laurent Eynac, General Commissioner of the French Government, charged with the supervision of the oil trade in France, said that today's excitement was due to more than speculative interest, as it meant that the price of oil and gasoline would be much lower shortly, and that this probably would be the salvation of the French automobile industry.

A. C. Bedford told The Associated Press this evening that the negotiations had not yet reached a point where he could make a statement. Asked if it were true that a Franco-American Standard Oil Company had been organized, Mr. Bedford replied: "We have had a subsidiary branch in France since last April."

The article in the Temps says the American Standard Oil Company controls 49 per cent. of the company and the Bank de Paris et Pay Bas 51 per cent. The American representatives of the company are given as A. C. Bedford, H. E. Bedford and W. Oswald, and the French members as M. Cambon, Horace Finaly and Jules Rein.

In Bourse circles it was generally contended that the formation of the company was the culmination of negotiations which had been going on for the last year in efforts by the Standard Oil Company to gain the right to enlarge its business in France, but in which it was opposed bitterly by other oil interests, the shares of some of which suffered a decline on the Bourse today. Some members of the Bourse asserted that it was just the beginning of an open battle between two of the most powerful oil companies in the world, private negotiations between them having failed.

Company Was Obstructed in France.

Complaint was made some months ago by the Standard Oil Company that the French were placing obstructions in the way of the introduction of fuel oil into France by the company's French subsidiary. In May it was learned in Paris that the State Department at Washington had made representations on the subject to the French Government.

The Standard Oil Company on April 1 organized a French concern for handling petrol products with a capital of 25,000,000 francs. Negotiations had been going on for a considerable time between the Standard Oil Company and the French Government for the purpose of obtaining permission to erect oil storage tanks at Havre and to carry out other necessary business projects. Permission for the construction of these storage facilities was refused, and, according to officials of the company, other obstacles were encountered.

DISPUTE KLAGENFURT VOTE.

Jugoslavs Clamor for Occupation Despite Decision for Austria.

VIENNA, Oct. 15.—Great demonstrations occurred today in Laibach, Jugoslavia, the people demanding immediate occupation of Klagenfurt, where Sunday's plebiscite resulted in favor of Austrian sovereignty, according to dispatches received here today. The Jugoslav press is making a unanimous protest against the result of the plebiscite, and M. Jovanovic, Jugoslav member of the Plebiscite Commission, resigned from that body after the decree certifying the plebiscite was signed.

Italian troops are still in Tarvis and Villach. The Jugoslavs say the presence of their troops is merely to protect national property.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—From Rome and Berlin reports have reached Paris that battalions of Serbian troops have occupied four of the districts of the plebiscite area of Klagenfurt. No direct confirmation has been obtained, but the French Government has hastened to issue a denial of the statement made in a Stephani Agency report from Klagenfurt that such action by Serbia has any support here or has had at any time the approval either of the Council of Ambassadors or of the French Government.

The result of the plebiscite, which has given the area to Austria, has been apparently a surprise to both parties. The Jugoslavs, after a busy campaign among the electors, were confident that the vote would give them sovereignty over the whole south Carinthian area. On the other hand the Austrians seemed reconciled to their prospective loss.

The opinion held here is that the deciding factors were the abolition of compulsory military service in Austria and the fact that the town of Klagenfurt is the market for the produce of all the surrounding country. For the first reason the women especially appear to have voted against incorporation in the Serbian Kingdom, in which military service is still obligatory, while the peasants seem to have realized that half the value of their crops would be lost if their land was separated from the town of Klagenfurt.

While in Vienna the result has been the occasion of rejoicing over evidence of the recrudescence of the Austrian national spirit, it has caused deep disappointment at Belgrade. Any such step as the occupation of part of the plebiscite area by Serbian troops would, however, be a violation of treaty terms with which the Council of Ambassadors would have to deal.

In the fervent denial of the Stephani Agency report that such action had its support it is stated that the Council of Ambassadors has throughout urged that the troops stationed in the neighboring districts respect scrupulously the decision of the population.

BOMB WARFARE RAGING IN ITALY

League of Nations Society Delegates in Peril—General Strike Starts—Many Dead in Riots.

MILAN, Oct. 15.—A bomb attack on the Hotel Cazor, where the British delegates to the Milan International Conference in connection with the League of Nations are in residence, was carried out by anarchists on Thursday night. Great damage was done, but fortunately no lives were lost.

The diabolical nature of the outrage is evidenced by facts related at today's inquiry. Of the two bombs thrown, the first was hurled into the vestibule of the hotel, the throwing being directed by signals to miscreants from an upper window of the hotel by one of the waiters, Cesare Bossi. After his arrest a quantity of anarchist literature was found in his room, and when cross-examined at police headquarters he made no secret of his Maximalist convictions or his membership in the Italian anarchist Syndicalist Party.

The second bomb, which exploded in a dark square fronting the hotel ten minutes later, was a large infernal machine to which was attached a time fuse more than forty feet long. The police have no doubt that, while the first bomb was intended to scatter destruction among the foreign guests inside the hotel, the second, which should burst only half an hour later, was calculated to increase the massacre among the crowd of sightseers and Royal Guards who would by that time be thronging the square.

Four other suspects since arrested have been released.

Although considerable material damage was done, there are only two cases of personal injury, the victims being the hotel director and another staff employe. In each case the injuries were slight.

In the course of disorders in Trieste six bombs were flung into the editorial offices of the Socialist daily Lavoratore. Nationalist rioters invaded the printing plant and then set the building on fire. Pietro Belli, local correspondent of the Milan Nationalist newspaper Popolo d'Italia, was shot through the brain.

The American Consul General, Joseph E. Haven, and Lincoln Eyre, correspondent of The New York World, happened to be in the Lavoratore offices at the time.

The linotype machines were broken up with hammers, and the furniture was thrown out of the windows into the street and burned by the demonstrators. A big safe, however, was recovered intact.

Sixty revolver shots were fired on the premises. The front of the buildings opposite were shattered by the force of the bombs. Eight citizens, among whom is the Secretary of the Trieste Labor Exchange, as well as two policemen, are lying in a hospital dangerously wounded as the result of the outrage.

Another general strike has been started. There are no municipal services, no trains, no sea traffic, no newspapers, and the city is in a state of siege.

General strikes have also been declared in Bologna and Brescia, in which two towns the number of dead is given as six, and of wounded twenty-five.

MILAN, Italy, Oct. 15 (Associated Press).—In yesterday's disorders, which were caused by a fight between Anarchists and Socialists on the one side and Nationalists on the other, two passers-by were killed. They were Count Armando Morganti of Rome and Colonel Gaspare Panzini of the retired list of the army. The police were attacked by the mob and fired in retaliation. One of the mob was shot dead and ten members of it were wounded.

ROME, Oct. 15.—A general strike has been declared in Trieste, Bologna and Brescia, the Messaggero announces today.

The total casualties in the rioting at San Giovanni Rotondo yesterday are given in latest reports as fourteen killed and eighty seriously wounded.

According to the accounts, the casualties occurred as the result of Socialists taking possession of the City Hall and attempting to hoist the red flag. The invading forces, it is declared, fired at the carabinieri, and the latter, reinforced by troops, returned the fire. The messages add that a general strike has been proclaimed there.

TRIESTE, Oct. 14 (Associated Press)—Nationalists demonstrators, for the most part youths and students, created a disturbance in the city today. Five persons were wounded, one of them fatally, during the disorder.

Bombs were thrown, and a building which housed a Socialist newspaper was set on fire. Those employed in the plant made their escape through the windows.

Joseph E. Haven, the American Consul, was in the neighborhood at the time with an American newspaper correspondent. There was heavy firing all around them, but neither was hurt.

The nationalists, led by a young veteran of the World War named Fascisti, staged the demonstration as a protest against a general strike called by the Socialists. The latter announced after the outbreak their intention to remain on strike indefinitely.

BRESCIA, Italy, Oct. 14.—One person was killed and several wounded during serious disturbances today at the conclusion of a meeting of strikers, revolver shots being fired at the police. Order has been restored.

BOLOGNA, Oct. 15.—As a result of yesterday's rioting a general strike of twenty-four hours has been proclaimed. There was a greater number of victims among the police and carabinieri than among the rioters.

BOY FINDS BIG DIAMOND.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—A messenger boy employed by a jeweler in Avenue de l'Opera found yesterday in the Avenue Hoche a man's gold ring, with a big solitaire diamond. The stone was so large that his employer first thought it must have belonged to the Russian Crown jewels, but close examination revealed the secret mark of a well-known Rue de la Paix jewelry house. The latter declared that the ring had been addressed to them a month ago by their Lyons branch in the registered mail. They had never received it and a few days ago were paid by an insurance company 50,000 francs, at which the stone was valued.

How the ring came to be on the pavement of the Avenue Hoche is a mystery which the police are investigating. The messenger was liberally rewarded.

A still luckier find was made last night by a Paris chauffeur named Guillosseau, who discovered a satchel in a taxicab containing notes and scrip to the value of 800,000 francs. The address of owner, Mme. Giron, was inside. Guillosseau was richer by 10,000 francs when he left her apartment.

Benson Says Critics of Shipping Policy Have or Expect Favors From Foreigners

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Hidden behind corporate names there are Americans "basking in the favor of foreign shipping interests" who are creating the impression that ships are a menace to the nation, Chairman Benson of the Shipping Board declared here tonight in a message read by a representative of the board at the dinner which opened Merchant Marine Week.

"Plain speech harms only those who are afraid of the truth," the Chairman said. "What American worth his salt will stand up in public and say our merchant marine is a menace to this nation or any other? Yet we find men hidden behind corporate names and organizations who have the audacity to create such an impression. But when you tear off the mask you find that these same men are basking in the favor of foreign shipping interests or have hopes in that direction. Now and then their efforts to muddy the waters succeed to the extent of influencing honest opinion against the Shipping Board's policies which aim to upbuild a permanent merchant marine."

The magnitude of the country's effort in world shipping may seem to spell disaster to other nations, the message said, but it should not, as America was only taking up the slack in shipping brought about during the war by the work of the submarine.

"Those who worry most about our entrance into ocean commerce must be our cousins overseas—the British," Chairman Benson's message asserted. "For many centuries the mistress of the seas, she had carried the message of commercial advance. But it is essential that the world should understand that we, who fully appreciate the service rendered by other nations, are now ship-independent in the development of our ocean carrying trade. We mean to play our part in manly, American fashion and have done so from the start.

"I pledge myself to help see that not only my own, but other Governments be brought to a point where they fully agree to retire absolutely from ocean carriage which could only mean uneven competition with the private owner. We are endeavoring to do this as quickly as possible and the law demands it."

FRENCH TAX RETURN THREATENS DEFICIT

AFFECTS BRUSSELS PLANS

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—There is a fresh cloud on the French financial horizon. September returns from the new tax on the total turnover of all business only amount to 292,000,000 francs instead of 700,000,000 estimated. The Treasury Department attempts to explain the deficit by saying the tax is still unfamiliar and will work better later, but the fact remains that an annual result based on the September figures would mean a deficit of 5,000,000,000 francs in the ordinary budget.

As taxation has pretty well reached the limit it is hard to see where the remedy is to be found except in the ruinous practice followed during the war, and still applied to reparations and pensions, of utilizing the proceeds of national loans to fill the gaps. For the forthcoming loan itself, the prospects are not too bright. The stock market is now in the throes of repression and brokers say the chief reason is the general tightness of money due to the fact that all business houses are overstocked with goods they cannot sell because the public is waiting for prices to fall. To get cash they are forced to throw even gilt-edge stocks on the market at a sacrifice.

If this explanation be correct, the result of the loan will probably be a disappointment. This will have the effect of focussing yet more strongly public attention upon the problem of reparations, which already is taking a bigger and bigger place in the newspapers every day. When the mass of the public realizes fully how the reparations octopus is crushing the fruits of their hard work toward recovery, their excellent harvest and their heavy taxation, there will be a national demand that Germany be forced to pay, whose violence and vehemence may well smash into fragments any half-way or compromise solution such as the Brussels conference is likely to reach, if the experience of Spa is any criterion.

The British are understood to be pressing for the assembly of the Brussels conference at the earliest opportunity, if possible before the end of the month. It seems quite certain that the Germans will be admitted on level terms to the preliminary discussion of experts, who, in accordance with the French wish, will be members of the Reparation Commission. The French Government has made the discovery that British and Italian members of the Reparation Commission were no more likely to agree with French ideas of how Germany should be treated than Lloyd George and Giolitti, and as the decision of the Reparation Commission must be unanimous the French promptly abandoned their activities in that direction. At present France is chiefly occupied in trying to arrange for some sort of caucus of allied leaders only, either before or during the second decisive part of the Brussels conference, in order that they may get together on the terms to be set before Germany and the form of pressure to be applied in the event of German refusal to accept them.

URGING CHARLES AS KING.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 14.—At a sitting of the Hungarian National Assembly today it became known that partisans of the Hapsburg family had endeavored to render possible the return of ex-King Charles before the ratification of the Peace Treaty.

The leader of the opposition to Charles, former State Secretary Kovacs, declared that since Charles refused to renounce his claim to the Austrian throne, to choose him would be tantamount to reestablishing the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. The free choice of another King, he argued, was necessary.

The Carlists answered: "We have already a crowned King."

There were loud countercries: "The crowned King took flight!"

WELLS CHEERS SOVIET.

Says He Believes in Other Methods, but Issue Is the Same.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—According to a dispatch from Reuter's Heesingfors correspondent, H. G. Wells, speaking before the Petrograd Soviet recently, said:

"I am neither a Communist nor a Marxist. I and my friends seek the realization of the realm of social justice through the entire world, but not by the road of catastrophe. We would rather urge the necessity of cultural preparation in England and America. We have other conditions than you and therefore other methods, but the final issue is the same."

Wells in conclusion said that all forces were working for peace with Russia with the object of enabling the country to work peacefully. The English people would not relent until peace was effected, he added.

COTTON MEN HEARD BY RESERVE BOARD

Ask Rediscounting of Paper on Which Factors Have Made Advances.

PROPOSAL THOUGHT UNWISE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Representatives of Southern cotton commission merchants and bankers appealed to the Federal Reserve Board today for suspension of regulations defining rediscountable paper in another effort to gain relief from the credit "stringency" which cotton interests declare has struck the whole industry.

The propositions laid before the board, however, were declared by Governor Harding to be so intricate and to involve such serious questions that the delegation, numbering thirty or more, received no definite reply. Five Southern Senators headed the committee.

Board members indicated they feared the "disastrous" results to business generally should the restrictions about which the cotton men complained be lifted. Suspension of the regulations even temporarily, it was said, would mean a flooding of Reserve Banks with requests for rediscounts on paper classified as similar to the obligations which the cotton men desired to have accepted.

Specifically the delegation asked that the reserve banks be permitted to rediscount paper on which the commission man had made advances to the cotton planter. Governor Harding declared, however, that this form of paper, even though secured by mortgage on the planter's crop, did not come within the meaning of the Federal Reserve act, which defined the classes of obligations which might be rediscounted. He said the loans represented an advance on an option, the commission man himself not being engaged in either agricultural or industrial production, as required in order that his note might be rediscounted.

Senator Smith of Georgia urged "some sort of help, even if it is only a temporary suspension of the regulations until Congress can amend the law." He believed the change would be "readily and easily made at the next session."

The conference of Federal Reserve agents and Reserve Bank Governors with the board was not ended tonight, as had been expected, and there were indications that the questions involved in the proposal of the cotton representatives would received attention tomorrow.

While marking time and awaiting the expected statement from the Federal Reserve Board, the farmers appointed a special committee to treat directly with the American Bankers' Association, which meets here next week. The farmers say that if the Federal Reserve Board rejects their plea they will ask the bankers to aid them.

The special committee consists of John Tremble of Beloit, Kan., a wheat farmer; Dr. R. O. Young of Youngsville, La., a sugar grower and banker; R. F. Bower of Washington, Charles A. Lyman, Secretary of the National Board of Farm Organizations, and J. S. Wannamaker of Orangeburg, S. C., President of the American Cotton Association and a banker.

WANT LOWER FLOUR RATE.

Millers Appropriate $250,000 to Aid Ocean Freight Revision.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The Millers' National Federation today chose a committee of twenty-five to supervise efforts to obtain revision of present ocean freight rates on American flour and appropriated $250,000 to be used by the committee in its work.

It was charged that present rates on flour were discriminatory. Flour should have the same consideration as wheat, members held. British millers make flour from American wheat, which is shipped cheaply, and thereby procure European trade which had belonged to United States millers for years, delegates asserted.

Present rates on wheat will result in the exportation of 100,000,000 bushels of the 1920 crop, it was said.

But Physician Emphasizes Grave Character of Malady.

ATHENS, Oct. 14.—The grave character of the malady from which King Alexander of Greece is suffering was emphasized today by Dr. Georges Vidal, the noted French specialist, who is in Athens attending the king in the illness caused by the bite of a monkey which the monarch sustained nearly two weeks ago.

Dr. Vidal expressed the opinion that the gravity of the King's disease was indicated by the persistence of the jaundice with which he has been affected and by the fever which also was continuing, having lasted all last night.

"The King passed a quiet night. His temperature varied from 100.4 to 104.9. This morning at 10 o'clock his temperature had fallen to 100.4. His pulse was 100.

"Professor Vidal continues to believe the strong constitution of the King warrants hope for his recovery."

GERMANY'S COAL DELIVERIES

1,936,865 Tons for August and September, Bulk Going to France.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Germany fulfilled the terms of the Spa coal agreement for August and September by delivering to the Allies 1,936,865 tons of coal, the Reparation Commission announced today. Of this France received 1,477,629 tons, the remainder going to Italy, Belgium and Luxemburg.

OUST ALL EMPLOYES AT CORK FORD PLANT

PUTS HOPE IN PARLIAMENT

Fasting Mayor Thinks Commons Will Release Him—His Brother Has No Passport.

CORK, Oct. 15.—Nearly 1,500 employes, or virtually the entire staff, of the new Ford automobile tractor plant here are reported to have found themselves at least temporarily out of work when they returned to the plant this afternoon from masses celebrated in all the Cork churches today for the hunger strikers in prison.

Notices were posted at 10 o'clock this morning forbidding the men to interrupt their work to attend church services on pain of dismissal or having their wages docked. Nevertheless, a majority of the force left the works at 11:30 o'clock, and when they returned found that the plant had been closed down.

A prominent Sinn Feiner visited the plant and appealed, on behalf of the men, to the American manager, Edward Grace. Mr. Grace is said to have declared that he was contemplating installing an entire new force of operators, but he finally consented to take the present workmen back, but not until next Monday.

BELFAST, Oct. 15.—A party of men, said to be Sinn Feiners, raided the Spence & Hohnstone Engineering Works here last evening, held up the workmen with revolvers and set fire to the building. The flames were quenched before great damage was done.

Can Deport MacSwiney's Brother.

LONDON, Oct. 15 (Associated Press).—Peter J. MacSwiney, brother of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, who came to England without a passport or a seaman's certificate, thereby violating international law, today appealed to the American authorities in London for advice and to ascertain if there was any method by which he might be given the status of an American citizen here.

The American authorities informed Mr. MacSwiney that it was impossible for them to intervene in his behalf. They suggested that he was at the mercy of the British Government, which could deport him without interference from American officials.

The Home Office, which has been aware of the situation arising from Mr. MacSwiney's visit to London to see his brother, has not yet decided what it will do. In the meantime Mr. MacSwiney is being allowed perfect freedom in London. Scotland Yard representatives called at Mr. MacSwiney's residence once, but he was absent. So far as is known they have made no further attempts to interview him.

The morning bulletin issued by the Irish Self-Determination League on Lord Mayor MacSwiney's condition today said that he passed a good night at Brixton prison, but, nevertheless, was exceedingly weak this morning.

This was the sixty-fourth day of MacSwiney's hunger strike.

Miss Annie MacSwiney, sister of the Lord Mayor, paid her usual visit to Brixton prison this afternoon. On leaving the prison she said:

"My brother is confident that his case will receive the consideration of Parliament soon after that body convenes next Tuesday. It is his hope through Parliamentary action that he will obtain his release. This, I believe, has kept him alive during the last few days.

"His mind is clear, but his whispers are scarcely audible. The emaciation, which has been most marked in his legs and arms, is now giving his face an unnatural appearance. Personally I don't think he can hold out much longer."

CAPTURE TWO MAGISTRATES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Oct. 15.—Two magistrates have mysteriously disappeared in Westmeath, and apparently they have been kidnapped. Yesterday morning W. Maxwell Moore, resident magistrate, and Gustavus Hyde, J. P., left Mullingar in a motor car to attend petty sessions at Castlepollard, 13 miles away, and they have not been seen since.

The only tenable theory is that as they are two of three magistrates in Mullingar district who have not resigned their duties, they were kidnapped and now are being held prisoners by Sinn Fein forces. The authorities are prosecuting a close search for the missing men. Police and soldiers patrolled the roads in the neighborhood last night and stopped all motor cars. Shots were fired at one car near the town, which refused to halt, but it escaped in the darkness.

GERMAN SAID TO MAKE PERFECT DIAMONDS

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—It has taken a German chemist to discover the secret of the diamond. Some time ago there were rumors that an important German firm had not only acquired a patent for the production of these precious stones, but had actually manufactured diamonds in such quantities as to warrant the conviction that yet another of Nature's mysteries has been definitely unveiled.

It is now known that the firm in question is the Dynamite Company, formerly Alfred Nobel of Hamburg.

No details are available as to the nature of the process, though it is believed to differ very considerably from those hitherto tried. I am assured that not only have many diamonds of good size already been produced by it, but also that the cost of production is such that it will be possible to make them very profitably. In quality, too, the artificial stones are said to be equal to any which come from the mines. Indeed, I believe experts have declared the quality of some to be even better than the average natural stone.

The cost of production, of course, is considerable, but is still very much lower than the ruling market price.

In the diamond market, which is naturally highly interested and not a little alarmed at the news, it is stated today that it is believed the price will be as much as 40 per cent lower.

There has been and is a great business done in diamonds in Germany, and many merchants have large stocks on hand, and they fear a rush to sell may be caused by the prospect of lower prices in other quarters. However, such a fall is not expected, as it is thought that the prices of the artificial stones when they come on the market will be put at a figure only "just low enough to break the British monopoly," as one merchant said today.

The company referred to has not yet sold any diamonds and is producing only at the rate of a few hundred carats daily. Only a few privileged experts have been permitted so far to see the manufactured stones. It is hoped there will soon be a weekly production of between 20,000 and 30,000 carats.

Wool Growers Want Embargo; Report Vast Stocks in Storage

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 15.—Wool growers of the United States are preparing to make a determined effort to secure legislation placing an embargo on foreign wool during the coming short session of Congress in December, according to an announcement today by F. R. Marshall of Salt Lake, Secretary of the National Wool Growers' Association.

At the present time, he asserted, thousands of tons of domestic wool remains in the storehouses of the country, while clothing manufacturers and others are purchasing wool grown in foreign countries at lower prices.

BRITISH VOYAGERS EXPECT BRIEF STRIKE

Passengers Arriving on the Adriatic Believe That English Miners Will Lose.

CONFIDENCE IN PREMIER

Col. Thompson Tells of Plans to Instal an Aerial Police Force in Brussels.

Passengers arriving yesterday from England via Cherbourg, on the White Star liner Adriatic, were eager to get the latest news regarding the strike called by the English miners. They expressed the opinion that it would not last long, because there were too many interests involved and a good percentage of the coal miners did not wish to strike. Business men said they were confident Lloyd George could handle the situation, and they did not believe that he would call a general election over the strike situation, because there was a possibility that his party might be defeated.

Sir William Wiseman of the London banking firm of Hendons, who arrived on the Adriatic on his way to Mexico on business for his company, said that the strike had been fostered by the younger and radical element of the miners against the advice of the older men. The masses of the laborers in England would be against it, too, he said, because it would result in the tying up of the industrial plants. As the Government had been warned of the strike, it had taken care, he added, to provide for the operation of the railways.

Wilmott H. Lewis, who has come over to be the Washington correspondent of The London Times, agreed with Sir William Wiseman, and said the whole nation in England would be united to defeat the coal miners because their action would be felt in every home in the coming cold weather.

Another writer on board who held the same views on the strike was George Ward Price, who served as war correspondent for The London Daily Mail in France, Macedonia and East Africa.

Colonel Jefferson de Mont Thompson, President of the Aero Club of America, who returned on the Adriatic after witnessing the Gordon-Bennett Cup race in France, said that Brussels was about to install an aerial police force and that Paris and London have each made appropriations for the purpose. He said he would give the result of his investigations to Mayor Hylan and Police Commissioner Enright.

Other passengers on the Adriatic were Lady Scott, widow of the Antarctic explorer; Cyril Scott, British composer; Colonel William J. Donovan, formerly in command of the 165th Regiment of Infntry; Mrs. Dudley Field Malone, R. D. Garden, father of Mary Garden, and Colonel H. C. Sparks.

The liner brought 2,250 passengers.

REDS TO MEET IN MEXICO.

Assembling of Fourth Internationale Scheduled for Next January.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The Fourth Internationale, in the affairs of which the Russian Bolshevist leaders have assumed a commanding position, will meet in Mexico City next January. This statement is printed in a recent issue of El Universal of Mexico City, which paper, in making the announcement, pointed out that already the Red element in Mexico was at work to exclude from the Internationale at its coming meeting the leaders of the liberal or "yellow" element, as the Mexicans call the moderate radicals. Furthermore, El Universal asserts that the present Mexican Government will take no steps to oppose the meeting of the extreme radical groups of the world from assembling in Mexico City.

That Bolshevism is making headway in Mexico is apparent from many reports that reach Washington from Mexico. There was a demonstration a few weeks ago in front of the National Palace in Mexico City, and only a few days ago a similar demonstration in the State of Nyarit, formerly known as the State of Tepic. Additional evidence that very little is being done to check the spread of Bolshevist doctrine south of the Rio Grande is found in the fact that the present Mexican Government has failed to keep its word, given a few weeks ago, to deport from the country the various alien agitators who, it is admitted, are the leaders and the brains of the Mexican radical movement.

Among these alien agitators is Linn E. A. Gale, the New York draft deserter, who published, with the full approval an dsupport of the Carranza Government, the most bitterly anti-American paper printed in Mexico, and who, after the overthrow and murder of Carranza, continued to do so. Whether or not the paper has been recently suspended was a question THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent was unable to ascertain through official or other channels today. It is reported, however, that Gale is still busy as ever.

FIRE GRIPS AMERICAN SHIP.

Havana Expects Loss of Krakow, Seized Austrian Steamer.

HAVANA, Oct. 15.—The Americn steamer Krakow, which caught fire early this morning, apparently will be destroyed notwithstanding the efforts of the city fire apparatus. The flames broke out afresh during the day and extended to all parts of the vessel. It is estimated that the loss will exceed $1,000,000.

The steamship Krakow is owned by the Polish-American Line and, according to her owners here, has been tied up at Havana since Juy. The ship was formerly the Clara, under the Austrian flag, and was seized here by the Shipping Board when the war was declared.

Marshal Foch is Honorary President of the committee, and Field Marshal Lord Haig of Great Britain and General Diaz of Italy will be members of the body. Thus the committee will include the supreme chiefs of the four great allied armies arrayed against Germany.

ZINOVIEFF URGES GERMANS TO REBEL

DEATH TO THE BOURGEOISIE

PLANNING REVOLUTION HERE

Hopes to Mobilize Asia for a "Holy War" That Will Engulf England and America.

HALLE, Germany, Oct. 14 (Associated Press).—For fully four hours tonight G. S. Zinovieff, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Third Internationale and one of the four big chiefs of Soviet Russia, pleaded with the Independent Socialists at their convention here to join with Moscow, create a revolution in Germany and help carry out the proletarian program for a world revolution.

At the conclusion of the Russian's address the radicals of the party and the audience in the packed galleries stood with bared heads singing the Internationale, while the conservatives walked slowly out of the hall.

A great ovation was then accorded Zinovieff, with many "Hochs" and cries of "Long live the Internationale" and the waving of hats.

It is expected tat the vote as to whether the Independents will adhere to the Moscow organization will be taken tomorrow.

Throughout his impassioned argument the Russian orator was the storm centre of cries of approval from the Left wing in his audience, followed by bitter words from the Right. At one time he charged the German labor unions with being "no better than Noske's White Guards," and said that they were tools in the hands of the capitalists. The entire audience hissed its disapproval of this declaration, and a number of the Right wing leaders, shaking their fists, rushed to the rostrum, threatening the speaker and demanding retraction.

During the demonstration the Bolshevik, young, smooth-faced and slight of build, leaned on his left elbow and ran the thin fingers of his right hand through his short, thick black hair and smiled with apparent amusement. This attitude infuriated his auditors, and it was only with the greatest of difficulty that the Chairman after some minutes was able to restore order. Zinovieff then resumed his speech and soon won back the sympathy of the crowd.

Zinovieff devoted much of his time to answering attacks by Herr Crispien, Vice Chairman of the Independent Socialist Party, and Wilhelm Dittmann, Radical Socialist member of the Reichstag, on the policy of the Soviet on first-hand evidence of its operations which they obtained during their visit to Moscow with Herr Stocker and Ernest Däumig, the two last-named men hving supported Bolshevism during the first two days of the conference.

Zinovieff declared that the agrarian policy of the Soviet was necessary because the peasants would not be satisfied to work the land solely for the State. He defended terrorism on the ground that it had been necessary in the early stages of the revolution. The speaker asserted that the Balkans were now ready for revolution, which later would be extended to Asia and America.

He denied that the Bolsheviki would use Germany to attack France, but he declared that if the Germans joined the Third Internationale they must accept Moscow's orders.

Zinovieff predicted that it would require a generation to accomplish the universal realization of Communism. He said the Asiatic nations must also be mobilized, "after being freed from much religious tradition," for a holy war on capitalism. He said the English proletariat was now undergoing an evolution of world significance, in that a double Government was already in existence in England, which meant eventual death to the bourgeoisie. The bourgeoisie, he said, were not entitled to any quarter, as they would not hesitate to slaughter hundreds of thousands more of the world's proletariat.

Concluding his address, Zinovieff said that every sentence of the Moscow platform must not be taken literally as unalterable gospel. He invited the convention to formulate conditions which would facilitate negotiations.

This statement precipitated another outbreak among the delegates, who immediately engaged in lively debate among themselves.

In the course of the speeches of Dittmann and Stocker the conference frequently threatened to end in disorder. The gray head of George Ledebour was always a storm centre to the radicals. Twice he invaded the Left Wing and threatened its leader, Adolf Hoffmann. The members of the Left continually were held down by their leaders, and the uproar generally proceeded from the galleries and the conservatives.

The convention took an adjournment until Friday.

DRY APOSTLE KIDNAPPED.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The students of Sheffield University have just carried out a lively "rag" at the expense of an American prohibition lecturer. H. S. Warner, Secretary of the American Students' Temperance Movement, arrived in Sheffield yesterday to address the local student body. After making a tour of the university buildings he was taken to the general lecture room a quarter of an hour before the time announced for his lecture.

There a large audience had assembled. Warner, having been introduced, bowed and smiled and was about to begin his address when suddenly the lights were turned out and the hall was left in total darkness. A few seconds later the lights were turned on, and, to the surprise of all present, the lecturer had disappeared.

His kidnappers conducted him to a motor car which was in waiting at the main enarnce to the university, and the order given to the driver was: "Derbyshire moors." But this was not his destination. Warner was whirled away to Redmires, a beauty-spot a few miles out of Sheffield. On the way out the students accompanying him gave him song selections, and he took the whole affair good-humoredly. But at Redmires he was quietly set down in the road, and the car drove off.

WALL ST. EXPLOSION LAID TO GELATIN

SENDS REPORT TO FLYNN

A report, declaring that fifty pounds of blasting gelatin caused the Wall Street explosion last month, was submitted yesterday to William J. Flynn of the Department of Justice, by Dr. Walter T. Scheele, an explosives expert of Hackensack, N. J. The conclusions contained in the report, a document of seventy typewritten pages, were reached after a chemical and microscopic examination of fragments of metal found at the scene of the explosion and taken from the bodies of victims.

Dr. Scheele's report goes at great length into consideration of the different kinds of explosives which might have been employed. The character of the explosive was finally determined after he had made an exhaustive study of the testimony of witnesses concerning the nature of the sound made by the explosion, the color of the flame and smoke, and the manner in which survivors had been affected.

His knowledge of explosives was placed by Dr. Scheele at the disposal of the Government during the war, and to him are accredited two inventions which were used effectively during the conflict. It is said to have been through his discoveries that a way finally was found to load shells with the high explosive, TNT, before they were transported to Europe. Previously the explosive and shells had been shipped separately to the other side, where the loading was done.

When Dr. Scheele was asked for further details showing how he had arrived at his conclusions, he declined to discuss the report unless permission were procured from Mr. Flynn. The latter was out of his office during the afternoon and had not returned home at a late hour last night.

A man of the same name as Dr. Scheele, who was President of the New Jersey Agricultural Chemical Company in Hoboken, was indicted with eight others by the Federal Grand Jury in this city in April, 1916, on a charge of having conspired to set fire by means of incendiary bombs munition ships plying between this port and Europe. It was declared in the indictment that the activities of the conspirators were continuous from Jan. 1, 1915, until April 13, 1916. Those indicted with Dr. Walter T. Scheele were Ernest Becker, chief electrician on the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Friedrich der Grosse; Captain Eno Bode, Assistant Superintendent of the Hamburg-American Line docks in Hoboken; Friedrich Karbade, fourth engineer of the Kaiser Friedrich der Grosse; Wilhelm Parades, George Praedel and Carl Schmidt, all engineers on the same ship; Captain Charles von Kleist, one time superintendent of Scheele's chemical company, and Captain Otto Wolpert, pier superintendent of the Atlas Company, a subsidiary of the Hamburg-American Line.

Scheele was the alleged brains of the conspiracy, and was said to have received checks from the recalled attaché of the German Embassy, Franz von Papen, which enabled him to carry on the work of the plotters. He was charged with having procured the lead pipes from which the bombs were made and placed on ship, usually in the cargo, timed so as to explode after the ship was well at sea. Scheele also was said to have worked in close co-operation with Captain Franz von Rintelen.

Following his indictment Dr. Scheele disappeared, and he was sought here and throughout Europe by agents of this Government, assisted by the French and British. He finally was traced to Havana, Cuba, where he was arrested in March, 1918, and returned to this jurisdiction for trial. Valuable information was procured from Scheele for the Government, and after he had pleaded not guilty to the indictment in June, 1919, before Federal Judge John C. Knox, he was released in $10,000 bail.

At the time of his indictment and disappearance his wife, who said she inherited $40,000 from her foster-father, C. F. Peters of Hoboken, disclosed that Dr. Scheele had come to this country from Germany about twenty-nine years ago. He was educated as a chemist in his native country and was an expert in this line when he came to this country to continue at it. She further said that her husband had been offered a $10,000 bribe for his testimony in connection with the famous homicide trial of Mrs. Mary Alice Almont Livingston Fleming in May, 1896, and had refused the offer.

When an effort was made last night to question Dr. Walter T. Scheele of Hackensack as to his identity, he spoke in broken English, explaining that he could not understand the person speaking to him over the telephone unless addressed in German, although earlier in the afternoon he had been able to understand several questions asked him concerning the report he made to William J. Flynn. When he was called a second time last night by a fluent German speaker, a woman answered the telephone and said that Dr. Scheele had gone out.

GROUP OF 31 MISLEAD, DECLARES ROOSEVELT

He Says the Signers Know Well That It Is the Present League or None at All.

MARION Ind., Oct. 15.—The statement of thirty-one pro-Leaguers in behalf of Senator Harding was branded as "designedly false and misleading" by Franklin D. Roosevelt, in an address here tonight, which closed a three-day campaign in Indiana. Calling attention to the second paragraph of the statement, stating that the issue between the two major party candidates is "whether we shall join under an agreement containing the exact provisions negotiated at Versailles, or under an agreement which omits or modifies some of those provisions which are very objectionable to great numbers of American people," Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Repeatedly the Republican charge has been made that Governor Cox and I are demanding the acceptance of the League, as fashioned at Versailles, without the crossing of a 't' or the dotting of an 'i,' and repeatedly we have branded this as untrue. In almost every speech I have made in the last two months I have stated that we are not only willing, but prefer to put in black and white in our ratification of the treaty a provision that nothing contained therein shall be in any way superior to our Constitution, or in any way interfere with the rights of Congress to declare war or send our soldiers overseas.

"These gentlemen all have brains enough to know that it is the present League or none at all, for it is unthinkable, almost idiotic, to prate about tossing aside the great working association of forty-one civilized nations for a nebulous scheme that has an existence only in the mind of Senator Harding.

"If Senator Harding has given any secret pledge to the gentlemen who signed the statement, it repudiates his open alliance with Senators Borah and Johnson, and having a certain respect for real fighters, I am absolutely certain that these gentlemen will not stand back meekly and be 'double-crossed' by the Republican standard-bearer."

Mr. Roosevelt declared the statement was "documentary proof of the assertions that I have repeatedly been making that a near panic exists in Republican ranks," and that it looks as if it was made public at this time in a desperate attempt to head off further defections from Republican ranks—disgusted members of the party who are becoming more and more convinced that their only hope in getting the United States into the League is to vote for Governor Cox."

CONGRESSMAN NAMED IN RUM RING INQUIRY

Federal Official, Who Says Woman Offered Bribe, Believes Him Implicated.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The name of a United States Congressman today was mentioned before the Federal Grand Jury investigating the whisky ring by a Government official, in telling of a $10,000 bribe offered him by a woman to stop prosecution in recent whisky traffic disclosures here. The woman, the witness testified, frequently conferred with the Congressman. The official said he was led to believe that the Congressman was interested in the whisky ring.

After a conference between Federal officials today it was said that Mrs. Antoinette Duryea, for some time a familiar figure around the Federal building, and Harry D. Allen, formerly a Department of Justice agent, would be asked to tell officials whether they knew anything of the alleged "ring."

Federal Judge Landis actively entered the investigation today when he called two wholesale manufacturing druggists before him to explain an alleged excessive amount of alcohol in their products.

Politics, it is charged, is playing a part in the efforts being made to minimize the liquor exposures of the last few days.

Political considerations, it is alleged, have prevented the arrest of a dozen persons named in the Sadler confession and, it is said, explains why, when one Government official placed Sadler before a Federal Grand Jury today another Government official snatched him away.

"I do not wish Sadler's statement to become public," said District Attorney Clyne, "until I have checked up on all his facts. I believe he will then retract some of his statements."

People on the "inside" say the confession involves a number of prominent politicians and a number of Government officials who have been concerned in the illegal distribution of liquor and who have bent every effort to have ousted from office Major Dalrymple, State Prohibition Officer Howard and others who were trying to enforce the laws.

Charles Erbstein, an attorney, during the day issued a statement in which he declared that Sadler went to his office early last August and asked the attorney to put him in touch with some one who would buy a carload of whisky for which he had a Government permit. Erbstein said Sadler bore a letter of introduction from a member of the staff of the District Attorney in New York.

RUM HOLDUP NETS $12,000.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 15.—Dominick Porello of Newark was arrested this afternoon at Metuchen charged with holding up a $12,000 consignment of whisky near here this morning. Herman Cohen of Newark, driver of the truck, identified Porello as one of the men who stopped his truck, displayed revenue badges and forced him to turn over his machine. Porello denied the charge, but he was held in the Middlesex County jail here. When arrested he was driving a car which was found to have been stolen from Jersey City.

Cohen was taking 240 cases of whisky from Newark to Atlantic Highlands. The truck and whisky belonged to Dornbusch & Gann of 335 Plane Street, Newark.

Man with Accounts in Nine Savings Banks Commits Suicide by Gas.

Leaving $32,560.88 on deposit in nine Manhattan banks, Henry Schumacher, 60 years old, who, so far as could be learned, was without relatives, committed suicide by inhaling gas yesterday in a furnished room in a house occupied by Frank Skippington at 297 West Eleventh Street. The body was found by Skippington, who detected the odor of gas and traced it to Schumacher's room. Patrolman Patrick Mead of the Charles Street Station aided Skippington in breaking down the locked door of Schumacher's room. All the gas jets in the room were turned on. Schumacher was seen alive by Skippington for the last time at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

According to the police, Schumacher went to the house two weeks ago recommended by friends of the Skippington's who accepted him as their sole roomer. The police say that Schumacher had friends living in Greenwich Village, but their address was not known.

In the man's room was a quantity of clothing, a gold watch and chain, and $110. There were also bank books showing accounts on the Seaman's Bank, the Bowery Savings Bank, the East River Institute, Sherman Bank, the Greenwich Bank, Franklin Bank, Manhattan Savings Institute, New York Savings Bank, Bank of Savings, and the Dry Dock Savings Bank.

DECLARES PONZI INSOLVENT.

Referee Finds He Had No Partners and Assails His Methods.

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—Charles Ponzi was declared insolvent today by James D. Olmstead, referee in bankruptcy. In a report submitted to the Federal District Court the referee found that Ponzi had no partners.

"While Mr. Ponzi is not to be classed in the same category with a robber and burglar," the decision said, "he was undoubtedly a clever manipulator who took advantage of the credulity of the investing public, which in this instance is the usurer. The investors who loaned their money for a return of the principal and 50 per cent. interest would seem themselves to be guilty of usury if such existed."

"That Mr. Ponzi took advantage," the decision added, "of a weakness of the community to be victimized is apparent, and is sufficient to condemn his acts. So long as the current of money flowed in he could pay his first investors with receipts from the last. It was another instance of robbing Peter to pay Paul."

The finding of the referee came after five weeks of hearings in proceedings independent of the receivership. Certain of his creditors had contended that Ponzi had partners, naming John S. Dondero, Guglielmo Bertelotti and Joseph Daniels.

Dondero, Referee Olmstead found, was merely an agent who collected large sums of money as commissions. Bertelotti, he reported, would be 90 years old, if evidence was correct, and is "probably dead." Daniels sued Ponzi for $1,000,000 as a share in his supposed profits because of a $200 loan which he made him early in his career and settled eventually for $50,000. The referee asserted that Daniels merely used the loan as a pretext to obtain some of the big profits of which Ponzi talked.

Referee Olmstead added to his finding a statement that "there was no evidence adduced before me that Mr. Ponzi ever conducted his business by circulars or by use of the mails."

Ponzi, who has been in the East Cambridge jail for two months, is now under indictment by the Federal Grand Jury on eighty-six counts for using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

VANDERLIP URGES VISION.

Assails "Little Americanism" and Calls for Wider Sympathies.

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass., Oct. 15.—The need for an enlightened and broad-visioned citizenship which would look on the progress of civilization in the large instead of being concerned only with domestic conditions was stressed by Frank A. Vanderlip of New York in the Founder's Day address at Mount Holyoke College today.

"Until the interruption caused by the great war is repaired," the speaker said, "millions of people will be on the verge of starvation. This has great significance, as economic causes are among the chief causes of war; economic pressure has furnished the reason for most revolutions.

"While the economic pressure resulting from a disorganization of world trade will fall with far greater severity on some peoples than on others, I believe that the countries of the world today are so closely inter-related that none can escape disagreeable consequences while any considerable part of the world is undergoing a life and death struggle with unfavorable economic conditions. If ever there was a country prepared to isolate itself and live to itself alone that country is the United States. But it seems to me impossible that the United States would go forward if much of the rest of the world was being mangled by economic maladjustment.

"A policy of 'little America,' or, as those who advocate it prefer to call it, 'America first,' sounds like a patriotic policy. It may have its roots in a fine sentiment of love for our country, but I believe it is a short-sighted policy and one that lacks a fine vision of the future."

Discrimination

SALIENT—"That which is strikingly manifest or catches the attention at once."—Webster.

Following a practice long established as the policy of the parent company, the makers of the Stephens Salient Six discriminate very closely in the selection of distributing organizations. Only those are chosen who have proven themselves capable of giving proper representation and who measure up to Stephens standards of permanency and success.

The purchaser of a Stephens Salient Six is thus assured a pleasant and permanent business connection such as is expected with the distributer of a Salient Motor Car—Salient in economy, reliability, power, beauty and comfort.

That the Alfred J. Higgins Automobile Company more than measure up to these standards is proven by the fact that they have just moved into new salesrooms on Broadway and are now in a position to give the Stephens Salient Six better representation than ever before.

We invite you to visit our new salesrooms during our formal opening Saturday evening, October sixteenth.

COSMO HAMILTON

IN this powerful plea for the single standard of morality Cosmo Hamilton has done his best work, which is saying a great deal. For this distinguished writer of the ultra-modernist school is the author of "Scandal," the outstanding success of the last New York theatrical season.

While this novel has a moral purpose back of it and on that account will be widely discussed, it is sure to be in demand for its charm as a story alone.

'WET' DINNER GUESTS SAW MANY FLASKS

TIPSY WOMAN REPORTED

Of all the witnesses who were either invited or subpoenaed to appear before the Federal Grand Jury, in Brooklyn, yesterday, to tell what they knew of the alleged wet dinner, celebrating the closing of Villepigue's Inn, in Sheepshead Bay, on Sunday night, Oct. 3, Mayor Hylan was the only one who failed to appear. As a matter of official courtesy United States Attorney LeRoy W. Ross left it optional with the Mayor to give his testimony, as he did in the case of District Attorney Harry E. Lewis of Kings County. Mr. Lewis went before the Grand Jury as a voluntary witness.

Because it was unlawful for him to disclose what had taken place in the Grand Jury room, United States Attorney Ross declined to say whether or not any evidence had been gathered to show that intoxicating liquors had been drunk at the dinner as charged in an article written for The Philadelphia Public Ledger by J. C. Daschbach, a reporter. A description of the dinner was spread broadcast in this city and Philadelphia by Mr. Daschbach in response to the Mayor's demand that The Public Ledger substantiate charges made in a previous article by the same reporter to the effect that the police of New York City were conniving at violations of the prohibition laws.

When the Grand Jury resumes its investigation next Tuesday morning several more witnesses will be heard, according to Mr. Ross. Mr. Daschbach and Raymond G. Carroll, New York correstpondent of The Public Ledger, will be called again.

The reporter from Philadelphia was the first witness to be heard, and while he declined to make known what he had told the Grand Jury, he has maintained all along that he had divulged through his news stories all the information he possessed. He was not at the dinner party, consequently his assertions were based on hearsay. It was not possible to learn what Mr. Carroll told the Grand Jury.

When Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert emerged from the jury room, he said:

"I was at Villepigue's with a party. I frequently had been there as I had been in other restaurants, and I saw no more liquor there than I have ever seen since the Volstead act went into effect in leading restaurants and hotels in New York, Philadelphia, Atlantic City and other cities."

At Villepigue's Inn the Dock Commissioner had seen a few people with flasks, but he didn't have any positive knowledge of their contents.

The Dock Commissioner showed signs of anything but pleasure when the Philadelphia reporter tried to engage him in conversation.

"I think I have met you before, Mr. Commissioner," said Daschbach as he advanced toward Mr. Hulbert. "It was on the tour around the harbor of Philadelphia."

"Well, I didn't happen to be in Philadelphia at the time of that tour of inspection," thrust the Commissioner. "Your memory is about as good on that as on other things." Mr. Hulbert walked away.

District Attorney Harry E. Lewis was with the Grand Jury only a short time. He said he had told the jury he was at the inn with his wife, eleven persons being included in his party. He could not be sure that he had seen any liquor at the party. Although he saw two or three flasks, he could not be positive about their contents. Mr. Lewis said he had seen one woman at the celebration who seemed to be "a little worse for wear," and she later left with an escort.

One of the most important witnesses was Joseph J. O'Brien, a contractor, who entertained the Mayor and Mrs. Hylan at the dinner. When he left the Grand Jury room he explained his presence at the celebration thus:

"I went there with my wife, my daughter, the Mayor and Mrs. Hylan and one or two others. You know the Mayor never drinks, and I never tasted liquor in my life. There may have been some people that had flasks. There usually are some people in such places that order ginger ale and put the contents of the flask in, but I don't know the contents of the flasks. I saw no one under the influence of liquor, and the party broke up between 10 and 11 o'clock. I saw there many people I know well, and members of their families were with some of them."

Charles H. Ebbets, President of the Brooklyn Baseball Club, disclosed that he was not at the dinner. He had made reservations for the occasion, but engagements incident to the world series made it impossible for him to be present.

Former Sheriff Daniel J. Griffin of Kings County was at Villepigue's Inn on the night in question with his wife and brother, Deputy County Clerk Timothy E. Griffin. He admitted that he had seen some flasks, but so far as he knew their contents might have been tea.

William Hanna, Clerk of the Court of Special Sessions, disavowed that he had seen any liquor in the tavern. W. Lee Smith, colored head waiter, and Preston Rock, check boy at the inn, both denied there was any liquor in the place.

Daughters of the Revolution Meet.

At a board meeting of the Daughters of the Revolution, at the Hotel Astor yesterday, Dr. C. E. Plans for an Evacuation Day luncheon were also discussed.

MME. PAVLOWA RETURNS.

One of Her 40 Dancers, Joyce Cols, Under 16, Sent to Ellis Island.

Mme. Anna Pavlowa, the Russian dancer, returned yesterday on the White Star liner Adriatic after an absence of eighteen months, spent chiefly, she said, in South America, Paris and London. The dancer added that she had tried to get word to her parents and her aunt living in Petrograd, but had not succeeded. The last letter she had from her mother was more than two years ago.

She brought forty dancers with her on the Adriatic, and Alexander Volinine, her dancing partner. One of the dancing girls, Joyce Cols, was held by the immigration officials and sent to Ellis Island because she was under 16 years of age, and the immigration laws state that no child under 16 came enter the United States unaccompanied by a relative or guardian.

Max Hirsch, manager for Mme. Pavlowa, went to Ellis Island and offered to furnish a bond that the dancer would not become a public charge, but the authorities said she must be detained until the Secretary of Labor at Washington has been heard from. If he does not agree to it Joyce Cols will have to return to London.

PLAN TO AID BENNETT HOME

The James Gordon Bennett Association, Inc., was officially organized at its first annual meeting in the New York Press Club at noon yesterday. Eighty newspaper men, representing every newspaper in Manhattan, were present. In the membership are former newspaper men who are now prominent in other walks of life, among those present being Byron R. Newton, Collector of the Port; George Henry Payne, Tax Commissioner, and D. M. Edwards of the National Association of Manufacturers.

W. A. Rogers explained the purposes of the association as primarily to cooperate and assist in the building of the James Gordon Bennett Memorial Home for New York Journalists.

The following officers were elected: Robert E. Livingston, President; Andrew W. Ford, Vice-President; Martha E. Coman, Treasurer; Martin Petry, Secretary. These officers, together with Wellington Wright, Henry Clay Silver and George Bonte, will constitute the Board of Directors.

Ida Geer Weller's Song Recital.

There was a large and friendly audience to hear the song recital given by Ida Geer Weller, mezzo contralto, in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon. The voice, whose contralto quality is not strongly defined, is agreeable, though in certain sections it is not wholly under the singer's control. She sang with taste and intelligence, with musical feeling, an "Ave Maria" by Cherubini, the air "Nasce al Bosco" from Handel's Italian opera "Ezio," four songs by Grieg, a group by French composers and another by Americans, including two by her accompanish, Charles Gilbert Spross, "Lorraine, Lorraine Loree" and "Minor and Major." The last named was marked "first time." It could not be said that Miss Weller's English enunciation was of a sort to make a book of the words unnecessary.

An Irish Song Recital.

Two Irish singers, Cathal O'Byrne and Nora Power, gave a recital of Irish songs and ballads in Aeolian Hall in the evening. Mr. O'Byrne showed a pleasing voice not much affected by traces of cultivation; in Miss Power's singing there was little of either. They sang the traditional songs and ballads by Moore, Lover, Annie Patterson and others, and Gaelic songs. Hans Kronold played improvisations on Irish airs for the 'cello.

Divorces "Rube" Marquard.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Alleging her husband, Richard ("Rube") Marquard, Brooklyn baseball pitcher, deserted her in 1918, Blossom Seeley, vaudeville headliner, today asked a divorce. The presiding Judge indicated he would sign the decree within a few days.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The proposed Cohan revue, which was to have included Sam Bernard, Lew Fields, Joe Weber and others, has been indefinitely postponed.

Mary Nash and Jose Ruben will appear in "Man and Woman," now in rehearsal. Miss Nash acted the piece on tour last season.

Emily Stevens's tour in "Foot-Loose" will be brought to a close in Baltimore tonight.

"Evind of the Hills," by Sigur Jornson, will be among the productions of the Greenwich Village Players this season.

"The Ghost Between," in which Taylor Holmes is to appear, is not an operetta, as first announced, but a serious play.

The first Drama Meeting of the New York Drama League will take place next Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 at the Belasco Theatre. Oliver Sayler will speak on "The Theatre of the East" and Michio Itow will interpret a Japanese Noh drama.

HAS THE CHOKER-COLLAR COME BACK?

PARIS is "up to the ears" in the matter of necklines—both literally and figuratively, and likewise "down to the boots" in the matter of the long, clinging silhouette. For no sooner do we settle our girdles comfortably about our hips when lo! the princess frock. Here is one from Madeleine et Madeleine of dark blue serge and misty grey lace, collared to one's very ears and almost negligibly sleeved, in the very latest Paris whim. And this is only one of the 177 shown in

FAVORITES BEATEN IN JAMAICA FINALE

Johnson's $25,000 Filly Finishes Eight Lengths Behind Winner—Tom McTaggart Takes Sprint.

Frederick Johnson's $25,000 filly, Summit, which spent most of her two-year-old career in the snug seclusion of her stable, got to the races yesterday just in time to provide the crowning disappointment in the steady downfall of favorites which marked the closing day at Jamaica. This young miss, which had been heralded as a good thing, went to the post in the final race an odds-on choice, and, after she had finished eight lengths back of the winner, the tuneful air of "Auld Lang Syne" sounded like a series of discords to her backers. She was badly beaten by John Sanford's Château-Thierry and had a hard struggle to save second by a head from Hold Up.

Summit was purchased last Spring after a remarkably fast trial, but contracted an ailment common to juveniles and had to be kept out of training until recently. A few days ago she again gave evidence of speed in her workouts, and the result was that she was installed a strong favorite, though she had never faced the barrier before. What made her defeat the more disappointing was that she had been backed by many who looked to her to even up for earlier reverses, and so there were few cheers when Château-Thierry came home at 7 to 1, with Buddy Ensor laughing at the rest of the field.

Summit was either greatly overrated or else is in need of experience, for she did not show the speed that is expected of a $25,000 beauty, although she is a very comely filly. Château-Thierry got away to a flying start, and Buxton, on the favorite, went in pursuit of the leader. However, Summit lacked the speed to get up to the pacemaker, and the effort to do so took most of the running out of her. Château-Thierry moved away with ease at the turn into the stretch and was in hand all the way to the end. Buxton was apparently of little assistance to Summit, and she was tiring so fast at the end that it was only by vigorous lashing that she was kept a head in front of Hold Up for second place.

Bad Day for Favorites.

The closing day at Jamaica was a bad one for the favorites, for five of the choices were defeated, and among these was M. L. Schwartz's Enfilade in the Consolation Handicap, at six furlongs, which was the feature of the day. The race was won by Tom McTaggart, with Red Red Rose second and Leading Star third.

Enfilade had scant chance to show whether she could have won against this field, for she got into close quarters and was knocked back to last and never recovered from the mishap. She made an effort in the stretch, but was too far back even to get in the money.

The winner was responsible for the jam which put the favorite out of the running. He broke quickly and soon took the lead from Ralco, while Enfilade was only half a length away and on the rail. Tom McTaggart then bore over toward the rail and piled up the whole field. Ensor, on Enfilade, was crowded back and had to take up sharply to avoid a collision. By the time he found himself out of trouble he was a bad last, and Tom Taggart was running in front. The latter showed excellent speed, and, holding his field safe to the end, won by a length and a half. Leading Star, which was well up all the way and which had come out of the close quarters without losing much ground, yielded second to Red Red Rose in the last few strides.

Day Lilly Wins by Head.

The first race, a six-furlong dash for two-year-olds, resulted in a surprise when Day Lilly sneaked through on the rail and got up in the last sixteenth, to win by a head from Gilt Fringe, with Segurola third and Omer K., the favorite, fourth. Segurola began the race as if she intended to towrope her field. She raced into a lead of ten lengths, but had used up her speed by the time she reached the head of the stretch, and was slowing badly at the end. Day Lilly and Gilt Fringe charged on her, the former going through on the rail and the latter going to the outside, and the ground saved by Day Lilly accounted for the victory. Kummer made a good effort on the second horse, but could not quite get up. Omer K. was never prominent in the running.

Great Man o' War Has Faced Barrier for the Last Time

Louis Feustel, trainer of Man o' War, who came to this city yesterday, announced last night that Samuel D. Riddle, owner of the phenomenal thoroughbred, had reached the unalterable decision to retire his great three-year-old from the racing turf. This was confirmed in Philadelphia by Mr. Riddle himself.

Clarence Kummer, who rode Man o' War when he defeated Sir Barton on Tuesday at Windsor, received yesterday a check for $5,000 from the victor's owner for that ride. Mr. Riddle also sent Kummer his thanks for the good work done by the jockey this season astride the champion.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 15.—Mrs. F. A. TWO ARABS FIRST IN CAVALRY RACE

CAMP DEVENS, AYER, Mass., Oct. 15.—Ten horses completed at Camp Devens late today the 300-mile endurance test for cavalry mounts, in which twenty-seven horses started on Monday last. Crabbett, a registered Arab chestnut gelding, and Rustem Bey, a grade Arab gelding of the same color and winner of last year's test, both owned by W. R. Brown of Berlin, N. H., came in at the head of the string, followed half an hour later by Bunkie and Mile. Denise, Army Remount Service grade thoroughbreds. The winner of the test, to be determined by a consideration of speed, condition and amount of feed consumed, will be announced tomorrow forenoon.

The other horses finished in the following order:

Dolly, Kemah Prince, Kingfisher, Moscowa, Castor and Naom. All except Naom appeared in excellent condition, but this horse, a registered Arab chestnut mare, was badly tired out and barely walked into camp two hours after Castor. Thirteen horses started the last leg from Concord, N. H., this morning, but David Craig, a registered thoroughbred; Bramla, a registered Arab, and Colon, a grade Arab, were withdrawn before the noon stop at Milford, N. H.

Each horse carried a minimum of 245 pounds, as compared with 200 pounds in last year's test. In the final judging speed will count 40 per cent., condition 50 per cent. and feed 10 per cent. Last year the percentages used were speed, 25; condition, 50; feed, 25. The judges are the same as last year—Major C. A. Benton of New York, Major Henry Leonard of Washington and Harry W. Smith of Worcester.

Of the ten horses which completed the test, two, Crabbet and Naom are registered Arabs, three, Rustem Bey, Kemah Prince and Kingfisher are grade Arabs, and one, Moscowa, is a registered thoroughbred. Bunkie and Mile. Denise are grade thoroughbreds, and Dolly and Castor are registered Morgans.

The long journey from Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., to Camp Devens was started early Monday morning. Each day the horses covered sixty miles, the night stops being at Northfield, St. Johnsbury and White River Junction, Vt., and Concord, N. H. For the greater part of the course they traversed country roads of varying character, ranging from soft dirt to well packed gravel, with an occasional stretch of tar surfaced State roads. In Vermont and New Hampshire they encountered many long and steep hills, but on the last leg today the going was comparatively level.

FIVE TEAMS INVOLVED.

Charges of "Wholesale Bribery" of Coast League Players Are Made.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 15.—Evidence of "wholesale bribery of players" in the 1919 season by gamblers has been discovered, according to an announcement tonight by W. C. Doran, Chief Deputy District Attorney, who is directing the investigation begun today by the Los Angeles County Grand Jury into alleged corruption in Pacific Coast Baseball League games.

Doran stated that testimony already given the investigators indicated that scores of games were "thrown" for money last season. He predicted the investigation would lead to the indictment of gamblers who "bribed" certain players during the 1919 season and who had an organized system for buying and selling games for the benefit of the gamblers.

"This investigation," he said, "is by no means confined to the Vernon and Salt Lake Clubs, which were involved in the charges of Borton. Before we get to the bottom, we shall find the gamblers had holds on players in at least five clubs.

"I have the nuames of these gamblers."

DARTMOUTH ELEVEN WINS.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 15.—Dartmouth easily outclassed Harvard at soccer on Soldiers Field this afternoon by 5 to 1. The visiting eleven made its team play count heavily in its score, Fletcher and Mesquita especially working well together. Harvard's Captain, Charles Masters, was forced to retire from the lineup early in the first half, and that seemed to weaken his team. Williams made the only Crimson score on a long kick from the right side.

The lineup:

DARTMOUTH (5).		HARVARD (1).
Tobin	G.	Boyden
Thomas	R. B.	Carpenter
Clarke	L. B.	Allen
Oppenheimer	R. H.	Williams

Caswell	O. L.	Phillips

Goals—Fletcher (2), S. Smith, Caswell, Mesquita, Williams. Substitution—Palmer for Masters.

HANDICAP SAVES SHUTOUT.

Squadron Beats Governors Island in Westchester Polo.

In the polo match played yesterday between Squadron A and Governors Island at Gedney Farms, White Plains, as one of the matches of the polo tournament being held there under the auspices of the Westchester Polo Club, the team from the harbor station was saved a shutout in the score only through virtue of the handicap of two goals which had been granted the islanders. Barring that, Squadron A rode away with the game.

This afternoon Governors Island will cross mallets with the team of the Westchester Polo Club. Tomorrow afternoon Squadron A will meet West Point. Both matches are at 3:30.

The line-up and score of yesterday's game:

SQUADRON A (17).	GOV. ISLAND (2).

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—All the dainty chorus ladies whose slippers are at a premium have nothing on Man o' War. His shoes are considered the greatest trophies of the age. Each time the wonder horse wins a race, his owner, Samuel Riddle, has the shoes taken off and silver plated and engraved with the date and the record of the race. These silver souvenirs are given by Mr. Riddle to his friends. Requests for the shoes far exceed the number worn by Man o' War in his short career, Mr. Riddle said today.

LAST FALL MEETING BEGINS HERE TODAY

Local racing begins its last stand for the season this afternoon with the opening of the Autumn meeting at Empire City, which will bring the sport to a close on the metropolitan tracks on Oct. 30. Though the season has been a long one there is still plenty of interest, and the good weather promises to continue as an aid to good attendance.

While a number of owners have shipped their horses to Maryland and Kentucky the entries for the opening day indicate that some of the good ones have remained here. Owners who have sent their horses to Yonkers are S. C. Hildreth, John Sanford, R. T. Wilson, Jr., and J. W. McClelland, among others. The presence of these stables insures some good racing. There are ten stakes to be decided, including the Scarsdale Handicap, which will be the feature this afternoon.

The Scarsdale, which is at a mile, with $3,000 added, promises to be a good race if all of those named overnight start. Cirrus heads the list with the top weight of 130 pounds. Sennings Park will be asked to carry 125. Others in the race are Krewer, Cromwell, Dunboyne, Thunderstorm and Lady Gertrude.

The Lenox Stakes, at a mile and seventy yards, has also attracted some good performers, with Mad Hatter carrying the top weight of 125 pounds. He will have to concede much weight to Sweet Music, La Rablee, Recount and Lady Gertrude, if the latter starts in this test.

MRS. GAVIN GAINS FINAL.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—Mrs. W. A. Gavin of New York defeated Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, Eastern champion, in the semi-final round for the Berthellyn Golf Cup, over the Huntingdon Valley Country Club course here today, by 2 up. Mrs. Gavin will meet Miss Alexa Stirling, champion of the United States, tomorrow, in the final round.

Miss Stirling advanced by virtue of a victory today over Mrs. Quentin Feitner, Metropolitan champion, by 2 and 1. It was the hardest match that Miss Stirling has played in the tourney.

The match tomorrow has excited a great deal of interest, and a large gallery is expected for the reason that these two stars met last year in the final round for the national title at Shawnee when Miss Stirling played one of her best rounds. Mrs. Gavin is going so well that she is sure to extend the champion again tomorrow.

Miss Stirling only won today by her indomitable courage and ability to take advantage of any mistakes made by Mrs. Feitner. It was a remarkable match, only four holes being halved.

Miss Stirling's iron play was a little better than the Metropolitan star's, and the champion also rarely missed a putt she needed. Mrs. Feitner was puzzled at the distances on some of the holes, notably the ninth and the twelfth.

The cards:

Out—
Miss Stirling ..4 5 6 5 6 4 4 3 5—42
Mrs. Feitner ..5 4 5 6 4 4 5 4 5—42
In—
Miss Stirling ..4 4 5 4 4 4 6 4 4—39—81
Mrs. Feitner ..3 4 6 5 3 5 5 5 4—40—82

SPEAKER A STOCKHOLDER.

President Dunn Gives Tris Shares in His Contracting Firm.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15.—Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Americans, world's champion baseball team, was today presented with a large bock of stock in the Dunn & McCarthy Company, Chicago railroad contractors, by James C. Dunn, President of the Cleveland club and President of the contracting company, as a reward for Speaker's efforts in giving Cleveland a champion team.

Speaker plans ultimately to devote his time to the contracting business when through playing baseball.

"I figure that you will make as good a contractor as you made a baseball manager," said Dunn in making his gift to Speaker, "and I want you associated with me in our company."

Speaker, it was announced, will begin his contracting work after he returns from a week's fishing trip to Rice Lake, Ontario, and pays a short visit to his ranch in Texas. He will leave for Canada tomorrow night.

JENNINGS RESIGNS AS BOSS OF TIGERS

Veteran Manager Says Change Will Be Beneficial to Detroit Club and Himself.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 15.—President Frank J. Navin of the Detroit American League Club has not selected a man to replace Hughey Jennings, the Tiger manager, who resigned today, Navin announced tonight. Jennings's resignation came so suddenly, the Tiger owner said, that he had not given much consideration to a new leader for the team.

Jennings left tonight for Scranton, Pa., his home, without announcing whether he would remain in major league baseball. It has been reported here that the man who brought three pennants to Detroit since he took charge of the team in 1907, would lead another club, possibly an Eastern team, next year.

President Navin announced tonight that Jack Coombs, former pitching star, who acted as trainer for Detroit pitchers this season, would not be with the team next season. Selection of another trainer, Navin said, would not be made until after a new manager had been signed.

Clarence Rowland, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, and Ty Cobb have been prominently mentioned in baseball circles as possible successors to the leadership of the Tigers. It is understood, however, that Cobb has expressed a wish to play ball several years more, declaring he would not accept a managership until his playing days are over. Rowland is a scout for the Detroit Club.

Jennings today tendered his resignation as manager of the Detroit Baseball Club, to take effect immediately. The letter of resignation was received by Frank J. Navin, President of the club, this noon. In it Jennings declared that he had studied the baseball situation and felt that a change would be beneficial both to the club and to himself.

The letter in part said:

"I hereby tender my resignation as manager of the Detroit Baseball Club, to take effect at the expiration of my contract, October, 1920. I take this step with considerable regret. However, I have studied the baseball situation in Detroit and feel a change would be beneficial for both the club and myself."

Jennings became manager of the Detroit Americans in 1907, piloting the team to a pennant in that year and the two succeeding seasons. President Navin said today that while he had anticipated the resignation he had no announcement to make at present regarding Jennings's successor.

Jennings came to Detroit from the Baltimore Club of the Eastern League. His unique coaching methods are said by baseball men to have been largely responsible for the league championship success of the Tigers in 1907, 1908 and 1909. Jennings's grass-pulling, leaping and yelling on the coaching line made him a notable figure in baseball, he having introduced this style of spurring his men to greater efforts. A large number of baseball stars, including Ty Cobb, Donie Bush and Bobby Veach were developed by Jennings.

Hugh Jennings has been mentioned at various times during recent years as likely to become manager of the Yankees and the rumor has been revived, now that Jennings is no longer to be connected with the Tigers. At the offices of the New York American League Club yesterday it was said that both Colonel Jacob Ruppert and Colonel T. L. Huston, owners of the club, were in the South on a business trip.

It is not likely, however, that the New York owners will make an attempt to bring Jennings here. It is doubtful, too, that Jennings would care to assume the managerial duties of another American League club after spending fourteen years in Detroit, and if he continues as a major league manager it is more likely to be with a National League club. He has been mentioned in connection with the leadership of the Boston Braves. George Stallings, who bossed the Braves for several years, announced early in the season that this would be his last year in baseball.

In his fourteen years at Detroit Jennings has failed only four times to bring his team home in the first division. The Tigers finished sixth in 1912 and 1913, and were seventh in 1918 and again this year. His team won three pennants, twice finished second, twice finished third, and three times they won fourth honors. During the off-season Jennings engages in the practice of law at his home in Scranton, Pa.

ARMOUR ELIMINATES STYLES AT SHAWNEE

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa., Oct. 15.—Golf worth seeing marked the progress of the winners in the invitation tournament at the Shawnee Country Club today. The bright spots appeared in the second round this afternoon when T. D. Armour, the French champion, and R. S. Worthington of the home club played in their best form.

With the first round disposed of, Armour found himself confronted with Eddie Styles of North Hills. The latter golfer played well, but there was no halting the pace set by the Scot, who went out in 36. This was aided considerably by a 2 at the eighth, where Armour, after over-playing the green, chipped back into the cup for a 2. Armour stood 4 up at the turn.

He started back with a birdie 4 at the 565-yard tenth and ended the contest on the thirteenth green, the margin being 6 and 5.

The only close contest of the afternoon was the meeting of Ray Thompson, the Engineers representative, who won the medal yesterday, and C. L. Maxwell of Trenton. Although he had a much better long game, Maxwell ruined his chances by weak putting in the early stages. It left him 2 down at the turn.

The results:

First Sixteen.

COPS TO PLAY FIREMEN.

Ebbets Field, which recently was the battlefield of the Indians and the Dodgers, will be the field of fight today for the final battle between the teams of the Police and the Fire Departments in competition for the Chief Cup. Two games of this cataclysmal series have been played, and the score is one all. The firemen took the first match of the annual mixup. Both on the second crossing of the bats the cops came out heavily with the strong arm stuff, walloping the smoke eaters sadly.

A. A. U. IS PLANNING A BUSY TITLE YEAR

Plans for awarding forty-eight annual Amateur Athletic Union championship fixtures were set in motion yesterday when Secretary Frederick W. Rubien mailed to the various A. A. U. district associations throughout the country the list of titular tests. Action on these plans will be taken following the annual A. A. U. convention at New Orleans, Nov. 14, 15 and 16.

A number of applications for the different events have been received, but no awards have been made with the exception of the national track and field, all-around and five relay title tests for next year. These events were awarded to the Southern Pacific A. A. U. and the Tournament of Roses Association, to be held in the stadium at Pasadena, Cal., next Summer. This award upset a custom of the A. A. U., which empowers incoming championship committees to award the events for their term of office. While the action is unusual, it was accepted as necessary in order to provide sufficient time for the work which the organizations holding the events will encounter.

The schedule of meets mailed out yesterday by Secretary Rubien will be distributed by the different sectional associations to the clubs, colleges and athletic organizations in their respective districts. This will provide an opportunity for any organization in the country with the proper facilities and other essential requirements to bid for a championship attraction.

The New Orleans convention departs from custom in the number of days set aside for the meeting. Three days have been provided for the coming session, instead of the two which have been usual in the past. The extensive business disposed of annually has made necessary this additional day.

The championship events to be awarded at the meeting, and for which all clubs, colleges and other athletic organizations are eligible to apply, follow:

Decathlon, pentathlon, ten-mile run and seven-mile walk, steeplechase, indoor track and field meeting (twelve junior events); indoor track and field meeting (twelve senior events); junior cross-country race, senior cross-country race, indoor swimming events for men, both junior and senior: 50-yard, 100-yard, 220-yard, 500-yard, 150-yard, back stroke, and 200-yard, breast stroke swims; fancy diving from springboard, plunge for distance, 400-yard relay race for teams of four men, and water polo. All of the foregoing events, with the exception of the water polo championships, will also be held for women. The only difference being that the back stroke and breast stroke events are at 100 yards instead of at the distances stated for men.

Outdoor swimming events for men, both junior and senior: 100-yard straightaway, 440-yard, 880-yard, one-mile, and long distance swims, and high diving. The same events will be held for women.

SCHOOLBOY RACE TODAY.

The Public Schools Athletic League will inaugurate the annual high school quadrangular cross-country runs at Van Cortlandt Park at 10 o'clock this morning. Seventeen public high schools have nominated teams for the series. Teams will consist of ten boys each, which will make a maximum entry of 170 boys starting on a time schedule. The squads will start at five-minute intervals, and the entire 170 boys will be running at the same time.

Intense interest is now being manifested by the public high schools in the outcome of this series. Hundreds of boys have trained daily in anticipation of being selected by the coach to be a member of the 'Varsity team in these runs.

The start and finish of the runs will be on the parade grounds, and the greater part of the race will be seen by the spectators, who will be both at the starting and finishing points.

IMPORTANT TESTS ON GRIDIRON TODAY

Panthers Tackle Orange Eleven, While Vengeful Yale Faces Boston College.

THREE NORTH-SOUTH TILTS

One is at Princeton, Where Generals Meet the Tigers — Amherst Coming to South Field.

Pleasant little hush now in matters sportive, isn't there, with the world's series stowed away in the archives and the day of the racquet and brassie fading into dusk? What do you mean, hush? It's a swell kind of a hush with all those huskies tumbling over a thousand gridirons in their cleated boots and nose guards, and a thousand thousand persons yelling at them.

According to the theory of a good-sized minority of this country's inhabitants, the sporting season is just getting under full headway. This minority includes almost every male between the ages of 16 and 23 who is doomed to fuss with algebra and elementary French in the high schools and academies or conic sections and Greek drama in the colleges and universities. It includes a horde of mature men, too, whose interest in the gridiron never subsides, and it includes many fair partisans of an altogether different sex.

For the football public things are just naturally booming, and each October Saturday sees a greater accumulation of enthusiasm and excitement, as the schedules call for games of ever-increasing importance. Today's list includes battles which recent gridiron history causes to be considered as having a distinct bearing upon the ultimate purely sentimental award of a purely imaginary championship.

Pittsburgh to Meet Syracuse.

The game which wil attract more attention from football fans this afternoon than any other is the clash for which the Panthers will journey to Syracuse. The Orange eleven mastered Pittsburgh handily enough last season, the tally being 24 to 3; and the Syracusans are hopeful of another victory today, which would bring the count to two victories each in four seasons. Gridiron prophets are a bit chary of forecasts on the outcome of today's engagement, although few, if any, expect the Orange team to muster such overwhelmingly superior strength as was produced last Autumn against the Smoky City men.

In fact, slight assurance is felt, even in Syracuse, that victory will perch on the Salt City banners at all. To be sure, the Syracuse eleven has done all that has been asked of it thus far, but not enough has been asked to serve as a real line upon the prowess of the Orange machine. It has rolled crushingly over Hobart, Vermont and Johns Hopkins in consecutive games, being scored upon only by the first named, but it has not measured capabilities with any first-class team.

The Panthers, on the other hand, after walloping Geneva, took those powerful mountaineers from West Virginia into camp a week ago by the decisive score of 34 to 13. In the course of this encounter Pitt was forced to prove itself the possessor of a very tidy defense as well as a potent attack. Syracuse has already demonstrated scoring power, but, against the opponents mentioned, has not had much test of its defensive strength. Whether this is great the game today will undoubtedly reveal.

Blue Is Seeking Revenge.

Second in general interest on this afternoon's card—and first in many quarters—comes the Yale-Boston College tussle in the Yale Bowl. Only the totally unexpected victory of the collegians from the Hub over the Blue eleven last Fall makes this of outstanding interest It will be today not so much a crucial game as an effort on the part of the Elis to obliterate an unpleasant memory by wreaking a gallon or so of vengeance on Cavanaugh's charges for that 5 to 3 beating last year. Tad Jones has probably told his athletes how many points to make.

Harvard is assured of an active afternoon at the Stadium, whither wil come the Purple team from the Berkshires seeking warmth and comfort. The Williams boys will certainly be kept warm, but whether comfortable or not is another matter. Nevertheless, the Williamstown College seems to have a smoothly running machine and its showing last week against Union was highly creditable.

Washington and Lee will invade the Princeton jungle and seems unfortunate in tackling the Tigers just when they appear to be rounding into great form, with an attack that is formidable and a defense at least adequate to any demands likely to be made on it for some few weeks to come. The Generals have turned out some snappy teams in recent seasons and are not affrighted, although their major hope is to keep the score reasonably low.

Two other North-South games are scheduled for today. One of them will occur on another New Jersey Gridiron, as Rutgers will entertain Virginia Poly at New Brunswick. The remaining intersectional clash will be that between Penn State, fresh from its victory over Dartmouth a week ago, and North Carolina State at State College.

Hard Task for Colgate.

Colgate, unhappy recipient of severe bumps this season in the shape of draws with unknowns, may find in very resentment the necessary power to stand off Brown in their meeting at Providence. On the face of it, there is cause for great trepidation at Hamilton, for it is the habit of Ted Robinson to produce excellent elevens. On the basis of last year's returns, when Colgate beat Brown by 14 to 0, Huntington's men have a safe margin in this battle, but 1920 is another year.

Amherst will come to South Field to wrestle with Columbia. The Blue and White expects no walkover but a genuine give and take scrap, for Coach Gettell seems to have built a driving, hustling team up in Massachusetts. Still, Buck O'Neill's proteges fully expect to struggle off with the victory, if not to gallop off with it. Last season the tally was 9 to 7, with the New Yorkers on the long end.

The New York University lads will go to Middletown in the Nutmeg State to pass an active afternoon in the effort to solve Wesleyan's formations. Stevens, unbeaten last Fall, invades Swarthmore's gridiron, which seems to mean a spell of hard labor for the engineers.

Fordham, newly re-entered in the football lists, will try conclusions with Villanova at Fordham Field today. The Pennsylvanians should not prove such a tough handful for the Maroon as did Boston College a week ago.

Other gridiron engagements in the East this afternoon include: Cornell vs. Union at Ithaca, Dartmouth vs. Holy Cross at Hanover, Lehigh vs. Rochester at South Bethlehem, Pennsylvania vs. Lafayette at Philadelphia, Army vs. Springfield at West Point, Navy vs. Bucknell at Annapolis and Washington and Jefferson vs. Geneva at Washington, Pa.

Chicago Gridironers Ineligible.

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 14.—Moffatt Elton and "Tarzan" Reber of the University of Chicago football team are ineligible to play, in the opinion of the committee on ineligibility of the Western Conference, it was announced, on the ground that the players have had their three years of participation in the sport.

CONFERENCE TEAMS TO BE BUSY TODAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Although every football eleven in the Western Conference will be engaged in battle tomorrow, chief interest centres in the contest between Iowa and Illinois at Urbana, which is expected to develop into one of the hardest fought contests of the season.

The Illinois eleven, winner of the 1919 championship of the Big Ten, will go into the game with a squad of veteran players, but Iowa holds a slight advantage as a result of two early season games. The Hawkeyes are reported to be in mid-season form and ready for a bruising contest. Having beaten Cornell College and Indiana, Iowa is recognized as a contender for the Western honors.

Northwestern, whose surprising upset of Minnesota a week ago has made this eleven a dark horse in the campaign, will take the field against Wisconsin at Madison. Ohio State's showing against Purdue tomorrow will be watched with interest because of the important games on the Buckeye schedule later this month. Minnesota will clash with Indiana at Minneapolis. The Gopher eleven is expected to show a reversal of form over that of a week ago.

Chicago and Michigan will play non-Conference elevens, Chicago taking on Wabash, while Michigan will meet the Michigan Aggies. The Aggies have been beaten twice this season and Coach Yost expects to have little opposition.

Outside the Conference, Notre Dame and Nebraska will meet at Lincoln in the biggest non-Conference game on tomorrow's midwest schedule. These teams have met on four occasions and each has won two games.

CHANGE IN GREEN ELEVEN.

Dartmouth Will Enter New Combination Against Holy Cross.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 15.—An eleventh-hour change in the Green lineup which will oppose Holy Cross on Alumni Oval tomorrow was announced by Head Coach Spears here tonight. Spears has had no little difficulty during the last week in filling the shoes of Captain Robertson, Shelburne, Threshie, Merritt and Neidlinger, first string men unable to play through injuries received in the Pennsylvania State game a week ago.

The Green mentor hopes to try out all available men against Holy Cross in order to get set for Syracuse a week hence, but at the same time does not wish to risk defeat at the hands of the Worcester eleven, and plans to use the best possible combination throughout the entire game, should the contest develop into a very close one.

Frazier has finally been selected to take Shelburne's place at full and will start in that position, though Browne will be given a chance before the game is far advanced. Jordan at quarter and Bower and Holbrook at halves complete the backfield combination. Gordan and Foster, two new men this year, will start at ends, while Streng and Worth are held in reserve. Sonnenberg and Don Moore, another rookie who has come into prominence this last week, will be at tackles, with Crisp and George Moore, still suffering a bit from injuries, at the guards. Big Bill Cunningham will hold down his old position at centre.

Spears put the men through a lengthy signal practice this afternoon, in the course of which several plays were introduced for the first time.

WEAK YALE ELEVEN TAKES FIELD TODAY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 15.—The Yale football squad did no scrimmaging today, but signal drill and kicking practice lasted for an hour and a half. Murphy, Aldrich and Kempton engaged in field goal trials.

The opinion here is that the chances for victory in the game tomorrow with Boston College favors the Bostonians. The Yale eleven will go on the field minus fully half its regular first string men, due to injuries or the poor physical form of several players. The loss of Herr and Acosta, guards, and Jordan, fullback, is especially unfortunate. Into and Quaile will play the guard positions. Their presence causes the Eli home crowd to expect a constant hammering of the centre of the line by the Boston sledge. Captain Tim Callahan will play most of the game at centre, but his brilliant understudy, Bill Galvin, will be Dickens, at left tackle. Shevlin, tackle part of the match. MacKay, who had been out of the game for two weeks, will play right tackle. Besides Callahan, the only other veteran in the rush line will be Dickens, at left tackle. Shevlin and Dilworth, both of whom are rather light, will be on the wings.

In the backfield Aldrich, who also has been out of form for two weeks, will resume left halfback. He is the most consistent performer of the Yale backfield and the coaches expect to use him for most of the end-running and forward-passing game. Kelly, the former Rutgers captain, is just mastering the Yale style of team-play. He played only average football against North Carolina last week, but today may win right halfback by reversal of form. Webb, who would have been regular fullback last year if he had not broken his leg just before the final matches of the season, will have his old berth.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 15—Princeton is expecting one of the hardest games on her early season schedule when the Tiger meets Washington and Lee in the Palmer Stadium tomorrow. The heavy Southern team will invade Princeton confident in its great record of last year and its opening victories of the present season. Last season the Generals took the measure of several teams in the South, including Georgia Tech.

Coach Roper has had his charges meet the freshmen or the ineligibles every day and several of the new men are rounding into form Halsey, the big varsity shot putter who has been shifted from guard to tackle, has improved greatly in his new place and seems to be better adapted to the ranging play of the tackle position. He will start at the post tomorrow. Keck, the best lineman the Tigers possess, will work at the other tackle with Speers and Towers at the guards. Both guards played well last Saturday. Thomas, shifted to the guard squad last month, before the injured list assumed its present proportions, has gone back to center, apparently to stay. Davis and Raymond are again Roper's choice for the ends. Their work has been especially good in this week's scrimmage. Lourie has been out of scrimmage part of the week with a blistered foot, but is to run the team at quarterback again tomorrow. Lourie is more than coming up to expectation this year, and Roper believes that he will prove himself one of the greatest quarterbacks in the game before the season is over. He has made four dashes of over fifty yards each in Princeton's two games and is good at plunges and passing. Murrey will play right halfback, with Gilroy at left half and Hank Garrity at full.

This backfield possesses everything on the program. Murrey and Lourie are excellent open field runners and between them have a highly developed pass system. Garrity was one of the finest line plungers of the 1919 season and Gilroy excels at off tackle plays. Lourie is a good punter, and Murrey a good drop kicker. Dickinson, Wittmer, Rutan and Thompson will view the game from the benches tomorrow, in addition to Captain Callahan. Stan Keck will be acting captain. The varsity enjoyed a peaceful afternoon, and Roper let the players off after working the first and second elevens through a few dummy plays.

HARVARD MEETS WILLIAMS.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 15.—After its strenuous week, with the hardest scrimmages of the year against the scrubs and the freshmen, the Harvard 'Varsity football team took things fairly easy today. Tomorrow Joe Brooks, the former Colgate all-America lineman, will bring his Williams eleven down to the Crimson is looking for a considerably stiffer game than it had against Valparaiso a week ago. The Williams game is built around the all-around star, Benny Boynton, and Brooks has a fast backfield to go with him. The Williams line will be lighter than Harvard's, but the Cambridge team will have to play several substitutes, even at the beginning of the game.

Captain Horween's injury to his side will keep him out of the game and it is very improbable that the coaches will use Hubbard at tackle. At this stage of the season the coaches are not willing to take any chances with this player, who now seems to be the most valuable man for the forward line. Much will depend on Kane's end play tomorrow, for Gaston and Macomber both are keen for regular berths.

N. Y. U. WELL DRILLED.

Hopes to Break Long String of Defeats by Wesleyan Today.

Coach Gargan gave the New York University football team its final practice session yesterday afternoon on Ohio Field in preparation for the game today with the Wesleyan eleven at Middletown. The team had only light work, such as signal drill and forward passing, and then went into the gymnasium for a blackboard talk.

The team leaves this morning for the New England college, and a large crowd of students will go with them. The Violet college has not scored a victory over Wesleyan for more than ten years, but the New Yorkers feel that they have a good chance of breaking the streak this year.

Gargan worked the men hard this week, as he feels that today's game will be as hard as the one against Columbia last week. Several new formations have been tried, and the New Yorkers feel that they are ready for a stiff battle.

Vernon Again Wins Pennant.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—Vernon won the championship of the Pacific Coast Baseball League today when it defeated Portland, 5 to 3. With the victory today, Vernon has won 107 and lost 87 games this season. This is the second consecutive year Vernon has won the pennant.

Playing Ball Out of Shirt Pocket Latest Golf Problem

All other unplayable lies on a golf course appear as nothing when contrasted with a new story emanating from the Denver Country Club. A member of a foursome playing the sixth hole made a shot from the fairway in behind a bunker, but pulled his ball in the general direction of the seventh tee. The sphere bounded, struck a caddy on the head, then caromed over L. B. Bromfield, who was on the tee ready to drive, and landed in the shirt pocket of R. P. Barry, who was standing beside the tee. A fine argument resulted over the manner of playing the next shot. Several members in the group proposed that they lay Barry down with his head toward the hole and let the owner play his ball out of the pocket as best he could. Barry couldn't see the wisdom of this proposal from any angle, his principal objection being that he had no extra ribs to spare.

AMHERST TEAM AT SOUTH FIELD TODAY

Amherst's veteran eleven, which held Columbia closely all the way in last year's game, will be the attraction on South Field this afternoon in the third contest on the Blue and White schedule. The Massachusetts team was beaten by only 9 to 7 in its last appearance and is touted as possessing a fast and shifty backfield, headed by the clever Zink, who will again be at quarterback and will undoubtedly bring his educated toe into action. Today's battle will be Columbia's first test against a first-class drop kicker. Others in the visiting backfield will be Brisk and Card, familiar names to South Field, and Murnane, fullback.

While Columbia's defense is being thoroughly tested by this speedy backfield aggregation, Coach O'Neill expects to be giving the Amherst line something to keep it busy. Whether or not the former Syracuse mentor will open up his attack to any extent today is still a question. He is bringing his offense along slowly and is not hurrying the Blue and White team too much in the forward pass and open formations, and it is probable that he will concentrate his attention on line plays and orthodox football for one more game at least.

The lineup:

ISSUE BOXING PERMITS.

Carpentier and Descamps Among Those to Receive Licenses.

Georges Carpentier, his manager, Francois Descamps, and his trainer, Gustave Wilson, were licensed as boxers eligible to participate in boxing activities under the provisions of the Walker law in this state at the last meeting of the Boxing Commission and License Committee. In submitting their applications the visiting Frenchmen gave their address as 43 Franklin Place, Summit, N. J. The men received their licenses for their respective capacities: Carpentier as a boxer, Descampes as a manager, and Wilson as trainer. Charley Ledoux, French bantamweight, and Marcel Thomas, French welterweight, giving the same address as their countrymen, also were licensed.

These licenses were included in a list of 133 permits granted to boxers, managers, referees, judges, seconds, trainers, a timekeeper and a physician, following favorable action by the boxing officials on some of the voluminous applications which have poured in steadily since the Walker law was formally adopted here.

RUTGERS WITHOUT DUFFY.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 15.—Rutgers will meet Virginia Poly here tomorrow minus the services of Duffy, the elusive little halfback, whose clever work has fatured the Rutgers attack this year. Duffy injured his leg against Lehigh last week. Captain Gardner will again be in the backfield, although he has not been in scrimmage practice all week. Hilliard is the most likely choice for Duffy's place.

After a long individual drill on defensive work today the team was put through an extensive signal practice, but there was no scrimmaging. It is expected that a number of new plays will be tried against Virginia. The Southerners have been heading all season toward this game and will give Rutgers a hard battle. Coach Sanford spent a lot of time today drilling the men on going down under punts.

SHARKEY DEFEATS LEDOUX AT GARDEN

Jack Sharkey, sensational little west side Italian, added the name of Charley Ledoux, France's sterling bantamweight, to his list of victims last night at Madison Square Garden. The two clashed in the principal fifteen-round bout before a crowd which comfortably filled the arena, and Sharkey pummelled his little foreign rival in every one of the fifteen rounds and easily earned the award. Only the remarkable gameness and stamina of Ledoux kept the sturdy little French boxer on his feet to hear the final clang of the gong.

At the final bell Joe Humphreys stepped into the ring and, after receiving the decision slips which the judges had handed up to Referee Bill Brown, announced that the winner was Sharkey. A din of applause which shook the building greeted the award. This manner of announcing decisions has been in use for the last two weeks, although there is nothing which could recommend its retention. Spectators do not know whether the judges award the verdicts or whether there is a disagreement between them and a referee's decision. In view of Sharkey's pronounced display of superiority it was presumed that the judges agreed on the little Italian.

Carpentier Seconds Ledoux.

Not even the expert advice of Georges Carpentier could bring victory to little Ledoux. The French heavyweight was in his countryman's corner as a second, and, peeling off his hat and coat, worked hard on Ledoux between rounds, meanwhile administering advice. When Carpentier's presence became known early in the evening the crowd yelled for his formal introduction from the ring. The conqueror of Levinsky stepped through the ropes while the gloves were being laced on the fighters and received loud applause, which drowned out a scattering undercurrent of hissing and booing.

The bout was replete with exciting moments. They were for the most part produced by the spectacular work of Sharkey, but the gameness of Ledoux supplied the necessary essentials to make an interesting bout despite Sharkey's unquestionable lead in points. Sharkey took every round of the fifteen, but he found Ledoux a worthy foe and one capable of assimilating punishment. Sharkey battered his rival about the ring under a heavy attack of rights and lefts, but Ledoux stood up under the punishment and at the final bell was swinging lustily at Sharkey in a hot mix-up in the middle of the ring, landing with cleaner blows than his Italian rival.

Ledoux in Danger in Second.

In the second round it looked like curtains for Ledoux. Sharkey continued his whirlwind assault, and under a shower of rights and lefts to the jaw rushed Ledoux to the ropes. There Sharkey pinned his opponent and smashed a right to the jaw which sent Ledoux down for a count of two. Arising, the French boxer was dizzy, but Sharkey was wild and too eager in his assault and lost an opportunity to win by a knockout.

Ledoux was in trouble in the third, fourth nd fifth rounds when Sharkey ripped left hooks to the stomach and followed with flurries of rights and lefts to the face which rocked his rival. Ledoux weathered the storm, however, and sought feebly and ineffectively to retaliate. Sharkey tired from his earlier efforts in the next three rounds, but Ledoux was too tired to assume the offensive when his rival let up for a spell.

Through the next six sessions Sharkey worked tirelessly to the stomach and face with both hands, but could not connect with a decisive blow. In the final session both slammed away with both hands in a frenzied exchange which brought the crowd to its feet. Near the end of the round Sharkey missed badly, while Ledoux countered with stiff blows to the stomach and jaw.

Lynch-White Bout a Draw.

Joe Lynch, West Side bantamweight, and Jabez White of Albany, went through their fifteen-round bout in approved style, and at the finish the judges, William Muldoon and Charles Thorley, disagreed, and Referee Bill Brown refused to declare in favor of either boxer. Announcer Joe Humphreys therefore announced a draw and the crowd almost lifted the roof off the building with a din of approval.

The battle resulted in plenty of interesting boxing, although the earlier rounds were comparatively slow and unproductive of exciting work. Lynch had advantages in height and reach and attempted to keep the milling at long range. White, an aggressive little bantamweight, worked in close continually and gave his attention to Lynch's stomach. In the second round White slipped to the floor, but was up immediately and resumed his cautious pursuit of his rival. This and a slip to the floor by Lynch in the ninth were the nearest things to a knockdown produced in the bout.

Both boxers warmed to their task in the fifth round, and from then to the finish it was sizzling. White worked incessantly at close quarters, where he pounded Lynch hard about the stomach. Lynch was excelled in this part of the fighting, but at long range he scored heavily and accurately with stinging left jabs and hooks and right crosses. The west sider was wild with some of his blows in the fifth, sixth and seventh rounds, and White accumulated a lead on points. Early in the eighth round White landed with a left hook to the jaw which sent Lynch to the ropes, but the latter returned with a bound to the attack and resumed milling. Near the bell Lynch landed with a right to the jaw which shook White visibly.

Through the ninth round the boxers went along on even terms, but with the tenth Lynch, fighting in fitful spurts, slugged with his sturdy little foe. White was willing, and through the last five rounds they boxed at a stiff pace, both alternating in the attack. The greatest fighting was crowded into the last round, when Lynch and White stood at long range and exchanged blows in a wild mêlée. Lynch was more accurate and landed oftener with cleaner blows than his rival and earned the round. The draw decision, however, was popular and struck favor with the big crowd.

Crowd of 8,000 Present.

A capacity crowd was comfortably seated and quite a few were standing when the principals in the first bout entered the ring. It was estimated that more than 8,000 spectators turned out for the show. In the crowd evening clothes were conspicuous about the ringside. Many women were among the front-row fans.

In the opening contest Frankie Genaro, former Olympic flyweight champion, gained an automatic award over Joe Colletti. Colletti was disqualified in the third round by Referee John Donnelly because of a foul. The contest marked Genaro's first appearance in the professional ring.

The second bout ended unsatisfactorily in the second round and in a manner which brought forth the first outbreak of abuse from a Garden throng. The principals were Freddie Reese and Johnny Reisler. Reisler weighed 124¼ pounds and Reese 138¾, but it was announced that Reisler, rather than disappoint the crowd, consented to go through with the match.

The decision was costly as far as Reisler's record is concerned. He was disqualified in the second round by Referee Donnelly for alleged foul work. In this session Reese went to the canvas in a mixup and immediately regained his feet. As Reese went down, however, Referee Donnelly stepped between the pair and disqualified Reisler. The crowd did not approve of the official action and voiced strenuous dissatisfaction for several minutes.

Noted Belgian Billiardist To Meet American Stars

John Horemans, the famous Belgian balkline billiard player, is now on the high seas on his way to this country. After much persuasion, the man who had startled Europe with his high runs and big averages finally accepted an offer to come to the United States to play. It is generally understood that this marvel of the cue will tackle Willie Hoppe as soon as he has had a chance to become acclimated. The match undoubtedly will be staged in New York City during the Winter. After that match, Horemans will probably make an extended tour of the country, meeting practically all of the leading professionl players.

HOPPE'S MAGIC CUE IN DOUBLE VICTORY

Billiard Champion Defeats Peterson, 250 to 78 and 250 to 7—Makes Run of 189.

Willie Hoppe broke out into another billiard rash at the Strand Billiard Academy last night. Continuing his series of exhibition matches against Charley Peterson, the fancy shot expert of St. Louis, the world's professional balkline champion averaged 83 1-3 for the second time during the week. As the average indicates, he ran out the match of 250 points in three innings. The final score was 250 to 7. In the afternoon Hoppe defeated Peterson, 250 to 78, and averaged 62½, taking four innings in which to finish the game.

The night match found Hoppe in his best form. He started the game with a high run of 189, and for a time it appeared as if he would run out the game. He had the balls in perfect position after making his 189th shot, but missed a short draw by an eighth of an inch. Had he made the point the balls were in such excellent position that he could have continued his run indefinitely. As it was, he came back in his second inning with a cluster of 25, and concluded the game on his third turn at the table with an unfinished run of 36.

In the afternoon match Hoppe's best effort netted him a total of 157 points for one inning's work. This run was made on his third trip to the table. Hoppe and Peterson will play their last two exhibition matches at the Strand Academy this afternoon and evening.

STEINBUGLER BEATS BOYD.

Captures Billiard Match in Interborough Tourney by 150 to 132.

Charles J. Steinbugler defeated Frank W. Boyd, 150 to 132, last night at the Rational Recreation Academy in Brooklyn in the Class C 18.2 balkline tournament for the interborough championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. The game lasted twenty-eight innings. Steinbugler averaged 5 10-28, with a high run of 26, and Boyd averaged 4 20-28, with a high run of 27.

Steinbugler took the lead at the start of the game and, in the fifth inning, was leading by a score of 37 to 10. At that time it looked as if he were going to make a runaway of the match, but Boyd made his high run of 27 in the sixth round and tied the score. From then on it was nip and tuck until the eighteenth inning, when Steibugler injected his cluster of 26. That run put him far in front and he held the lead until the finish. He finally ran out the game with an unfinished run of 12.

It was Steinbugler's second victory in the tournament and the first defeat that Boyd had sustained in three starts. The game was well played and the final score would have been much closer had Boyd been able to maintain his normal stride throughout. But he was inclined to play erratically.

BECKER IS CUE VICTOR.

Although there was very little safety play, the three-cushion billiard match between Frank Becker and Abraham Surkein last night at Joe Thum's Academy in the amateur handicap tournament consumed 100 innings. It was the second longest game that has been played in the event. Becker finally won by a score of 35 to 29. Becker is one of the scratch men in the tourney, while Surkein is favored with a handicap of 10. Surkein's score includes his handicap.

Surkein got off in front, and had he enjoyed a few more breaks in the game he probably would have won. He missed several shots by the proverbial hair. Becker was compelled to play an uphill game from the outset, but stuck to the task and finally caught his opponent in the seventy-eighth inning. The score was then 29 to 28 in Becker's favor. From then on Becker held the lead.

Both players elected to go after the shots rather than resort to the use of "oil." The result was that Surkein played only four deliberate safeties and Becker played but one.

CUTLER WINS, 1,500 TO 839.

The five nights' exhibition balkline billiard match between Albert Cutler and David McAndless was concluded at Maurice Daly's Academy last night. Cutler, 1,500; McAndless, 839. Cutler's of 300 to 160. Cutler made a high run of 58 and averaged 20. McAndless's best run was 51 and his average 10 2-3. The total score for the five nights was: Cutler, 1,500; McAndless, 839; Cutler's high run for the series was 261 and his grand average was an even 35. McAndless's best run was 78 and his grand average was 19 13-39.

FORDHAM IS HANDICAPPED.

Six Regulars on Hospital List—Maroon Plays Villanova Today.

The good fortune in the matter of few injuries which the Fordham football team enjoyed early this season seems to have suddenly departed. Villanova appears at Fordham Field today, and on the eve of the contest six Maroon regulars were on the hospital list, with but a slight possibility of any of them getting into the tussle. Kerns, whose lips were badly split in Wednesday's scrimmage, and Fallon, who is suffering from a wrenched back, are the latest additions to the casualty list. Neither of these men is seriously hurt, however.

In consequence of the large number of injuries Coach Dumoe was forced to let up somewhat in yesterday's practice. Most of the session was given over to signal drills, especially in forward pass plays, which the Maroon eleven will use to a great extent. A short scrimmage, in which the scrub team used the type of plays which Villanova is expected to employ in its attack, concluded the workout.

It is difficult to figure how Dumoe will juggle his substitutes to fill the gaps in his regular combination. It is expected that Captain Fitzpatrick and Ryan will start at ends, Farrell and Lesko or Fogarty will hold down the tackle berths, Dufft and Moran will play guard and Gorman will occupy the centre position. Halloran, Gately, Meyers and Berry will probably form the backfield.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Rise as Call Money Rate Touches 6 Per Cent.—Wheat Gains Sharply.

The security and commodity markets were directed by influences yesterday which were peculiar to each one separately. Stocks became more active than on Thursday and Wednesday and the price trend was strong under the force of easing money rates, the product of increased bank deposits as proceeds of the Anglo-French loan payment and the semi-annual interest disbursement on Fourth Liberty bonds came in. The call loan rate started at 9 per cent., but went to 6 per cent. early in the afternoon. The cotton market was depressed to new low records by the decision of British miners to put their contemplated strike into effect, and wheat quotations swung back to the levels which prevailed on the first day of the month, the day's recovery of the December option being 10½ cents per bushel with urgent, short covering the primary factor in the buying movement of the afternoon. The cotton market recovered part of its decline, but closed lower on the day. Liberty bonds stood in the foreground of another lively and strong session of the bond market.

Generally speaking the factors which shaped the price trend of one market were less potent in the others, if of any influence at all. Evidently, part of a substantial short account in stocks was retired, but the abrupt upturns of several railroad issues, notably junior Reading Company shares and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, were explained by new speculative purchases brought forward by especial developments or expectations in regard to them. The suggestion by Lackawanna representatives before the Interstate Commerce Commission that the company might capitalize the accumulated surplus with a 200 per cent. stock dividend was enough to appeal to the speculative imagination. The prospective dissolution of the Reading Company is timber of the same sort, and as these shares advanced, the railroad list generally moved upward. At the close gains of 1 to 2 points and more were scattered about rather generously, and not a few industrial stocks, representing the "inventory" group lately in disfavor, were included. The smart improvement of grain prices was a natural reaction from sentiment which had recorded a 30 cent depreciation of wheat prices in a fortnight. In respect to cotton, it is not difficult to conceive of further complications for the staple, already hard enough to move into consumption, which would be entailed in a protracted strike at British mines. Manchester mills are on a basis of reduced weekly operations and inability to get coal would be prone to force complete suspension of manufacturing in a short time. Some encouragement over the fuel outlook was contained in dispatches which forecast an early collapse of the strike, but it is hardly likely that optimism of this calibre was influential in the cotton market. A substantial reaction at Liverpool was the guiding fact for much of the selling at New York and New Orleans. The result of a long strike upon Britain's foreign trade is obvious, but it was noted yesterday that sterling exchange was less inclined to react than the day before, while Continental rates were relatively steady.

It grows no easier as time passes to picture the actual business situation, outside of broad conclusions that manufacturing and distribution are growing quieter. It may be surprising to some to learn that the pressure for new housing and office facilities is not bringing a growth of construction operations. Bradstreet's reports that values of new building undertaken in September were only $88,482,000 in 147 cities, a decline of 30.9 per cent., as compared with the same month last year, and the smallest monthly aggregate since April of last year. Various means, legislative and of other sorts, to stimulate construction are clearly not having the expected result. High costs have operated to check new undertakings, along with difficulties in securing adequate credit, and now the building field has apparently been included in the lines affected by a clouded industrial outlook. Like the textile and other markets, construction work has a considerable stake in the progress of commodity prices downward.

ANGLO-FRENCH LOAN REDEEMED IN CASH

FEW STILL TO BE RECEIVED

Release of Funds Causes Fall in Call Money Rate from 9 Per Cent. to 6.

Payment of the outstanding remainder of the $500,000,000 Anglo-French loan was begun yesterday, the date of maturity, and at the close of business it was said that the great bulk of the operation had been completed. Not all of the bonds still in the hands of the public, however, came in to J. P. Morgan & Co. yesterday, and the bankers expressed the belief that it would be several days before all of the securities were presented.

The total amount outstanding at the opening of business yesterday was approximately $203,000,000. This means that about $297,000,000 either had been purchased in the open market for the account of the British and French Governments or had been exchanged for the recently offered $100,000,000 French Government loan. Practically all of the big blocks of the bonds had been rounded up and purchased by the agents of the foreign Governments, so that of the $203,000,000 outstanding a substantial majority was in the hands of private investors, and mostly in relatively small amounts.

Around $100,000,000 of this balance had been sent to J. P. Morgan & Co. before yesterday's business session opened, so that the bonds would be here for prompt redemption. In addition to this sum a very large amount, the exact size of which was not ascertained, came in during the day. It is expected there will be additional presentations for redemption for several days, as many out of town holders were reported to have waited until yesterday to present their bonds to their local banks, and it will require some little time for these banks to forward the bonds to New York. In addition, there will be a relatively small amount which probably will not come to light for many months, and as usualy happens in large transactions of this kind some of the bonds never will be presented, having been lost or destroyed. The percentage, it is expected, will be infinitesimal.

Payment of most of the big loan had very marked effect on the money market. The call money rate, which had been as high as 10 per cent. on Thursday, and which opened yesterday at 9 per cent., fell to 6 per cent. in the afternoon. This, it was said, reflected the releasing of funds by J. P. Morgan & Co. in cancellation of the loan, the funds going back to the banks, which thus were placed high in cash and were able to lend freely on the Stock Exchange.

Further, the easing of money rates reflected the big payments by the Treasury, payments which exceeded Treasury receipts in this district by approximately $28,000,000. All of these transactions are expected to result in very large exchanges at the Clearing House today. Yesterday's exchanges were about $925,000,000, but today's are expected to be over $1,000,000,000.

CHRISTIANIA BONDS OFFERED

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have purchased and are offering at 99 and interest an issue of $5,000,000 City of Christiania, Norway, twenty-five-year 8 per cent. sinking fund gold bonds, due Oct. 15, 1945. This issue, it is expected, will be followed soon by other European municipal issues of bonds.

The Christiania bonds will be repayable during their life by the operation of a sinking fund, amounting to $220,000 per annum for the first ten years and $215,000 thereafter. During the first five years the bonds are to be purchased for the sinking fund in the market, if obtainable, at not more than 110 per cent. of par and interest, and to the extent not so used, the sinking fund will accumulate and be applied to the redemption of the bonds by lot at 110 in 1925. During the next five years the sinking fund will redeem bonds semi-annually by lot at 110 and interest, and during the last fifteen years at 107½ and interest.

Christiania, capital and principal port of the Kingdom of Norway, has a population of about 260,000. Its financial standing always has ranked high, it is said, and there never has been any default on a loan of the city.

The proceeds of the present loan are to be used for productive purposes, such as electrical works, housing facilities and harbor improvements.

The City of Zurich, Switzerland, loan of $6,000,000 in twenty-five-year 8 per cent. bonds is expected to be offered early next week by a banking syndicate composed of Hallgarten & Co., Blair & Co., and Halsey, Stuart & Co. The offering price, it is expected, will be between 99 and par.

This loan, in turn, is expected to be followed by the emissions in this market of other Swiss cities, with Berne and Geneva both mentioned as negotiators with local bankers. It also is rumored that other Scandinavian cities and at least two Dutch cities are trying to arrange loans here, and the Government of Holland is reported to have been making advances to American bankers.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Sharp Recovery in Prices.

Expectation of a continued high money rate yesterday failed of realization, and when there was a drop to 6 per cent. in the final hour of trading stocks were bought heavily by the bear crowd to cover commitments. This purchasing sent prices upward rather sharply in a number of instances, notably in such issues as Mexican Petroleum, where the activities of the bears have been most pronounced. There had been some predictions that money would touch an even higher rate yesterday than on any preceding day of the week, and it was under the guise of this prospective advance in call funds that the shorts hoped to cover. The decided easing in money, therefore, caught many of them unawares, and covering was accomplished only through the procedure of bidding up prices. News developments outside of the market appeared to have little influence. The bears hoped, for instance, that the British coal situation would cause depression, but it came to pass that this item in the day's news was quite ignored.

Aetna Explosives.

According to reports yesterday the prospective purchase of Aetna Explosives by the Hercules Powder Company will come up for discussion before the Aetna Directors on Wednesday. Apparently there are two factions in the Aetna Company, one which desires to sell the property and another which holds that since the company is on a paying basis it would be well to continue operation for the benefit of the stockholders. The present deal has been under consideration for a long time, in fact some say it dates back five years. However that may be, the fact remains that there is undoubtedly going to be keen opposition to a sale at this time. In one quarter it is asserted that Hercules could not purchase Aetna without having permission from the courts.

Call Money Drops.

After opening at 9 per cent., call money went through some interesting gyrations, finally winding up at 6 per cent. The cause for this drop, of course, was perfectly logical and perfectly well known and expected, but it was interesting, nevertheless. The paying off of the Anglo-French loan and the surplus which the banks gained from the Treasury on yesterday's operations accounted for the performance. What will be more interesting, however, will be to note how long money stays at the relatively low rate of yesterday afternoon, with the demands from all parts of the country still running high and with the bond market boiling along and absorbing funds at a rapid rate.

International Clearing Fund.

One thing which has come out of the Anglo-French settlement and which generally has been lost sight of is the actual establishment of what virtually amounts to an international gold settlement fund. The local Federal Reserve Bank has had such a fund with London for more than a year and by arrangements recently completed with the Bank of France, whereby the Reserve Bank here was to advance credit against the ear-marking of gold at the Bank of France in order that there should be no deficit when payment of the big loan was required, it has opened what is, to all intents and purposes, a gold settlement fund between the United States, England and France. Such a development as this in banking is of the utmost importance and while it is little appreciated or understood at present, doubtless it will come to be one of the great factors in settling balances.

Japanese Conditions.

Business conditions in Japan still are unsatisfactory and the outlook for business is not encouraging, if private advices to local banks are to be taken at their face value. The Irving National Bank, whose Vice President, W. N. Enstrom, is now in Yokohama, received a cable yesterday which said: "Conditions continue unfavorable. Depression is felt in all lines and the outlook is not reassuring. Banks are extremely cautious in granting credits. They are keeping large reserves and making loans only on high grade collateral." From this it might be inferred that the situation there has not improved substantially from what it was several months ago. Incidentally, some of the local banks are in receipt of none too gratifying communications anent the conditions in Holland, where the process of "deflation" is pursuing its always unhappy course.

Reading a Feature.

Reading first and second preferred shares attracted attention yesterday with a sudden spurt into higher ground. The first preferred closed with a net gain of 7½ per cent. and the second preferred made a net advance of 1½ points. Incidentally the turnover was heavier in both issues than for some time. The commanding position of the first preferred stock and the conversion privileges of the second preferred were considered as reasons for the sudden interest, while it was reported in some quarters that the company had indicated the preferred issues will share equally with the common in any distribution of assets of the company, dissolution or liquidation. At one time the second preferred was up more than 5 points from the opening, but it was apparent that the professionals took profits before the close, as the stock slipped back easily from a high of 65 to a closing quotation of 59. Reading 4 per cent. bonds also advanced, the net gain from the preceding close being 4⅝ points.

The Guarantee Payment Ruling.

Discussion of the Controller of the Treasury's ruling that advances on standard return settlements could not be made by the Government to the railroads which failed to make application therefor before Sept. 1, 1920, continues to be one of the chief items of interest among railroad men. In conservative quarters the President's action in submitting their appeal for relief from the ruling to the Attorney General is considered as a hopeful sign in that it may result in easing a tense situation for some of the roads. Commenting upon what the President may do to help in the situation one railroad man yesterday told the old story about President Grant and the man who insisted that Grant make one of the Secretaries do a certain thing. In substance Grant replied that he could not make any Secretary do anything, but that if it were proved that action should be taken the President was empowered to remove a Secretary from office. But generally it is not expected that anything of this nature will be necessary. In fact, some railroad men expressed themselves as fairly confident a way will be found out of the predicament

D., L. & W. 200 Per Cent. Melon.

When excerpts of the testimony of counsel for the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad before the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday were received in the financial district to the effect that the company wanted to declare a 200 per cent. stock dividend, the stock became more active than usual and sold up to 252. From this high for the day there was a slight reaction before the close to 250, which was the last price, the net gain for the day being 4 full points.

Earnings to Reflect Rate Increases.

The September earnings of the railroads, which, in the case of a number of the big systems will probably be available in ten days or two weeks, will reflect to a marked degree the increases in freight and passenger rates which went into effect Sept. 1. This will be particularly true of the roads which are not materially hurt by the opposition of various State Commissions to the increases, and while the heads of several lines say that the improvement resulting will be marked they are not generally prepared to issue estimated figures.

CHINA CONSORTIUM AGREEMENT SIGNED

TWO-YEAR JOB FINISHED

No Application for a Loan Yet, but Peking Representative Arrives Today.

The final agreement of the Chinese consortium was signed yesterday by the representatives of the four countries concerned, and the State Department at Washington and the Foreign Offices at London, Paris and Tokio immediately notified. The representatives of the four Governments formally agreed to the contract some time ago, and all that remained to bring the consortium into actual being was the signatures of the banking representatives.

The document yesterday was signed by Sir Charles Addis, as representative of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation and of the British group; Captain René Thion de la Chaume, of the Banque de l'Indo-Chine, for the French group, and by K. Takeuchi, of the Yokohama Specie Bank, for the Japanese group. The agreement was signed on behalf of the American group by the representatives of the Managing Committee, which is composed of J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the National City Bank, the Guaranty Trust Company, the Chase National Bank and Lee, Higginson & Co., all of New York, and the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago.

The signing of the agreement is the final step in the whole plan which was begun two years ago this Autumn, when the State Department addressed an identical note to the British, French and Japanese Governments with the suggestion that they encourage in their respective countries the establishment of strong banking groups with the purpose of forming a consortium for the assistance of China, the establishment of her public utilities and the stabilizing of her finances.

A meeting was held in Paris in May, 1919, at which delegates from all of the four national groups were present, for the purpose of forming the consortium. A tentative orgnization was effected and an agreement drawn up subject to the approval of the Governments. The British, French and American Governments approved promptly, but the Japanese Government directed that certain reservations should be filed with respect to portions of Mongolia and Manchuria, which they claimed should fall without the scope of the consortium.

Mr. Lamont went to Japan and China last Winter and, after a series of conferences with Japanese bankers and governmental officials, persuaded them to withdraw their reservations and agree to enter the consortium on the basis laid down by the other members.

It was said yesterday that the signing of the agreement marked the clumination of the conference which had been in progress all week. There will, however, be informal conferences next week, and as nearly all of the delegates will remain in New York for several days, or at least within a short distance of New York, any matters which may come up will be attended to promptly.

A representative of the Peking Government will arrive here today and is expected to meet the delegates and go over the situation with them. Whether this representative will bring any formal application for a loan to China or not is not known. A member of the consortium said yesterday that no application for assistance of any kind had been made to the consortium and that until one is made nothing will be done. The consortium itself will not initiate any loans to China, but whatever is done will be as a result of consideration of applications from that country.

Delegates from the various groups represented in the Chinese consortium were the guests of the Fifth Avenue Association yesterday at a luncheon in commemoration of the ninth anniversary of the Chinese Republic. Sir Charles Addid, the British signatory, declared that a special clause had been inserted in the agreement expressing the principle that all contracts for railways, material and supplies for China under the consortium would be open to bids from the business men of the entire world.

He added that the consortium would be careful to avoid the enmity of special groups in China, and that the sovereignty of China at all times would remain unimpaired. Co-operation between nations rather than international competition in the affairs of China, he declared, would be sought by the consortium, the nations concerned acting as a unit.

Francis H. Sisson, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, who was toastmaster; Edward B. Bruce, President of the Pacific Development Corporation, and I. C. Suez, Chinese Consul here, were the other speakers.

The American Government should adopt a fixed policy toward China toward the end that China shall be constantly assisted to develop on independent national lines her democratic form of government and institutions, Mr. Suez asserted. This Government also should be persuaded to send young men and women to China for instruction in Chinese history, literature, the manners and customs of China, just as the Chinese Government is sending her young men and women to study in America.

SEEK 200% IN STOCK.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Stock dividends of nearly 200 per cent. would result from increasing the capital stock of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad by capitalizing its surplus, it was brought out today at the Interstate Commerce Commission's hearing on the road's application to make such an increase.

The present capitalization was placed at $44,000,000 and the surplus at $90,000,000, which represented railroad earnings and not earnings from the road's coal properties, according to company representatives.

Two plans for segregating the railroad coal properties, necessary under the law before capitalization can be increased, were outlined by W. J. Janney, Vice President and General Counsel of the road. One proposition was to deed the coal deposits to a coal company, stock in which would be taken in exchange and distributed to the railroad stockholders. The railroad would exercise no control over the coal properties as a corporation, but for some years the stock of both the railroad and the coal company would be held by the same individuals.

The second plan was to sell the coal lands to a syndicate organized by the railroad stockholders, the syndicate to organize an operating company which would give the railroad company bonds for the coal properties. The railroad would have no voting power in the coal company.

The minimum value of the coal lands was $60,000,000, Mr. Janney estimated. He contended that an increase in the capital stock of the railroad would not affect the public or transportation rates.

WHEAT ADVANCES SHARP.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Wheat made a big advance in price today after news became public that President Wilson had asked Governor Allen of Kansas for information which might indicate that the recent big fall in the value of wheat was due to any artificial causes. December delivery ran up 13 to 13¼ to $2.21 and closed unsetled at $2.17½ to $2.18½.

Announcement of recent large British purchases of wheat on the Pacific Coast counted also as a bullish factor, and so did word of an unusual export demand for corn. Besides, a big drop in ocean freight rates was reported, and it was said that seeding advices pointed to a seriously decreased acreage of Winter wheat planting throughout the United States.

Most of the hurried buying on which today's advance took place was attributed to shorts and commission houses.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Secretary Houston announced tonight that subscriptions to the last issue of Treasury certificates of indebtedness will aggregate about approximately 160,000,000. The Treasury called for $100,000,000 or thereabouts. This issue of certificates is dated Oct. 15 and matures March 15, 1921. The interest rate is 5¾ per cent.

BANK CLERKS' BONUS LESS.

Extra compensation of 31 per cent. of the amount of their salaries during the three months ended Sept. 30 was paid to members of the staff of the Irving National Bank yesterday. This was the third quarterly payment of the year and was 8½ per cent. less than in the June quarter.

The rate of extra compensation is based on Bradstreet's index number for commodities, and yesterday's payments reflect the decrease in commodity prices since the end of June.

COTTON DROPS AGAIN ON LIVERPOOL NEWS

SPOTS HERE DOWN TO 22c

Most of yesterday's bearish inspiration for cotton came from abroad, where the Liverpool market, reflecting the uncertainty caused by the apparent determination of the coal miners to go through with their threatened strike, was very irregular and at times very weak. Spots there made new low record of 15.17d, and futures in mid-session were down a maximum of 65 points. But Liverpool rallied late in the day, ending at net losses of 14 to 32 points. This, however, did not help our market to any noticeable extent.

Here the list broke at the start, many options showing the extreme low prices for the day and for the movement. January, March and May all sold at, or very close to, 19 cents flat, and July broke to 18.90. December, which had sold at 20 cents flat on Thursday, went under that figure yesterday, and for a time the whole list was demoralized. But the 19 cent level apparently attracted a good deal of profit-taking buying and a bulge followed which lifted the market 10 to 30 points above Thursday's closing. This, in turn, was followed by a new break which left final prices down 55 to 15 points, with the near months suffering the more severely.

One development of the day which caused a good deal of comment and some concern was the virtual wiping out of all premium on near months. At the close the spread between October and July on bid prices was only 115 points, which is the closest these months have been in a very considerable period.

Spots here lost another 50 points to 22 cents and in the South declines were general. The Dallas market broke under 20 cents for spots, thus being the first Southern market to go so low.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.

July	18.93	19.30	18.90	18.95	19.10

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, down 50 points to 22c for middling upland; sales, 300 bales. Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 22.50c; New Orleans, 20.25c; Savannah, 22c; Augusta, 21.25c; Memphis, 20.50c; Houston, 20.65c; Little Rock, 21.50c.

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton was irregular, at 15.17d for middling; sales, 4,000 bales, of which 3,000 were American; imports, 4,000 bales, of which 1,000 were American; futures opened easy, 31 to 41 points down and closed steady, 14 to 32 points down on the day. Prices: October, 14.51d; December, 14.24d; March, 14.03d; May, 13.83d. Manchester: Yarns and cloths were dull and easier.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Political uncertainties and the mild Autumn weather, together with the growing unwillingness of buyers, whether retailers or wholesalers, to make their usual purchases, are still operating to retard general business, according to the weekly trade reviews. In commenting upon the situation this last week, Bradstreet's says, in part:

> Summer temperatures, low prices for farm produce, and the growing unwillingness of buyers, whether at retail or wholesale, to operate, in view of the prevailing price uncertainty, have acted as pretty effectual checks to activity in many lines. To find a parallel to the present quiet, indeed, it is necessary to go back to the period following the outbreak of the great war.

Dun's Review, in addition to the slowing down in other lines, notes a marked falling off in building activities, which it comments upon as follows:

> Statistical evidence of industrial reaction again appears in the returns of building permits issued at the country's leading centres, the September total of $82,610,655 for 103 cities representing the low point of the present year. The permits granted last month, which are exclusive of those for alterations and repairs, involved a considerably smaller estimated expenditure than was the case in August, when nearly $91,000,000 was recorded at 101 centres, and they mark the fifth consecutive monthly reduction. Comparison with the $128,728,602 of September, 1919, discloses practically a 36 per cent. decrease, and there is a falling off of approximately that much at points outside of New York City.

SUIT FILED TO FORCE INCREASE IN BUDGET

Citizens Union Would Compel Estimate Board to Allow Full Amount Asked for Schools.

ACTION IS A FRIENDLY ONE

In an effort to compel the Board of Estimate to include the full amount in the 1921 city budget of the request of the Department of Education instead of the mandatory amount, the Citizens Union, through Walter Frank, a taxpayer, yesterday obtained an order to show cause why a writ of mandamus should not be issued. The order, obtained from Supreme Court Justice Vernon M. Davis, was served upon the members of the board at their meeting. It is returnable on or before Oct. 20.

The suit was said to be a friendly one to obtain a legal decision on the question raised by Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan, to include some $38,000,000 in the budget which Controller Craig contends does not belong there.

An affidavit accompanying the order, signed by Frank, alleges that the Board of Estimate is required by law to include in its 1921 budget for educational purposes a sum equivalent to 4.9 mills on every dollar of assessed valuation of real and personal property within the city. It also states that the board is required, when the 4.9 mills sum is determined, to consider and determine what money, if any, in excess of this sum, shall be appropriated to the Board of Education.

The affidavit then raises the question of the right of the board to include the debt service in the 2 per cent. total tax levy limit, as provided in the Constitution. It sets forth that there is a debt service of about $44,615,832.53, which must be taken care of in the 1921 budget for the redemption of special revenue bonds and tax notes with interest.

In explaining why the suit was brought Leonard M. Wallstein, counsel for the Citizens' Union, said:

"The proceeding is for a mandamus to compel the Board of Estimate to consider the Board of Education's request for appropriations for 1921 upon its merits, instead of granting to it merely the mandatory 4-9 mills tax yield. The Board of Estimate's disposition of this matter is based upon its opinion that it is without power to appropriate more because of the constitutional 2 per cent. tax limitation. The board believes that this constitutional provision must be applied so as to make it applicable to sums amounting to over $44,000,000 and which must be carried in the budget for the purpose of redeeming in 1921 the special revenue bonds, tax notes and other short-term indebtedness issued or to be issued during the current year. This view of the law may be correct. We, however, think it is wrong and have brought a proceeding which will elicit an adjudication by the court upon the subject."

Borough President Curran made this comment:

"It is for the great good of the city that this suit has been brought, and I hope that the Corportion Counsel will co-operate with counsel for the plaintiff, to the end of obtaining a ruling by the Supreme Court of the State on the constitutional question which I brought up last Monday. A matter of such importance as this should be settled at once so that the public and the schools may be left in no further uncertainty. This is a friendly suit and is to be so considered."

Mayor Hylan refused to comment upon the suit.

MURPHY WINS A POINT.

Court Refuses to Prohibit Justice Wagner from Hearing Tax Conspiracy

Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, and his co-defendants in the indictments returned by the Extraordinary Grand Jury, for alleged conspiracy to defraud the Government out of excess profits taxes from the North Kensington refinery, won a point before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday when the court denied an application by Special Deputy Attorney General Rand for a writ of prohibition, restraining Supreme Court Justice Wagner from hearing a motion by the defendants to dismiss the indictments against them.

The defendants other than Mr. Murphy are Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith, Arthur J. Baldwin, who was attorney for Mr. Murphy and his business associate, John A. McCarthy, also indicted, Ernest B. Walden and the Corn Products Refining Company. They applied to Justice Wagner to dismiss the indictments on the ground that the Grand Jury had no authority to hear the charges in the first place, and that improper evidence was received and the rights of the defendants invaded in other ways.

Justice Wagner, who has withheld consideration of the case, pending the prohibition proceedings, is now permitted to make known his decision as soon as it is ready.

FATALLY STRICKEN IN COURT

William A. Robinson, Lawyer, Dies of Apoplexy.

Following an earnest plea for the release of four children from the custody of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, William Adams Robinson, a well-known lawyer, was stricken by apoplexy yesterday and fell to the floor of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn. He was removed to the Methodist Episcopal Hospital, where he died soon after.

Mr. Robinson appeared as counsel for Angelo Salomone and his wife, Angelina, of 282 Van Brunt Street, who have been indicted for the theft of merchandise intrusted to the Salomone Trucking Company, of which Salomone is the head. The four children of the couple had been committed to the care of the society, and Mr. Robinson was seeking to have them returned to their parents. His plea had just been denied by Justice Callaghan when Mr. Robinson was stricken.

Mr. Robinson lived at 249 Argyle Road. His office was at 44 Court Street. He was born in Brooklyn in 1870 and was admitted to the bar in 1891.

WINS WAFFLE CHAMPIONSHIP

Marine Eats 26½ in 30 Minutes and Defeats Army in Contest.

Forty-eight waffles disappeared like snowflakes at the Home Economics Booth in the Grand Central Palace yesterday when the champion waffle eaters of the army and marine corps clashed to decide the waffle eating championship of the world. Speed of assimilation and number of waffles disposed of were the deciding points of the epochal contest, with penalties for snuffling and choking.

Let it be known over the world that the Man o' War of the waffle turf is Private Paul Francis Jones of the United States Marine Corps, who ate twenty-six and one-half waffles yesterday, without fumbling one. Time: 30 minutes flat. He started training for the contest at 3 o'clock in the afternoon by eating a porterhouse steak smothered in onions, French fried potatoes, asparagus, doughnuts and coffee.

'CRANK' REPUDIATES HIS LAST CONFESSION

But Police Believe It Was True and That He Did Smother the Coughlin Baby.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—August Pasquale, known as "The Crank," repudiated today his confession that he kidnapped Blakely Coughlin, smothered him accidentally and then threw his body into the Schuylkill River, according to Montgomery County authorities. He is alleged to have said the confession was a "lot of bunk" and that he made it "just to give the State Police something to work on."

Pasquale's latest statement was made to one of his guards at the Norristown jail. According to the guard, he would add nothing to the assertion that the confession was untrue.

Despite his repudiation, the police believe Pasquale's confession, which was made to Major Lynn G. Adams, head f the State Police, last Friday and again yesterday in the form of a signed statement, is true. It was the only one of his many statements and confessions, they declared, that has in any way been substantiated. They called attention to the finding of a piece of steel rail, with a string attached, at the spot in the river where the prisoner said he threw the baby's body as bearing out that part of his confession.

District Attorney Benninger of Montgomery County announced today that Pasquale would not be charged with the murder of the Coughlin child unless its body is found. The prisoner's confession, he declared, could not be admitted as evidence without proof of the baby's death. Formal charges to be lodged against him, the District Attorney said, would be abduction, extortion and blackmail, with possibly a charge of breaking and entering. The maximum penalty for abduction in Pennsylvania is life imprisonment.

FIVE KILLED IN GINS; SUSPECT DYNAMITERS

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., Oct. 15.—Five men were killed and one seriously injured by the explosion today of a boiler in the cotton gin of the D. Bacey Gin Company, near Rowland, Robeson County.

The cause of the explosion had not been determined, but the authorities are investigating a report that explosives had been placed in the boiler.

BALD KNOB, Ark., Oct. 15.—Eight farmers arrested yesterday on charges of night riding waived examinations when arraigned today, and were bound over to await action of the Grand Jury.

Seven of the men are said to have admitted they had written letters to cotton gin operators and had posted placards on gins threatening to burn the gins and kill the watchmen unless the operations were suspended until cotton prices reached 40 cents a pound.

TRUMAN, Ark., Oct. 15.—Anonymous warnings posted on cotton gins here threatened destruction unless they cease operations immediately. Thus far no heed has been paid to the threats.

FREED OF MURDER CHARGE.

Frank Flanagan, Once in Death House, Escapes Second Trial.

Judge Rosalsky yesterday in General Sessions ordered a jury to acquit Frank Flanagan, 24 years old, of 342 East Forty-eighth Street, at his second trial on an indictment charging Flanagan with shooting and killing Patrick Mulhearn, a bartender, in the holdup of a saloon at Park Avenue and 118th Street eighteen months ago. Flanagan was found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury a year ago, and spent eight months in the death house at Sing Sing.

Flanagan obtained from Judge Crain a new trial on the ground that his conviction was brought about through the uncorroborated identification of Vincent Lopez. In the second trial Lopez again identified Flanagan as one of the murderers, but other witnesses to the killing declared the defendant in no way resembled either of the two bandits who did the killing.

After he had ordered the jury to acquit Flanagan Judge Rosalsky turned to Flanagan, who also was under indictment in connection with the holdup of an Armenian restaurant in Washington Street, and said: "I want you to understand that your acquittal is not a personal victory. This is a case where justice must prevail. There was a reasonable doubt, and the court has given you the benefit of that doubt."

Flanagan then thanked Judges Rosalsky and Crain for fairness at both trials, and declared he was innocent of any connection with the murder of Mulhearn.

Flanagan was remanded to the Tombs to await trial on the holdup indictment.

DRY AGENT ADMITS KILLING.

McMullin, on Trial for Murder, Slew Man When 14 Years Old.

When Stewart N. McMullin, the prohibition enforcement agent, who is being tried before Federal Judge Mayer and a jury for the murder of Harry Carlton, told the story of his life from the witness chair on Thursday he confessed to having served terms of imprisonment for the crimes of highway robbery and forgery, but he overlooked the fact that when he was only 14 years old he was accused of killing a peddler by cracking his skull with a stone. McMullin recalled this incident yesterday while he was being cross-examined by Assistant District Attorney Talley. For this offense he pleaded guilty of involuntary manslaughter and was fined $50 and costs.

McMullin also confessed that he has been known as Stewart Nelson, John I. Ramsey, John Conway, and John H. Murphy, and that he had lived for several years with a married woman. He also admitted making false assertions that he had been a cadet at West Point and that he had served under General Pershing in the Philippines.

His salary as prohibition enforcement agent was $125 a month, a monthly bonus of $20 and his expenses. For the month of February his expense voucher was for $326. It was paid. The prosecution has asked for an itemized account of these expenditures.

LOW PRICE CRUSADE ENDED BY PALMER

PROSECUTIONS TO CONTINUE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15—The campaign conducted by the Department of Justice against the high cost of living will be ended and the entire fair price organization disbanded on Nov. 1.

Letters have gone out from the department to all fair price committees and all others engaged in the campaign, advising them of the department's decision to end this work, officials at the department stated today.

Department officials said that while the campaign had been successful, the immediate reason for stopping the work was a lack of funds. Half a dozen special assistants to the Attorney General who have devoted their entire time in fighting high prices, will be retired.

It was declared that the dissolution of the organization would have no effect on the department's drive against violators of the Lever act. The Attorney General was represented as being fully convinced that the act had made it possible to curb the hoarders and the profiteers, and determined to go forward with the prosecutions of coal men and others against whom complaints have been made.

Instructions lately have gone out from the department to District Attorneys to pay close attention to all trade organizations with a view to ascertaining whether they have operated as a combination in restraint of trade. Officials said the trade organizations were so numerous that this phase of the work alone had required the services of more attorneys and agents than the department was able to supply, because of its shortage of funds.

The Government's campaign has cost approximately $500,000, according to the figures of the Department of Justice. Department officials pointed to collections of fines aggregating more than $275,000, assessed against convicted profiteers as evidence of the success attained. Further fines might be collected, it was added, from the more than 1,600 persons and firms indicted through activities of the fair price groups.

Convictions obtained through the fair price committees totalled 181, records of the department showed. These remain more than 200 other cases where arrests have been made, but the trials have not been held. Prison sentences imposed aggregate ten years and ten months in cases already decided. Officials said this represented more than forty convictions, since most of the sentences were short.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15.—The Ohio Fair Price Commission will cease to exist after Nov. 1, Attorney General Palmer officially notified Chairman Pfeiffer from Washington today.

Action in discontinuing the commission, Mr. Palmer said, was due to a desire to "conserve the greatly reduced appropriations for the department's use," and because it was felt that "the purposes for which the organization was founded have been largely accomplished."

"Price of commodities within the scope of the Lever act are generally on a decline, furthered and brought about to a great degree by the efficient work of the Fair Price Commission," the Attorney General's letter said, "and prices continue to drop of their own momentum."

PRESIDENT ASKS ALLEN FOR WHEAT DROP FACTS

Kansas Governor Says He Will Forward Information Regarding Unfair Practices.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—President Wilson has requested Governor Allen of Kansas to forward to the Federal Trade Commission any information he has tending to indicate that the recent decline in wheat prices was due to unfair practices or competition or to other artificial causes.

A letter to this effect, sent today by Secretary Tumulty, was in answer to many appeals for Government action looking to an embargo on Canadian wheat. Mr. Tumulty's letter to Governor Allen said:

"The President has received your telegram of Oct. 6 with reference to the wheat situation, and has received a number of others of similar tenor. He fully recognizes the importance of the questions you raise, and he has therefore requested the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Agriculture to look into the matter at the earliest possible moment with a view to determine what, if anything, can properly be done. In the meantime he will appreciate it if you will be good enough to forward to the Federal Trade Commission any information in your possession which, in your opinion, tends to indicate that the recent decline in wheat prices is due to unfair practices or competition, or to other artificial causes."

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas said here tonight that he would comply with the request of President Wilson and forward to Washington information in his possession concerning the recent decline in wheat. In a statement Governor Allen said:

"As soon as I have returned to my office I will give attention to the President's request and will have forwarded to the Department of Agriculture and the Federal Trade Commission, according to his request, the facts about the situation as these facts have been developed among the Kansas wheat growers and wheat dealers.

"Almost immediately upon the reopening of the Chicago Board of Trade the wheat market lost its natural stability and began to manifest the fluctuations which characterize a manipulated market. The dealers in options, using the Canadian wheat they had bought, have driven down the wheat in the United States and have scored the most sensational decline since the war.

"When the next session of Congress assembles, undoubtedly it will restore the tariff of 25 cents a bushel with which the Republicans protected wheat."

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday ......8 per cent. for the best names
Thursday ......8 per cent. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

A Field for Knitted Cloths.

A new form of knitted cloth seen means supplying women with dress lengths with the skirt section already made. In appearance the material is just a huge stockin, and the problem of dressmaking is therefore reduced to cutting out armholes and preparing the neck opening. By those who have seen this form of fabric a wide field of demand is indicated, particularly if the goods were put out for separate sport skirts.

Where Prices Were and Are.

A silk manufacturer has complained that buyers are asking for reductions in the prices of finished goods based on the decline which has occurred in raw silk. He explained that very few of the recognized houses bought silk at its peak price of $21 a pound and that goods values were not based on that figure, but rather at the quotation of $12 to $14 a pound. Consequently, he stated, the buyer is not justified now in figuring that silks should show a decline proportionate to the drop in raw material.

Still Buying from Jobbers.

Even the largest garment wholesalers are making many of their fabric purchases from jobbers rather than from mills at the present time. Values in second hands and in other quarters where surpluses exist, they say, continue to be lower than mill quotations in many instances. This sort of purchasing has been going on for some time, and the manufacturers are understood to be well supplied with materials, especially in view of the fact that the demand for garments is not so active. There appears to be a market for novelty fabrics, but direct sales of staples are very inactive as far as the mills are concerned.

Mail Order Competition.

From rumors heard in local dry goods circles price revision by some of the large mail order concerns is by no means at an end. Certain of the houses, it is reported, are contemplating further reductions. The effort will be made, too, it is said, to discount future price declines so that some stabilization of mail order values may be obtained. Smaller stores in the rural districts are understood to be feeling the effect of the price reductions already made, and it is pointed out that even the larger retailers will be unable to compete successfully if they continue to keep up their prices so as to avoid losses on stocks bought at high figures.

Little Change in Gray Goods.

Little change was apparent in the local market for gray goods yesterday, despite the announcement of new prices on standard lines of bleached cottons. It had been thought that the pricing of the bleached goods would establish a "market" at which buyers of the gray cloths might be willing to trade actively, but this, apparently, was not the case. In the printcloths 9 cents a yard was paid for nearby deliveries of 38½-inch 60-48s. Spot business in 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths was done at 10½ cents a yard, with contracts of the same construction sold at half a cent less. October sales of 5.50-yard sheetings were transacted at 8 cents, but beyond that there was not a great deal done.

Want Men's Clothing Trade.

Considerable competition has developed in this city this Fall for retail trade in men's clothing. Not only do the department stores appear to be making greater efforts along this line than ever before, but the same is true of the more established "second floor" shops. In addition to this, at least one well-known local manufacturing clothier has lately thrown open a store in which the concern's goods are offered direct to the public. In the cases mentioned the goods are ready to wear, but yesterday a prominent "made-to-measure" house announced a direct selling campaign involving the opening to the public of its three local wholesale showrooms. With the retail clothiers also catering to the men's trade, it appears as if the way of the consumer-buyer is not going to be as hard as it has been.

Merchant Tailors' Service Bureau.

With a membership embracing several trade associations, an organization has been formed under the name of the Merchant Tailors' National Service Bureau, which will disseminate information concerning that branch of the clothing trade. The bureau plans to conduct a country-wide advertising campaign with the object of presenting to the general public the facts regarding the merchant tailoring industry. It will also endeavor to improve labor conditions in the industry by means of an educational campaign among its members and their employes, which will be aimed at the eradication of the evils of underproduction. For the advertising campaign it is asserted that a fund of $500,000 will be raised through subscriptions from jobbers and member dealers. This bureau is in charge of E. A. Binoeder, its managing director, and its headquarters are in the Ward Building, Newark, N. J.

Bleached Goods Orders Flow In.

That jobbers were not slow to take advantage of the new prices set on standard brands of bleached cotton goods, which became effective yesterday, was shown by the way orders flowed in during the day An even bigger flood of business is looked for today The new selling terms appeared to have taken very well with buyers, as they will lift from the jobbers' shoulders the burden of a too-prompt settlement for the goods and a possible payment for them in distant locations before their receipt. It is understood that the present slow movement of freight was one of the factors which entered the longer periods specified in the new terms. In certain quarters of the market issue was taken with a statement made that, on the basis of the new mill price, the retail quotation for 4-4 "Fruits" ought not to exceed 25 cents a yard. The feeling prevailed that that figure did not allow a margin large enough to insure a legitimate profit to the jobber and the retailer, and that a minimum retail price of 29 cents would be fair.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

This Week Did Not Show as Many Declines as Did Last Week.

Not only was the number of changes shown in Dun's list of wholesale commodities prices smaller this week than for some time, but the difference between the advances and the declines favored the latter by a much smaller margin than has been the case for quite a while. Furthermore, for the first time in several weeks, there was an excess of advances over declines in the section of the list given over to foodstuffs. In the general list this week there were 55 declines and 22 advances indicated, against 82 "downs" and 15 "ups" last week.

The following list gives minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corrosponding week a year ago:

Only eleven declines were shown in the foodstuffs list this week against fourteen advances. Notable among the latter in the local market were the recoveries shown by flour prices. Under the strengthening influence of the rise in wheat, Spring patents went up 50 cents a barrel and Winter straights advanced 25 cents. Middle Western lard was also higher here, but there were no changes in hams or bacon. Save for a decline in live beef, there was a solid line of advances in the Chicago provisions market.

The feature of the local dairy products list was a rise of 6 cents a dozen in nearby fancy eggs to $1.03 a dozen. The best Western eggs advanced only a cent a dozen. Butter, on the other hand, was cheaper. The best creamery stock fell off 4 cents a pound during the week to a point 10 cents a pound lower than at this time in 1919. Three cents a pound was lost by State dairy, common to fair stock. A further drop in dried apples was the only change in the listed fresh and dried fruits. In the vegetables a decline in beans contrasted with advances of 25 and 50 cents a barrel, respectively, in the prices asked for cabbage and potatoes. Coffees again declined, but teas continued unchanged. For the first time in several weeks there were no revisions in sugar prices. Spices showed declines in both white and black peppers and advances in mace and Zanzibar cloves. Open kettle molasses advanced at New Orleans.

The grain list had anvances in wheat, rye and malting barley to offset declines in corn and oats. Hops declined. Changes in the metals were all downward, but were confined to so-called minor metals. The declines included aluminium, antimony, lake and electrolytic coppers, spelter, tin and tinplate. For the first time in a long while both the hide and leather lists were bare of changes either way. Eastern crude rubber advanced during the week, but the reverse was true of the Brazilian stock. Turpentine again declined in the naval stores, but resin did not change this week.

Nearly half of all the week's declines were confined to the combined list for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils, in which but four advances were shown to compare with twenty-six revisions downward. Among the few features was a recovery in the price of foreign refined camphor. Many of the declines are said to have taken place in second hands.

The feature of the textile markets for the week was the repricing of standard brands of bleached cotton goods at what was said to be the sharpest reductions ever seen in the trade. Gray goods eased a bit more, without the saving grace of added activity to buying. Burlaps were easier in tone and price, due to price uncertainties here and in the primary markets. Not much of interest transpired in the other fabrics.

Hard Coal Men Disappointed.

Disappointment over the failure of the anthracite coal producers to make faster headway in relieving the shortage is heard on every hand, Saward's Journal will say today. Perhaps this is the best evidence, it will continue, that the distribution is being fairly conducted in the main. No one is satisfied, but, on the other hand, there is the practical certainty that coal destined for one place is not going to another. There is more or less complaint that tonnage needed in the East is being sent up the lakes or to other faraway places, but such shipments are too small, proportionately, to have much effect on the general situation hereabout. Labor unrest, the irregular car supply and other factors combine to maintain prices for bituminous coal, despite the lack of industrial consumer demand.

MANY BUYERS FOR BRONX HOME LOTS

KEEN BIDDING FOR CORNERS

In the auction sale of fifty-two lots located in Bronx by Joseph P. Day yesterday at the Vesey Street salesroom, another illustration was presented of the excellent demand in the realty market at present for well located semi-suburban property ready for home development. The lots brought a total of $50,450, averaging close to $1,000 apiece. They were in the West Bronx section, many fronting on the West Farms Road. The property was sold by order of William R. Rose, representing various owners. There was a good attendance at the sale, and bidding, especially for the choice corner parcels, was very spirited.

A large plot, 100 by 100 feet, at the southeast corner of Longfellow Avenue and 172d Street, was sold to Alfred F. Miller for $4,000. Inside lots on the north side of Longfellow Avenue between 172d and 173d Streets brought from $400 to $600 each. A triangular plot, 140.8 by 97.5 by 137, at the junction of West Farms Road and Boone Avenue was purchased for $8,600 by Fred Freiden, who plans to erect a garage on the site. David Vogel bought two lots on West Farms Road, near Boone Avenue, for $900. Six lots, on a plot 100.2 by 145, at the northeast corner of West Farms Road and 173d Street, were sold for $3,150 to C. Rosenblatt. L. Blaternasky purchased seven lots in the east side of Longfellow Avenue, between Jennings and 172d Street, for $1,575.

Next Thursday there will be another opportunity for Bronx buyers when Mr. Day sells the former Schieffelin estate property of 456 lots in the Eastchester Road section. The tract lies close to the 225th Street and Baychester Avenue subway stations of the White Plains Road.

That the auction market is a very live one was conclusively seen last Saturday in the disposal at one session by Mr. Day of 730 lots in the lower Yonkers area, close to the New York City line for a total of $274,745.

HOLDUP RECALLS DEATH MYSTERY

ONE CAUGHT AFTER CHASE

The two men in whose room the body of Edward Hall Crim, West Virginia banker, was found on Aug. 8, were in the lineup at Police Headquarters yesterday morning after they had been accused of attempting to rob Louis Vres, proprietor of a restaurant at 107 West Thirty-sixth Street. They were held in $5,000 bail each by Magistrate Tobias in the Jefferson Market Court for further examination on Tuesday.

One of the men, who said he was Edward Troy, was captured by patrolmen after a chase from Thirty-sixth Street to Forty-second Street and Third Avenue and thence back through Forty-second Street to Fifth Avenue. Hundreds of commuters who were leaving Grand Central Station saw the finish.

Troy was identified by Vros as one of four men who attempted to hold him up as he opened his restaurant, and the police started at once for Troy's poolroom at 105 West Thirty-eighth Street, where they arrested his partner and roommate, James J. Ready.

It was Ready who called the police to his room at 158 West Thirty-fourth Street at 6 A. M. Aug. 8, and showed them Crim's body on the floor. Ready said he had spent the night at a hotel and stumbled over the body when he entered the room. His roommate, Troy, also was absent on that night, and told the police the next day that he had never seen Crim before.

The Medical Examiner reported that Crim's death had been caused by an overdose of drugs and liquor, but the police found only 27 cents in the dead man's pockets. It was said by Crim's friends that he always carried a large sum of money and wore diamonds and other jewelry. The police accepted the alibis of Ready and Troy.

Both Ready and Troy steadfastly held to their original alibis in the Crim case when they were questioned yesterday by detectives.

Several lunchrooms in Seventh Avenue, between Thirty-fourth and Forty-second Streets, have reported thefts in the last few days by a gang of men, who operated at night. Their ruse was to try to get the proprietor into a chase after one of their number so that the others could rob the cash register.

With the arrest of two men yesterday at Elmhurst, L. I., with a kit of burglar's tools tied up with baby ribbon in candy boxes, it became known that fifty-two burglaries had been reported in the last week to the Newtown police station by persons living at Forest Hills. Other burglaries have been reported in Elmhurst, Flushing and other Long Island towns.

Patrolman William Harrer arrested the two men at Continental Avenue, Forest Hills, when he saw them carrying two neat bundles. When stopped, the men said they were carrying packages of candy for their "lady friends." At the police station it was found the "candy boxes" contained two pistols, ten feet of rope, two bundles of skeleton keys, a flashlight, a glass cutter, two sectional jimmies and two pairs of silk gloves.

The men said they were Harry P. Reilly of 506 West 169th Street, and Leon Cubler of 483 Lincoln Avenue, Staten Island. They were held in $4,000 bail each by Magistrate Conway, in the Flushing Police Court.

Circular letters were sent yesterday to all the residents of Forest Hills by the Community Council, asking for reports of losses, and it is estimated that the total will be more than $30,000. The Council also sent a plea to Police Commissioner Enright for more policemen.

Several other arrests in burglary cases were reported by the police yesterday. Several thousand dollars worth of loot was found in the rooms of David Morrison and James Savage at 1,702 Madison Avenue, after they had been arrested in a pawnshop. Some of it was identified by Luman Reed of 2,276 Creston Avenue, the Bronx, as having been taken from his apartment on Thursday.

ROTHSTEIN CALLED IN CHICAGO INQUIRY

ASKS FOR 3 ST. LOUIS MEN

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The Cook County Grand Jury, investigating the baseball scandal, issued a subpoena today for Arnold Rothstein of New York and for three men in St. Louis to appear before it next Tuesday, when it will reconvene. Rothstein was mentioned by several witnesses previously and will be asked particularly, it was said, concerning any talks he may have had with Abe Attell or Bill Burns concerning the possibility of "fixing" the 1919 world series.

Assistant State's Attorney Replogle, in charge of the inquiry, telegraphed Rothstein tonight asking him to appear.

The St. Louis men called are Harry Redmond, Joseph Pasch and Thomas C. Kearney. Redmond's business address was understood to be the Majestic Theatre, East St. Louis, Ill.

It was said that they would be asked to substantiate the testimony of "Kid" Gleason, Chicago American League manager, concerning a trip he made to St. Louis last Fall to investigate possible crookedness in the series.

Startling developments in connection with the Grand Jury's investigation of baseball gambling next week were predicted today by President Ban Johnson of the American League, in discussing his reasons for sending a telegram to President Heydler of the National League, opposing as premature the conference of the club owners here Monday to frame a new governing tribunal for professional baseball.

"I do not care to attend any conference to discuss a new baseball tribunal until the report of the Special Grand Jury, which reconvenes on Tuesday, is made, and I know whom it indicts," he said.

Johnson admitted having wired President Heydler his belief that the conference of major league club owners scheduled for Monday would be a mistake in view of the incompleted work of the Cook County Grand Jury. He said:

"This Grand Jury has accomplished already what no other agency has been able to do, and has done it with a celerity that astonished everybody. Its work is not finished. In fact, it is my information that clues are now in hand which may lead to the disclosure of more facts than have yet been dreamed of. I believe that all attempts to reform baseball by new tribunals should be deferred until we know 'who's who in baseball.'

"Some people have been made sore by the exposures already made. More may be made sore when the information likely to come before the Grand Jury next week is known.

"No other investigating body, incapable of summoning witnesses and examining them under oath, could have turned up the crookedness that has already been uncovered by the Grand Jury in the short space of time in which it was done. I believe the developments of the coming week will be even more surprising to the public.

"Judge McDonald is honest in his determination to expose all dishonesty in baseball, and I am willing to give him all the aid in my power. I think all the friends of baseball ought to stand by him and await the decision of this Grand Jury before taking any further action.

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—Abe Attell, ex-pugilist, whose name has figured prominently in connection with the baseball exposure, is now residing in Montreal, according to The Herald.

When interviewed here today Attell is quoted as saying that he had been living in Montreal since the investigation began. When told that he was being sought in the United States, he is said to have replied:

A report was circulated in Ossining last night that some of the jewelry stolen from Mr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Chapman and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Danforth, residents of the Sleepy Hollow Country Club, at Scarsborough-on-the-Hudson, had been found, but detectives working on the crime, asserted they knew nothing of the discovery. An empty handbag of Mrs. Chapman's was found on the roof of the club house, and a pin tray, which also had been rifled, was found on the lawn under a bush. A pocketbook of Mr. Danforth's was found under a tree.

A further survey of their losses, convinced the Chapmans and Danforths that the burglar was a discriminating person, and that he must have worked leisurely while they slept. For the thief was able to select from a collection of hatpins, belonging to Mrs. Chapman, four set with diamonds, leaving two with imitation stones. In the room of the Danforths, he selected from a collection of forty neckties, twelve which were entirely new. A piece of stone, which had been dislodged from the cornice of the porch, was found on the lawn and upon it were found strands of a hemp rope, which it is now assumed the criminal used in making his entrance or exit, or both.

The Board of Governors of the club are planning ample protection for the guests of the club, and contemplate the use of police dogs.

Steamship Man Indicted.

Robert S. Wild, 30, of 1,612 Tenth Avenue, Brooklyn, a member of the Maritime Exchange, and President of the Northern Stevedoring Company, 2 Stone Street, Manhattan, was indicted yesterday on a charge of grand larceny. He was arrested and will be arraigned today. It is charged that Mr. Wild, formerly a Vice President of the Five Continent Steamship Company, had diverted $1,500 due the company for wharfage rentals and rebates on coal. At that time Mr. Wild's salary from the steamship company was $25,000.

TALES OF RICORO

A Detective Tale of Ricoro

"I HAVE a joke on the house detective," said the hotel manager, smiling, "and the best part of it is that he's had to buy me a box of Ricoros to keep me silent about it. But as long as you're not a member of the staff, I'll relate the tale.

"Williams, the detective, got to talking with our new assistant cashier one evening as he came off duty. It happened the assistant didn't know Williams—just took him for one of the guests.

"'Smoke many of these?' he asked.

"'Quite a few,' Horgan told him. 'They're . . . .'

"Somebody interrupted them just then and Williams came almost immediately to me.

"'That clerk will bear watching,' he said. 'He smokes altogether too good cigars for a man on his salary.'

"That's how I came to call Horgan into my office the next day for a friendly warning.

"'Young man,' I said, 'we can't afford to have you handling money in this hotel when you smoke cigars you can't afford. The house detective says . . . . .'

"'If you'll try this brand,' he said, 'you'll understand why Williams thought them too expensive for me. But the laugh is on Williams when I tell you that these are Ricoros, eleven cents apiece.'"
